All-Out Indonesian Attack Against Malaysia Feared

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Sukarno's announcement that Indonesia has walked out of the United Nations stirred speculation today that it foreshadows an all-out military attack on Malaysia.

These suspicions at U.N. headquarters were heightened by a letter from Malaysia to the Security Council charging that Indonesia is building up its forces along the Borneo frontier between Malaysia and Indonesia.

The Malaysian government said it would seek U.N. aid at once if Indonesia launches attacks more intensive than the sporadic guerrilla raids it has been making across the Borneo border and the small parties of infiltrators it has been landing on the Malaysian Peninsula.

Sukarno claims Malaysia is a device to preserve British colonialism in Southeast Asia and has pledged his nation will crush the young federation before next year.

An Indonesian source at the United Nations said a stepup in armed attacks on Malaysia was possible as a result of Indonesia's withdrawal from the organization.

"We are strong enough to crush Malaysia, a stooge of neo-

Two Sapphires Recovered, but Ruby Missing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The priceless Star of India and Midnight sapphires — stolen Oct. 29 in a sensational burglary from New York's American Museum of Natural History —were found by New York detectives today in a Miami bus station locker.

But the third gem with a priceless label, the blood-red Delong ruby, apparently was not recovered.

Reliable informants said an anonymous telephone tip sent the detectives rushing shortly after midnight to the downtown Miami bus station where they found the fiery blue, 563-carat "Star" and the deep purple

INVESTIGATING—Horace Woehler of the City Utilities Department checks the wiring after the Chemistry Laboratory storeroom fire at Palmer High School Thursday night. Much wiring was damaged. Palmer High Chemistry Lab Damaged by Blaze

Fire of undetermined origin Thursday night damaged a storeroom at the north end of the chemistry laboratory at the Palmer High School, Platte Avenue and Weber Street, to the amount of possibly $3,000. It was a two alarm fire. Five engine companies of the Fire Department were called out, as well as the big aerial truck.

The fire was on the third floor in the old building of the school on Weber Street, and in the room where it occurred there was a vent which had been a chimney. The flames shot up through this and soared about 15 feet above the building. This made it look, at first, even to the firemen, as if the roof of the building was on fire.

Fire Chief Fred Lausch said this morning that there was no fire in the attic or on the roof, and that it was contained entirely in the Chemistry Laboratory storeroom. In fighting it, however, two lines of 2½ inch hose were laid, and there is some water damage to the building.

The first alarm of the fire was received by the Fire Department at 7:13 p.m. Companies 1, 2, 4 and the aerial responded. Chief Lausch turned in a second alarm at 7:17 p.m. This called out two more engine companies. It was 9:54 p.m. when the last company returned to its station.

Chief Lausch said today that

Ex-Fountain Chief Asks For Details of Charges

Fountain's ex-Police Chief William Soltwedel says he asked for a public hearing when he was fired by the town's board of trustees in an unannounced meeting Dec. 21.

At the time he asked for the hearing, Soltwedel also asked that the details of the charges filed against him be sent to him before the hearing. The hearing is set for Monday night. Soltwedel has not seen a complete list of the charges, nor clarification of those charges.

"I asked for a fair and honest hearing," Soltwedel said this morning, "because I wanted a chance to answer the board in public. They said I failed to patrol and protect property in the town park and business district properly. They said I failed to attend meetings and give reports which they asked for. They said I failed to enforce town ordinances and did not train patrolmen under my jurisdiction properly.

"My lawyer wrote a letter to the board asking for the times and dates of these incidents. He told them in the letter we need-

Strike Locks Out Thousands Of Hotel Guests

DETROIT (AP) —Thousands of hotel guests shifted for themselves a good deal today, victims of reduced services in a combined strike and lockout at nine major hotels.

Maids, waitresses, porters, some bartenders and other helpers to the visiting traveler were off the job. About 2,300 were idle.

Seven of the nine hotels locked out their workers Thursday after members of the Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders International Union struck two other hotels.

The union is in a new contract dispute with the Detroit Hotel Association, bargaining spokesman for the hotels.

Wages are at issue, among other items. The union insists on a minimum pay of $1.50 an hour for employes who don't get tips, and $1 for those who do get tips.

Management has said it has made offers approximating or exceding these demands when fringe benefits are counted.

Nearby eating places have filled the emergency bill in most instances.

Elevator help has stayed on duty in hotels where the elevators still are manually operated.

Civil Defense 'All Clear' Has 'Weaknesses'

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON — The Office of U.S. Education has just signed a $50,716 contract with the State of Colorado Department of Education for a training program in Civil Defense.

It has been found that the present system of sounding "all clear" has weaknesses that the training course is expected to clear up. After the "all clear" has been sounded in attacked areas there may still exist "pockets" of danger. The personnel that will take this course of training, would be sent out to the endangered areas to check conditiions before the final "all clear" word goes out.

Since the contract was just signed January 6 details of the training program have not been worked out. It is expected that details of the initial schooling will be made public in Denver within a short time.

Accused U.S. Spy Faces Possible Death Sentence

By LARRY FRIEDMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Glenn Thompson, 29, a husky Air Force veteran, faces a possible death sentence on charges that he sold military secrets to the Soviet Union with the aid of three Russians.

One of the Russians, named as a co-conspirator in the three-count federal indictment Thursday, was ordered expelled from the country by the State Department. He is Boris V. Karpovich, a counselor in the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

Thompson pleaded innocent at his arraignment on charges that he furnished military data to Soviet agents from 1957-1963 and received payments totaling $1,700. U.S. Atty. Joseph E. Hoey commented that payments listed in the indictment were only samples and that there were many more.

Thompson was released on $15,000 bail by U.S. Dist. Judge Walter Bruchhausen in Brooklyn. No trial date was set.

His German-born wife, Eveline, 26, whom he married while serving with the Air Force Office of Special Investigation in Berlin, was at the arraignment. They have three children, Patricia, 9, Karen, 6, and Dean, 2.

"I don't believe any of these charges," Mrs. Thompson told newsmen. "My husband would never have done anything like this against his country. He will be cleared."

The indictment alleges that Thompson was involved in an espionage network, obtaining information for the Russians on U.S. military installations, missile sites, code books and intelligence and counterintelligence activities, including the identity of American agents. The government alleged 13 overt acts.

The spy operations were said to have occurred in East and

Explosion Marks Margaret's Visit in Ireland

ABBEYLEIX, Ireland (AP) — Police rounded up suspected members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army today after an explosion put out the lights and broke windows at the country mansion where Princess Margaret is visiting.

No one was hurt in the explosion, which occurred in a power transformer about three miles from the mansion. It apparently was part of an IRA campaign to make the sister of Queen Elizabeth II feel unwelcome in Ireland.

Irish security forces said at least seven men were arrested, six in Waterford and another in Kilkenny. It was not known if any of them were implicated in the transformer explosion.

They were to be held at least until the princess leaves for home on Sunday.

One report said a group of Republican extremists threw a bomb at security men in a fight south of Abbeyleix.

The explosion Thursday night blacked out Abbeyleix House, an 18th century house, several hours after the princess and her husband, Lord Snowdon, arrived there to visit his brother-in-law and sister, Viscount and Viscountess de Vesci.

Police said saboteurs threw a heavy wire across high voltage cables near the De Vescis' mansion. The resulting short circuit set off the explosion. The town of Abbeyleix and the surrounding countryside were blacked out.

Security men started checking on known leaders of the IRA and other extreme anti-British groups.

Love Asks 29.3 Per Cent State Revenue Increase

Industrialist Roger Milliken Gives $25,000 Grant to Rampart College

A $25,000 unrestricted grant to Rampart College from industrialist Roger Milliken was announced this morning by William Froh, president of the college.

The Milliken organization is one of the world's largest producers of woven fabrics with principal offices in Spartansburg, S. C.

Since 1961, when Milliken's organization began to have their executives trained through techniques developed at Rampart College, the firm has made substantial periodic grants to further this work.

"The immediate financial goal is $1 million," Froh said, "for development of the first phase at the college."

He said this would be creation of the Rampart College graduate school to accomplish the building program and hire scholars.

"When the graduate school is in full operation steps will be taken to raise the full $5 million budget originally announced as the goal for establishing Rampart College as a four-year liberal arts institution," Froh explained.

"During the past two years the college has accumulated a portion of the sum. However, most of the support has come from outside the state. Local support has been disappointing," Froh added.

He said that the organization of Rampart College has given us confidence that the enthusiasm of our local backers "will receive new impetus and we can take rapid strides in the immediate goal of the Rampart College graduate school.

Froh reminded that the college will not accept government grants and subsidies and has a firm policy to seek support only from the free market-private property sector.

"We believe that only in this way can we justify the faith in us evidenced by so many," Froh explained.

Businesses, Others Clash Over Ordinance for Signs

Concentrating signs advertising local businesses in "advertising bays" was suggested Thursday by City Planning Commissioner Keith Hook.

The suggestion, which Hook said was not his own, was made Thursday afternoon during a meeting of the joint sign committee in City Council chambers. This committee is composed of the city and county planning commissions.

Many persons — representing the sign industry, businesses, civic groups and themselves — turned out to speak on the economic, aesthetic and safety factors they believe are associated with signs.

Persons favoring a restrictive sign ordinance agreed that advertising bays, like the business sign directory at Aspen, would be a good thing, especially since they would be located off the highways.

Mrs. William Boddington, 1432 Alamo Ave., agreed with Hook's suggestion. However she said something seldom voiced by even the opponents of liberal sign laws. "I would like signs not allowed at all," said Mrs. Boddington.

Many of the persons speaking gave planners homework, in the form of letters, lengthy written statements and booklets, to take home for study.

Under discussion was a proposed ordinance to regulate signs in both Colorado Springs and El Paso County. The city presently has such an ordinance. The proposed ordinance was circulated weeks before the meeting. It was drafted, after there was opposition to an earlier proposed ordinance, from the sign industry.

The sign industry and businesses did not object to the size limits of the proposed ordinance, which are especially

Former Carson Man Sentenced For Robbery

Denver District Judge Edward J. Keating sentenced a former Ft. Carson soldier, Joel K. Whitman, to 20 to 40 years in prison Thursday for aggravated robbery.

Whitman is serving a life term in the State Penitentiary for murder. The robbery sentence will be concurrent with the murder sentence.

Whitman was fleeing the scene of a robbery March 16, 1964, when the car he was driving struck another automobile, killing the driver.

Gary D. Adamson, Whitman's companion and a former Ft. Carson soldier, is serving a 20 to 40-year penitentiary term for second degree murder and aggravated robbery.

The two soldiers were wanted here for investigation of two robberies: one on March 14, 1964, at the Site Service Station Co., 4320 N. Nevada Ave., and the second on March 11, 1964, at the W. W. Gas Ranch, 1207 S. Nevada Ave.

Neither were charged here, however. In the chase in the March 16 armed robbery in Denver, Whitman was arrested at the scene when his car struck another car, killing the driver, and Adamson was later picked up and returned to Denver.

Letter Finds Its Way to 'Copper Cutie'

Neither rain, snow, etc., or a cryptic message detained a Colorado Springs postman Thursday from delivering a letter to a female clerk in the city's Violations Bureau.

On back of the envelope was scrawled: "Postman, postman, do your duty, send this to a copper cutie."

Only one of the three women clerks in the bureau fit the description: comely Lenay Hoppa whose hair is a burnished copper shade. (The other two are brunettes.)

Mrs. Hoppa found $2 in the envelope, payment for an overtime parking violation.

Greeting Cards Are Designed for Dogs, Now

By MARGARET SCHERF

DES PLAINES, Ill. (AP) — Two enterprising housewives and a cartoonist have come up with a special holiday pat for your pet.

They've designed greeting cards for canines, and are turning them out by the litter.

The housewives got the idea last September when a friend's dog became ill.

"We wanted to send the dog a get-well card but all we could come up with was a converted people's card," Mrs. Robert Olson, one of the housewives, said in an interview.

"There certainly should be get-well cards for animals," said her friend, Mrs. Felix Czubakowski.

So they collaborated with cartoonist Art Henrikson and began turning out animal greeting cards.

"Now we have birthday and get-well cards and litter announcements," Mrs. Olson said.

The cards, "strictly for dogs,"

Army Snaps Too Many Photos, General Says

That's the view of the Army chief of staff, Gen. Harold K. Johnson. So he has ordered the practice curbed.

A little over a month ago Johnson expressed his feelings in a letter to his top commanders around the world, signed "Johnny." The letter has just become available.

El Paso County Solons Get Two Chairmanships

El Paso County landed two chairmanships when the Colorado Senate organized on the first day of the General Assembly.

The Senate has 20 standing committees. All are chaired in the 45th General Assembly by Republicans because the party has a 20-15 majority in the house, thus giving it clear control.

Generally speaking, a Senate standing committee has 10 members. This year, in accordance with the basic, difference in party strength in the house, the committees are divided six Republicans and four Democrats.

Inaugural Ball May Be Giant Snafu in Capital

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON —(Special) — The huge inaugural ball is turning out to be a giant-size ball-up.

With arrangements set to accommodate 30,000 guests, Inaugural Chairman Dale Miller is being snowed under with requests he can't decline to send out more than 100,000 invitations.

If even half accept, he is in one hot jam.

President and Mrs. Johnson alone have deluged their old Texas-lobbyist friend with invitation lists totaling some 60,000.

Vice President-elect Humphrey's lists exceed 30,000. And another 10,000 names have poured in from members of Congress, administration officials, state and local party leaders and others — and they're still coming.

Capping this jumbo headache is another hefty snarl.

The Inaugural Committee ran out of the flossy invitations, and is having a rugged time meeting the flood of requests.

Initially, Miller ordered 30,000 invitations and envelopes. When the lists for them mushroomed to more than triple that number, with no end still in sight, he hurriedly got in touch with the Texas firm doing this expensive printing.

Its response was another jarring blow.

The necessary special paper was out of stock, would have to be obtained from the mill, with a resulting unavoidable delay.

That started another round of tribulations.

As invitations became available, the White House lists got priority consideration. As a consequence, complaints began rolling in from Humphrey's friends and partisans throughout the DENVER (UPI)— Gov. John Love asked the Colorado Legislature today for revenue-raising legislation to produce $46.5 million more than the estimated revenue this year.

The revenue increase is 29.3 per cent.

Love, in his annual budget message, recommended revenue of $205,393,718 for fiscal 1965-66. The figure is nearly double the revenue the state had five years ago.

The governor said the estimated revenue for the current fiscal year was $158,833,226.

Love put forth a budget totaling $195,748,105, thus leaving room for a possible surplus of nearly $10 million. The budget figure is a 23.2 per cent increase over estimated expenditures for this fiscal year.

Elementary and secondary schools would receive the largest chunk, $76,402,093, an increase of 36.1 per cent. Institutions of higher learning would receive $42,154,065, a 19.8 per cent hike.

Budget Lists Institutions in Springs Area

Gov. John A. Love today included a $25,000 request in his annual budget message to the State Legislature, for master planning for the University of Colorado Extension Center in Colorado Springs.

Also included in the budget request was a budget of $34,007,842 for operations of the University of Colorado. Of the operating money, $20,177,695 would be for the campus at Boulder and the extension centers.

The governor also included in his budget a recommendation of $827,963 for the School for the Deaf and Blind in Colorado Springs. This compares with $806,596 this year and requests of $866,815.

The recommendations are for operations during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Gov. Love recommended a budget of $42,154,065 for operating state colleges and universities during the coming fiscal year, of which the University of Colorado would receive the largest share.

Burch Continues Effort to Stay In Top GOP Post

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch insisted today he can help build a GOP comeback, but his foes claimed the votes to oust him and to put Ray Bliss in his place.

"I seek to remain as chairman because this nation needs a two-party system," Burch said in an address prepared for the National Press Club. Only "a political miracle," he said, could have elected a Republican president in 1964.

Bliss, the Ohio State GOP chairman, was silent.

But one top Republican said the forces opposing Burch have the National Committee votes to demand his ouster. This source said they have settled on Bliss as the man to succeed him.

Palmer High Chemistry Lab Damaged by Blaze

Fire of undetermined origin Thursday night damaged a storeroom at the north end of the chemistry laboratory at the Palmer High School, Platte Avenue and Weber Street, to the amount of possibly $3,000. It was a two alarm fire. Five engine companies of the Fire Department were called out, as well as the big aerial truck.

The fire was on the third floor in the old building of the school on Weber Street, and in the room where it occurred there was a vent which had been a chimney. The flames shot up through this and soared about 15 feet above the building. This made it look, at first, even to the firemen, as if the roof of the building was on fire.

Fire Chief Fred Lausch said this morning that there was no fire in the attic or on the roof, and that it was contained entirely in the Chemistry Laboratory storeroom. In fighting it, however, two lines of 2½ inch hose were laid, and there is some water damage to the building.

The first alarm of the fire was received by the Fire Department at 7:13 p.m. Companies 1, 2, 4 and the aerial responded. Chief Lausch turned in a second alarm at 7:17 p.m. This called out two more engine companies. It was 9:54 p.m. when the last company returned to its station.

Chief Lausch said today that

Ex-Fountain Chief Asks For Details of Charges

Fountain's ex-Police Chief William Soltwedel says he asked for a public hearing when he was fired by the town's board of trustees in an unannounced meeting Dec. 21.

At the time he asked for the hearing, Soltwedel also asked that the details of the charges filed against him be sent to him before the hearing. The hearing is set for Monday night. Soltwedel has not seen a complete list of the charges, nor clarification of those charges.

"I asked for a fair and honest hearing," Soltwedel said this morning, "because I wanted a chance to answer the board in public. They said I failed to patrol and protect property in the town park and business district properly. They said I failed to attend meetings and give reports which they asked for. They said I failed to enforce town ordinances and did not train patrolmen under my jurisdiction properly.

"My lawyer wrote a letter to the board asking for the times and dates of these incidents. He told them in the letter we need-

By LARRY FRIEDMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Glenn Thompson, 29, a husky Air Force veteran, faces a possible death sentence on charges that he sold military secrets to the Soviet Union with the aid of three Russians.

One of the Russians, named as a co-conspirator in the three-count federal indictment Thursday, was ordered expelled from the country by the State Department. He is Boris V. Karpovich, a counselor in the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

Thompson pleaded innocent at his arraignment on charges that he furnished military data to Soviet agents from 1957-1963 and received payments totaling $1,700. U.S. Atty. Joseph E. Hoey commented that payments listed in the indictment were only samples and that there were many more.

Thompson was released on $15,000 bail by U.S. Dist. Judge Walter Bruchhausen in Brooklyn. No trial date was set.

His German-born wife, Eveline, 26, whom he married while serving with the Air Force Office of Special Investigation in Berlin, was at the arraignment. They have three children, Patricia, 9, Karen, 6, and Dean, 2.

"I don't believe any of these charges," Mrs. Thompson told newsmen. "My husband would never have done anything like this against his country. He will be cleared."

The indictment alleges that Thompson was involved in an espionage network, obtaining information for the Russians on U.S. military installations, missile sites, code books and intelligence and counterintelligence activities, including the identity of American agents. The government alleged 13 overt acts.

The spy operations were said to have occurred in East and

Strike Locks Out Thousands Of Hotel Guests

DETROIT (AP) —Thousands of hotel guests shifted for themselves a good deal today, victims of reduced services in a combined strike and lockout at nine major hotels.

Maids, waitresses, porters, some bartenders and other helpers to the visiting traveler were off the job. About 2,300 were idle.

Seven of the nine hotels locked out their workers Thursday after members of the Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders International Union struck two other hotels.

The union is in a new contract dispute with the Detroit Hotel Association, bargaining spokesman for the hotels.

Wages are at issue, among other items. The union insists on a minimum pay of $1.50 an hour for employes who don't get tips, and $1 for those who do get tips.

Management has said it has made offers approximating or exceding these demands when fringe benefits are counted.

Nearby eating places have filled the emergency bill in most instances.

Elevator help has stayed on duty in hotels where the elevators still are manually operated.

Civil Defense 'All Clear' Has 'Weaknesses'

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON — The Office of U.S. Education has just signed a $50,716 contract with the State of Colorado Department of Education for a training program in Civil Defense.

It has been found that the present system of sounding "all clear" has weaknesses that the training course is expected to clear up. After the "all clear" has been sounded in attacked areas there may still exist "pockets" of danger. The personnel that will take this course of training, would be sent out to the endangered areas to check conditiions before the final "all clear" word goes out.

Since the contract was just signed January 6 details of the training program have not been worked out. It is expected that details of the initial schooling will be made public in Denver within a short time.

Explosion Marks Margaret's Visit in Ireland

ABBEYLEIX, Ireland (AP) — Police rounded up suspected members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army today after an explosion put out the lights and broke windows at the country mansion where Princess Margaret is visiting.

No one was hurt in the explosion, which occurred in a power transformer about three miles from the mansion. It apparently was part of an IRA campaign to make the sister of Queen Elizabeth II feel unwelcome in Ireland.

Irish security forces said at least seven men were arrested, six in Waterford and another in Kilkenny. It was not known if any of them were implicated in the transformer explosion.

They were to be held at least until the princess leaves for home on Sunday.

One report said a group of Republican extremists threw a bomb at security men in a fight south of Abbeyleix.

The explosion Thursday night blacked out Abbeyleix House, an 18th century house, several hours after the princess and her husband, Lord Snowdon, arrived there to visit his brother-in-law and sister, Viscount and Viscountess de Vesci.

Police said saboteurs threw a heavy wire across high voltage cables near the De Vescis' mansion. The resulting short circuit set off the explosion. The town of Abbeyleix and the surrounding countryside were blacked out.

Security men started checking on known leaders of the IRA and other extreme anti-British groups.

Greeting Cards Are Designed for Dogs, Now

By MARGARET SCHERF

DES PLAINES, Ill. (AP) — Two enterprising housewives and a cartoonist have come up with a special holiday pat for your pet.

They've designed greeting cards for canines, and are turning them out by the litter.

The housewives got the idea last September when a friend's dog became ill.

"We wanted to send the dog a get-well card but all we could come up with was a converted people's card," Mrs. Robert Olson, one of the housewives, said in an interview.

"There certainly should be get-well cards for animals," said her friend, Mrs. Felix Czubakowski.

So they collaborated with cartoonist Art Henrikson and began turning out animal greeting cards.

"Now we have birthday and get-well cards and litter announcements," Mrs. Olson said.

The cards, "strictly for dogs,"

Love Asks 29.3 Per Cent State Revenue Increase

DENVER (UPI)— Gov. John Love asked the Colorado Legislature today for revenue-raising legislation to produce $46.5 million more than the estimated revenue this year.

The revenue increase is 29.3 per cent.

Love, in his annual budget message, recommended revenue of $205,393,718 for fiscal 1965-66. The figure is nearly double the revenue the state had five years ago.

The governor said the estimated revenue for the current fiscal year was $158,833,226.

Love put forth a budget totaling $195,748,105, thus leaving room for a possible surplus of nearly $10 million. The budget figure is a 23.2 per cent increase over estimated expenditures for this fiscal year.

Elementary and secondary schools would receive the largest chunk, $76,402,093, an increase of 36.1 per cent. Institutions of higher learning would receive $42,154,065, a 19.8 per cent hike.

Industrialist Roger Milliken Gives $25,000 Grant to Rampart College

A $25,000 unrestricted grant to Rampart College from industrialist Roger Milliken was announced this morning by William Froh, president of the college.

The Milliken organization is one of the world's largest producers of woven fabrics with principal offices in Spartansburg, S. C.

Since 1961, when Milliken's organization began to have their executives trained through techniques developed at Rampart College, the firm has made substantial periodic grants to further this work.

"The immediate financial goal is $1 million," Froh said, "for development of the first phase at the college."

He said this would be creation of the Rampart College graduate school to accomplish the building program and hire scholars.

"When the graduate school is in full operation steps will be taken to raise the full $5 million budget originally announced as the goal for establishing Rampart College as a four-year liberal arts institution," Froh explained.

"During the past two years the college has accumulated a portion of the sum. However, most of the support has come from outside the state. Local support has been disappointing," Froh added.

He said that the organization of Rampart College has given us confidence that the enthusiasm of our local backers "will receive new impetus and we can take rapid strides in the immediate goal of the Rampart College graduate school.

Froh reminded that the college will not accept government grants and subsidies and has a firm policy to seek support only from the free market-private property sector.

"We believe that only in this way can we justify the faith in us evidenced by so many," Froh explained.

Businesses, Others Clash Over Ordinance for Signs

Concentrating signs advertising local businesses in "advertising bays" was suggested Thursday by City Planning Commissioner Keith Hook.

The suggestion, which Hook said was not his own, was made Thursday afternoon during a meeting of the joint sign committee in City Council chambers. This committee is composed of the city and county planning commissions.

Many persons — representing the sign industry, businesses, civic groups and themselves — turned out to speak on the economic, aesthetic and safety factors they believe are associated with signs.

Persons favoring a restrictive sign ordinance agreed that advertising bays, like the business sign directory at Aspen, would be a good thing, especially since they would be located off the highways.

Mrs. William Boddington, 1432 Alamo Ave., agreed with Hook's suggestion. However she said something seldom voiced by even the opponents of liberal sign laws. "I would like signs not allowed at all," said Mrs. Boddington.

Many of the persons speaking gave planners homework, in the form of letters, lengthy written statements and booklets, to take home for study.

Under discussion was a proposed ordinance to regulate signs in both Colorado Springs and El Paso County. The city presently has such an ordinance. The proposed ordinance was circulated weeks before the meeting. It was drafted, after there was opposition to an earlier proposed ordinance, from the sign industry.

The sign industry and businesses did not object to the size limits of the proposed ordinance, which are especially

Letter Finds Its Way to 'Copper Cutie'

Neither rain, snow, etc., or a cryptic message detained a Colorado Springs postman Thursday from delivering a letter to a female clerk in the city's Violations Bureau.

On back of the envelope was scrawled: "Postman, postman, do your duty, send this to a copper cutie."

Only one of the three women clerks in the bureau fit the description: comely Lenay Hoppa whose hair is a burnished copper shade. (The other two are brunettes.)

Mrs. Hoppa found $2 in the envelope, payment for an overtime parking violation.

Former Carson Man Sentenced For Robbery

Denver District Judge Edward J. Keating sentenced a former Ft. Carson soldier, Joel K. Whitman, to 20 to 40 years in prison Thursday for aggravated robbery.

Whitman is serving a life term in the State Penitentiary for murder. The robbery sentence will be concurrent with the murder sentence.

Whitman was fleeing the scene of a robbery March 16, 1964, when the car he was driving struck another automobile, killing the driver.

Gary D. Adamson, Whitman's companion and a former Ft. Carson soldier, is serving a 20 to 40-year penitentiary term for second degree murder and aggravated robbery.

The two soldiers were wanted here for investigation of two robberies: one on March 14, 1964, at the Site Service Station Co., 4320 N. Nevada Ave., and the second on March 11, 1964, at the W. W. Gas Ranch, 1207 S. Nevada Ave.

Neither were charged here, however. In the chase in the March 16 armed robbery in Denver, Whitman was arrested at the scene when his car struck another car, killing the driver, and Adamson was later picked up and returned to Denver.

Army Snaps Too Many Photos, General Says

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Too many Army people are spending too much effort taking too many official pictures. What's more, it's costing too much.

That's the view of the Army chief of staff, Gen. Harold K. Johnson. So he has ordered the practice curbed.

A little over a month ago Johnson expressed his feelings in a letter to his top commanders around the world, signed "Johnny." The letter has just become available.

"In recent years, my concern has grown steadily over the amount of money and effort the Army spends on picture tak-

El Paso County Solons Get Two Chairmanships

El Paso County landed two chairmanships when the Colorado Senate organized on the first day of the General Assembly.

The Senate has 20 standing committees. All are chaired in the 45th General Assembly by Republicans because the party has a 20-15 majority in the house, thus giving it clear control.

Generally speaking, a Senate standing committee has 10 members. This year, in accordance with the basic, difference in party strength in the house, the committees are divided six Republicans and four Democrats.

Inaugural Ball May Be Giant Snafu in Capital

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON —(Special) — The huge inaugural ball is turning out to be a giant-size ball-up.

With arrangements set to accommodate 30,000 guests, Inaugural Chairman Dale Miller is being snowed under with requests he can't decline to send out more than 100,000 invitations.

If even half accept, he is in one hot jam.

President and Mrs. Johnson alone have deluged their old Texas-lobbyist friend with invitation lists totaling some 60,000.

Vice President-elect Humphrey's lists exceed 30,000. And another 10,000 names have poured in from members of Congress, administration officials, state and local party leaders and others — and they're still coming.

Capping this jumbo headache is another hefty snarl.

The Inaugural Committee ran out of the flossy invitations, and is having a rugged time meeting the flood of requests.

Initially, Miller ordered 30,000 invitations and envelopes. When the lists for them mushroomed to more than triple that number, with no end still in sight, he hurriedly got in touch with the Texas firm doing this expensive printing.

Its response was another jarring blow.

The necessary special paper was out of stock, would have to be obtained from the mill, with a resulting unavoidable delay.

That started another round of tribulations.

As invitations became available, the White House lists got priority consideration. As a consequence, complaints began rolling in from Humphrey's friends and partisans throughout the

Budget Lists Institutions in Springs Area

Gov. John A. Love today included a $25,000 request in his annual budget message to the State Legislature, for master planning for the University of Colorado Extension Center in Colorado Springs.

Also included in the budget request was a budget of $34,007,842 for operations of the University of Colorado. Of the operating money, $20,177,695 would be for the campus at Boulder and the extension centers.

The governor also included in his budget a recommendation of $827,963 for the School for the Deaf and Blind in Colorado Springs. This compares with $806,596 this year and requests of $866,815.

The recommendations are for operations during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Gov. Love recommended a budget of $42,154,065 for operating state colleges and universities during the coming fiscal year, of which the University of Colorado would receive the largest share.

Burch Continues Effort to Stay In Top GOP Post

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch insisted today he can help build a GOP comeback, but his foes claimed the votes to oust him and to put Ray Bliss in his place.

"I seek to remain as chairman because this nation needs a two-party system," Burch said in an address prepared for the National Press Club. Only "a political miracle," he said, could have elected a Republican president in 1964.

Bliss, the Ohio State GOP chairman, was silent.

But one top Republican said the forces opposing Burch have the National Committee votes to demand his ouster. This source said they have settled on Bliss as the man to succeed him.

Spending of Profits Demanded by Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO recommends vast new industry and government spending to correct "a dangerous imbalance" in the U.S. economy caused by "a sea of undistributed profits" that might eventually strangle industry.

As a result, the labor organization says in its monthly magazine, President Johnson's aim of creating enough jobs for all Americans is doomed and unemployment, already "excessively high," will increase further this year.

The trouble, the AFL-CIO says, is that U.S. industry is piling up too much cash in corporate treasuries and is boosting dividends to high-income stockholders who don't spend it on consumer goods.

It said that "a great new increase in spending" by both industry and government was needed to put more money into the hands of low-income consumers.

Two Russian Bandits Fail in Plane Hijack

MOSCOW (AP) — A gunman killed two policemen who cornered him in the city of Kishinyev after he and a companion failed in an attempt to hijack a plane, the Soviet news agency Tass said today.

The Soviet press last October gave unusual publicity to two pilots who fought the two armed men in the air and were seriously wounded. The reports then said the desperados, who apparently wanted to fly to Turkey, were caught when the wounded pilot landed near Kishinyev.

Tass disclosed today that one of the bandits, armed with a pistol, escaped into the city.

It said militia Lt. Col. Andrei M. Bazhenov and Sgt. Lev I. Spektor picked up the fugitive's trail.

"Sensing danger, the bandit hid in a house and began shooting indiscriminately, endangering the lives of people," Tass said.

"The task was to seize and disarm the criminal immediately. This is what Andrei Mikhailovich and Lev Iosifovich did. But in the fierce struggle both were fatally wounded."

The account gave no further details.

Accompanying the brief report was a Soviet government decree awarding the Order of the Red Star posthumously to Spektor and the Order of the Red Banner to Bazhenov.

Rep. Ford Says U.S. Losing in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan says "we're going downhill" in South Viet Nam and should take further steps such as sealing the nation's borders and, possibly, "some military action above the border."

Ford, appearing Thursday on the CBS radio interview show "Capital Cloakroom," was asked if he was advocating an attack on Communist North Viet Nam.

"It may be possible that this would be the net result," he said. "But we can do it on a progressive basis."

He said this meant an initial effort to "seal off the borders—we haven't made a big effort as yet—and if this is not successful, go to the next step."

The Pentagon released a four-year tabulation of U.S. armed forces casualties in South Viet Nam — up to Jan. 4, 1965. It included 356 dead, 1,546 wounded and 19 missing. Of the dead 246 were killed by the Viet Cong and 110 in aircraft accidents and other incidents unrelated to enemy action."

Health Care May Face Quick Ministers

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most members of the House Ways and Means Committee favor sending the administration's health care plan to the House for a vote, an Associated Press survey showed today. Final House action may come in 60 days.

The 25-member committee for years was the graveyard of health care legislation. But now, the survey found, 15 of the members either definitely or probably favor action to send such a bill to the House for a vote.

The chairman, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills D-Ark., said he looks for action on a health plan tied to Social Security in time for a House vote in March.

President Johnson asked Congress Thursday to enact a multiple health program, with care for the aged at the top of the list.

The proposal also includes a new $1.2-billion system of 32 regional medical complexes to fight heart disease, cancer, stroke and other diseases, contribution to medical and dental school operating funds and scholarships for students in the healing arts.

Congressional reaction was most pronounced on the issue of health care for the aged.

The dramatic change in prospects for favorable committee action results from two developments. The Ways and Means Committee was reconstituted with two more Democrats and two fewer Republicans, reflecting the Democratic electoral sweep, so the division now is 17 to 8. Under the former division, 10 Republicans kept a solid front against the proposals.

The other big bonus the health proposal picked up was Mills' agreement in principle with administration plans for financing and administration of the program.

Long the most powerful congressional opponent of Social Security health programs, Mills said the formula ultimately worked out, for administration of the program by Social Security and financing by a pay roll tax similar to but separate from the Social Security tax, met his specifications for avoiding danger to the whole Social Security structure.

The chairman said he expects his committee to make some modifications in the administration bill. Members who were polled understood they were not giving their positions necessarily on the bill exactly as introduced.

Questioned on this basis either directly or through authorized spokesmen, the committee membership lined up with 11 unequivocally for health plan legislation, one saying he was not sure how he would vote on passage but that he would vote in committee to send the bill to the House, three saying they probably would support the legislation and one reported undecided. Four said flatly they were opposed and two that they would probably vote against the measure. Two could not be reached.

There is one Republican vacancy. It will be filled in a few days.

Mills said the committee likely will start work on the bill about the end of this month.

Rep. Oren Harris D-Ark., who as chairman of the Commerce Committee largely will be responsible for legislation on the other parts of the President's package, said he does not think there will be much difficulty over proposals to extend existing programs. He added, "the plan for regional health centers, because it is new, will require consideration and time."

Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said Republicans are working on several possible alternative proposals, which he indicated might include insurance and tax credit arrangements.

The poll showed as definitely in favor of health care legislation Mills, Reps. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., who introduced the administration bill; Hale Boggs, D-La.; Eugene J. Keogh, D-N.Y.; Frank M. Karsten, D-Mo.; Al Ullman, D-Ore.; Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich.; George M. Rhodes D-Pa.; Dan Rostenkowski, D-Wis.; Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, and Richard Fulton, D-Tenn. Rep. Phil M. Landrum, D-Ga., said he was still making up his mind how to vote on passage, but would not oppose reporting the bill to the House for action.

A spokesman for Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., said he would not make a commitment in advance of hearings, but that he had always supported such legislation and could be expected to do so again unless unexpected evidence against the current bill turned up.

Rep. Clark W. Thompson, D-Tex., said the new financing provisions removed a big obstacle and if some others could be dealt with, "I think we will approve a bill promptly."

A spokesman for Rep. W. Pat Jennings D-Va., said he had not studied the bill in detail, but likely would support it.

Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., was reported to want to study the bill and testimony on it in detail before making up his mind.

Reps. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., James B. Utt, R-Calif., Joel T. Broyhill, R-Va., and Harold R. Collier, R-Ill., said they oppose the measure. Reps. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., and Jackson E. Betts R-Ohio, said they were inclined to vote against it.

Better U.S.-Filipino Relations Proposed

MANILA (AP) — President Diosdado Macapagal said Thursday night that U.S.-Philippine relations need to be brought up to date.

The president observed in a speech that "the present status quo of our relations with the United States has been dictated by factors no longer present."

"We recognize therefore, that in harmony with the requirements of a common security, Philippine-American relations deserve to be scrutinized and updated in order to make Philippine-American friendship vibrant and more in keeping with present-day conditions and events.

Macapagal's statement came two days after talks resumed on the revision of the U.S.-Philippine military bases agreement after a furor was raised over the killing of two Filipinos by American guards. The Philippines wants more jurisdiction over American military personnel.

Cut-Down Girl Gets Marriage Proposals

OSWESTRY, England (UPI) — A 19-year-old girl whose height is being reduced surgically from 6 feet 7½ inches to 6 feet 1 inch has had four marriage proposals from tall young men, it was reported.

Anne Rowston has spent months in the Orthopedic Hospital here while doctors removed sections of bone from her legs to reduce her height. They plan similar operations to shorten her arms.

Miss Rowston has received more than 200 letters from well-wishers, including the four marriage proposals, since newspapers began following her case.

Control of Astronaut Home Telecasts Sought

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Town councilmen of suburban El Lago are weighing steps to control telecasts from the homes of astronauts.

Thursday night they discussed an ordinance to require permits for obstructions on city streets. It listed television trucks or mobile equipment as possible obstructions.

Mayor George Walraven said radio-television units "turned Timber Cove subdivision into a madhouse during the first space flights. We're not going to stand for it."

He said the ordinance would be rewritten and he felt sure it would be adopted at the next council meeting.

Eight astronauts have homes in the El Lago vicinity. They are Frank Borman, Donn F. Eisele, Edward H. White II, Russell L. Schweickart, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., John W. Young, Thomas P. Stafford and Neil A. Armstrong.

Spending of Profits Demanded by Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO recommends vast new industry and government spending to correct "a dangerous imbalance" in the U.S. economy caused by "a sea of undistributed profits" that might eventually strangle industry.

As a result, the labor organization says in its monthly magazine, President Johnson's aim of creating enough jobs for all Americans is doomed and unemployment, already "excessively high," will increase further this year.

The trouble, the AFL-CIO says, is that U.S. industry is piling up too much cash in corporate treasuries and is boosting dividends to high-income stockholders who don't spend it on consumer goods.

It said that "a great new increase in spending" by both industry and government was needed to put more money into the hands of low-income consumers.

SKIERS RETURN

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—Nineteen skiers stranded by avalanches in a cabin atop Germany's highest mountain since Saturday returned safely to a resort hotel Thursday. "We had lots of fun," a British girl skier said. "The company was good."

NAIROBI — Kenya plans an agricultural school.

RECEIVES COMMISSION—Ensign D. L. Jones, 24, right, received his commission recently from Capt. J. H. Caldwell upon successful completion of a 16-week course of instruction at the Naval School of Pre-Flight at N.A.S., Pensacola, Fla. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Jones, 3162 W. Kiowa St. He is a 1958 graduate of Colorado Springs High School, and received a B.S. in aeronautical engineering from the University of Colorado. Jones was home for the holidays, and has now returned to flight training with Navy jets in Pensacola.

Two Russian Bandits Fail in Plane Hijack

MOSCOW (AP) — A gunman killed two policemen who cornered him in the city of Kishinyev after he and a companion failed in an attempt to hijack a plane, the Soviet news agency Tass said today.

The Soviet press last October gave unusual publicity to two pilots who fought the two armed men in the air and were seriously wounded. The reports then said the desperados, who apparently wanted to fly to Turkey, were caught when the wounded pilot landed near Kishinyev.

Tass disclosed today that one of the bandits, armed with a pistol, escaped into the city.

It said militia Lt. Col. Andrei M. Bazhenov and Sgt. Lev I. Spektor picked up the fugitive's trail.

"Sensing danger, the bandit hid in a house and began shooting indiscriminately, endangering the lives of people," Tass said.

"The task was to seize and disarm the criminal immediately. This is what Andrei Mikhailovich and Lev Iosifovich did. But in the fierce struggle both were fatally wounded."

The account gave no further details.

Accompanying the brief report was a Soviet government decree awarding the Order of the Red Star posthumously to Spektor and the Order of the Red Banner to Bazhenov.

Rep. Ford Says U.S. Losing in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan says "we're going downhill" in South Viet Nam and should take further steps such as sealing the nation's borders and, possibly, "some military action above the border."

Ford, appearing Thursday on the CBS radio interview show "Capital Cloakroom," was asked if he was advocating an attack on Communist North Viet Nam.

"It may be possible that this would be the net result," he said. "But we can do it on a progressive basis."

He said this meant an initial effort to "seal off the borders—we haven't made a big effort as yet—and if this is not successful, go to the next step."

The Pentagon released a four-year tabulation of U.S. armed forces casualties in South Viet Nam — up to Jan. 4, 1965. It included 356 dead, 1,546 wounded and 19 missing. Of the dead 246 were killed by the Viet Cong and 110 in aircraft accidents and other incidents unrelated to enemy action."

Health Care May Face Quick Ministers

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most members of the House Ways and Means Committee favor sending the administration's health care plan to the House for a vote, an Associated Press survey showed today. Final House action may come in 60 days.

The 25-member committee for years was the graveyard of health care legislation. But now, the survey found, 15 of the members either definitely or probably favor action to send such a bill to the House for a vote.

The chairman, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills D-Ark., said he looks for action on a health plan tied to Social Security in time for a House vote in March.

President Johnson asked Congress Thursday to enact a multiple health program, with care for the aged at the top of the list.

The proposal also includes a new $1.2-billion system of 32 regional medical complexes to fight heart disease, cancer, stroke and other diseases, contribution to medical and dental school operating funds and scholarships for students in the healing arts.

Congressional reaction was most pronounced on the issue of health care for the aged.

The dramatic change in prospects for favorable committee action results from two developments. The Ways and Means Committee was reconstituted with two more Democrats and two fewer Republicans, reflecting the Democratic electoral sweep, so the division now is 17 to 8. Under the former division, 10 Republicans kept a solid front against the proposals.

The other big bonus the health proposal picked up was Mills' agreement in principle with administration plans for financing and administration of the program.

Long the most powerful congressional opponent of Social Security health programs, Mills said the formula ultimately worked out, for administration of the program by Social Security and financing by a pay roll tax similar to but separate from the Social Security tax, met his specifications for avoiding danger to the whole Social Security structure.

The chairman said he expects his committee to make some modifications in the administration bill. Members who were polled understood they were not giving their positions necessarily on the bill exactly as introduced.

Questioned on this basis either directly or through authorized spokesmen, the committee membership lined up with 11 unequivocally for health plan legislation, one saying he was not sure how he would vote on passage but that he would vote in committee to send the bill to the House, three saying they probably would support the legislation and one reported undecided. Four said flatly they were opposed and two that they would probably vote against the measure. Two could not be reached.

There is one Republican vacancy. It will be filled in a few days.

Mills said the committee likely will start work on the bill about the end of this month.

Rep. Oren Harris D-Ark., who as chairman of the Commerce Committee largely will be responsible for legislation on the other parts of the President's package, said he does not think there will be much difficulty over proposals to extend existing programs. He added, "the plan for regional health centers, because it is new, will require consideration and time."

Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said Republicans are working on several possible alternative proposals, which he indicated might include insurance and tax credit arrangements.

The poll showed as definitely in favor of health care legislation Mills, Reps. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., who introduced the administration bill; Hale Boggs, D-La.; Eugene J. Keogh, D-N.Y.; Frank M. Karsten, D-Mo.; Al Ullman, D-Ore.; Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich.; George M. Rhodes D-Pa.; Dan Rostenkowski, D-Wis.; Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, and Richard Fulton, D-Tenn. Rep. Phil M. Landrum, D-Ga., said he was still making up his mind how to vote on passage, but would not oppose reporting the bill to the House for action.

A spokesman for Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., said he would not make a commitment in advance of hearings, but that he had always supported such legislation and could be expected to do so again unless unexpected evidence against the current bill turned up.

Rep. Clark W. Thompson, D-Tex., said the new financing provisions removed a big obstacle and if some others could be dealt with, "I think we will approve a bill promptly."

A spokesman for Rep. W. Pat Jennings D-Va., said he had not studied the bill in detail, but likely would support it.

Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., was reported to want to study the bill and testimony on it in detail before making up his mind.

Reps. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., James B. Utt, R-Calif., Joel T. Broyhill, R-Va., and Harold R. Collier, R-Ill., said they oppose the measure. Reps. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., and Jackson E. Betts R-Ohio, said they were inclined to vote against it.

Better U.S.-Filipino Relations Proposed

MANILA (AP) — President Diosdado Macapagal said Thursday night that U.S.-Philippine relations need to be brought up to date.

The president observed in a speech that "the present status quo of our relations with the United States has been dictated by factors no longer present."

"We recognize therefore, that in harmony with the requirements of a common security, Philippine-American relations deserve to be scrutinized and updated in order to make Philippine-American friendship vibrant and more in keeping with present-day conditions and events.

Macapagal's statement came two days after talks resumed on the revision of the U.S.-Philippine military bases agreement after a furor was raised over the killing of two Filipinos by American guards. The Philippines wants more jurisdiction over American military personnel.

Cut-Down Girl Gets Marriage Proposals

OSWESTRY, England (UPI) — A 19-year-old girl whose height is being reduced surgically from 6 feet 7½ inches to 6 feet 1 inch has had four marriage proposals from tall young men, it was reported.

Anne Rowston has spent months in the Orthopedic Hospital here while doctors removed sections of bone from her legs to reduce her height. They plan similar operations to shorten her arms.

Miss Rowston has received more than 200 letters from well-wishers, including the four marriage proposals, since newspapers began following her case.

Control of Astronaut Home Telecasts Sought

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Town councilmen of suburban El Lago are weighing steps to control telecasts from the homes of astronauts.

Thursday night they discussed an ordinance to require permits for obstructions on city streets. It listed television trucks or mobile equipment as possible obstructions.

Mayor George Walraven said radio-television units "turned Timber Cove subdivision into a madhouse during the first space flights. We're not going to stand for it."

He said the ordinance would be rewritten and he felt sure it would be adopted at the next council meeting.

Gasoline Bomb Leads to Prison

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A magistrate sentenced a Kikuyu tribesman to 21 months in prison today for throwing a gasoline bomb at a South Korean Embassy car during a demonstration protesting the U.S.-Belgian paratroop rescue operation in the Congo.

The car was parked outside the U.S. Embassy and had diplomatic plates.

Inaugural Weather Is Not Forecast

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Charles Greeley Abbot, 88, the long-range weather forecaster who scored a bull's-eye on two presidential inaugurals, isn't about to venture a prediction for President Johnson's big day.

The elderly scientist with the drooping moustache still is inclined to blame all that nuclear bomb testing "the Russians and the Americans did" for a not-so-good call in 1953. He scored in 1945 and 1949 but gave no long-range prediction in 1957 and 1961 and is offering none for Jan. 20.

Abbot, a former secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, used to make his forecasts up to a year in advance.

"Atmospheric conditions associated with solar radiation upon which my system depended must have changed with all that bombing," he said.

This is a view not shared by most scientists, who contend there is no evidence that nuclear testing has had any appreciable effect on the weather.

Abbot was happily nostalgic about the good old days when things were going right with his system.

"Take 1948," he mused. "I had a real good year then. I forecast well in advance some 175 days when it was more likely to rain than not — and it did.

"And that same year I had 14 prospective brides calling me up and asking what the weather was going to be on their wedding days — and I hit it 13 times out of the 14. And the 14th bride was happy, too, because while I had forecast it might rain, it turned out cloudy — so she was pleased anyway."

Accused U.S. Spy Faces Possible Death Sentence

West Berlin and later on Long Island where Thompson lives, and in New York, Detroit, Washington and Great Falls, Mont.

Thompson, a native of Detroit, operates a service station on Long Island, where he also runs an independent fuel oil business. He joined the Air Force in 1952, and served in West Berlin, Labrador and seval bases in the United States before his discharge in 1958.

Thompson's arrest by four FBI agents at noon Thursday, came as hardly a surprise to him.

"Thompson knew he was under investigation, having been questioned as long as a year ago," his attorney, Sidney Siben, told the court.

Despite a court-martial, Thompson remained in a position of trust with the Air Force in Germany.

On Jan. 9, 1957, the FBI said, he was convicted of being unfit for duty because of drunkenness, leaving his post and stealing a revolver.

He was demoted from airman first class to airman second class, and forfeited $67 in pay.

The indictment against Thompson named these co-conspirators: Karpovich, who once worked at the United Nations as an interpreter and used the alias "John Kurlinsky"; Fedor Kudahskin, former chief of the Soviet section of verbatim reporters at the United Nations; and a Russian named only as "Steven."

Kudashkin returned to the Soviet Union in August 1963 "for imperative family reasons." This coincided with the end of Thompson's alleged spy activities which, the indictment said, ran from June 1957, to July 1963.

The indictment said the Russians provided "large sums of money" to finance Thompsen's activities. He is said to have received his instructions by short wave radio.

Thompson's Bay Shore, N.Y., home is equipped with a 15-foot radio aerial. Neighbors said this was used to transmit radio instructions to his oil trucks over a citizens band.

Thompson, 6-feet-2 and 250 pounds, presented a varied image to his neighbors.

Some looked on him as a "good joe —a guy who would do anything to help you out."

To others he was a man who kept pretty much to himself, and had little to do with his children other than to discipline them.

All his neighbors agreed he lived modestly in his $12,500 home. A year ago, he added an upstairs room.

But Thompson presented a strange face, too. He had engaged in a running racial feud with his next-door-neighbor, Benjamin Young, the only Negro on the block.

Young said Thompson erected a "spite fence," shouted barbs against the Negro family, and planted a sign in his yard reading: "House for sale, mixed neighborhood."

Young said Thompson also put a "hangman's noose out the attic window facing me."

Other neighbors reported that Thompson had entertained Negres in his home. Some said he owned and rented four homes in the nearby Long Island community of Wyandanch to Negro families.

Mrs. Pansy Hanthorn Died at Hospital

Mrs. Pansy Irene Hanthorn, wife of C. Lee Hanthorn, 216 N. Meade Ave., died Wednesday at a local hospital. She had been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1956 and was a member of Pilgrim Holiness Church.

Mrs. Hanthorn was born in Virginia, Sept. 8, 1896. She and Mr. Hanthorn were married in Colorado Springs, Oct. 21, 1918. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Doris Storey, of Glendale, Calif., a son, Carle Hanthorn, Colorado Springs; three brothers, Fletcher and William Estes, of Lima, Ohio, and Freeman Estes, North Hollywood, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Ilene Snyder, Lima.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Chapel of Memories Mortuary. The Rev. Vernon Story will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery. Pallbearers will be: James Nelson, Eddie Vawser, Wayne Highley, Emil Bogren, Jud Hurd and Harley Fogle.

Inaugural Ball May Be Giant Snafu in Capital

country. Huffily, they wanted to know why they were apparently being left out in the cold.

MORE SNAFUS

The vice president-elect made an unannounced visit to the Inaugural Committee.

From Mrs. James Mann, in charge of mailing out all inaugural invitations, he wanted to know why his ball lists were being ignored. Bluntly, Humphrey told her that none of his closest friends and campaign assistants had yet received invitations.

Mrs. Mann as sharply retorted she couldn't send out invitations she didn't have; that they were being mailed as quickly as they arrived from the Texas printer.

Because of these mix-ups, it's still very much up in the air how many guests will have to be taken care of. In anticipation of 30,000 the D.C. Armory, with 12,000 capacity, and the three largest hotels were rented. Preparations now are underway to add several more hotels.

The ball is an invitational affair at $25 a tickets. There also is a limited number of boxes, holding eight, at $750. That includes a few bottles of champagne.

Arrangements for the big gala, at the Armory two nights before the inaururation, also are in a state of confusion. There is a no-charge, invitational affair and all indications point to an overflow throng — a lot of hurt feelings and ruffled tempers.

Democratic Treasurer Richard Maguire is seeing to it that members of the $1,000 "President's Club" get first shot at gala tickets. He is insisting on that preliminary to launching a new fund drive to wipe our several million dollars in campaign debts and to start building up a reserve for the 1966 congressional battle.

Almost 5,000 contributors belong to the "President's Club." If only 50 per cent and their wives attend, they will fill one-half of the Armory.

That leaves thousands of other party faithful and contributors clamoring for gala tickets still to be taken care of. Presumably they will get them. What happens then only the gala will tell.

TELLING THEM OFF

Senator Vance Hartke, D-Ind., is introducing a bill barring all forms of U.S. aid — economic, military, surplus food, credits or loans — to any country engaging in "aggressive action." The measure is aimed specifically at Egypt and Indonesia, the former with some 40,000 troops in Yemen, and the latter threatening to "crush" Malaysia. Both Egypt and Indonesia have received hundreds of millions in U.S. aid, and are still getting some under programs which the State Department is refusing to cut off. . .Earl Hawley, editor of the Glendora Calif., Press, sent a cable to bombastic President Sukarno that is a dead-center bullseye. Declared Hawley: "Some dozen years ago, as an undergraduate, I had the dubious pleasure of collecting books for the University of Indonesia library. Apparently the effort to educate a former colonial people was well - meaning but pointless. Eventually I trust we shall eliminate all charlatans, liars and thieves from the UN. Also communists and their sympathizers. Here's earnestly trusting you will soon be relegated to the ash heap of history." . . . This column's disclosure that Max Kampelman, 44-year-old Washington lawyer-lobbyist, was slated to be named to the District of Columbia Federal Court of Appeals apparently threw a monkey wrench into this backstage plan. This close friend of Vice President-elect Humphrey is now putting out the word that he is not being appointed to this prestigious bench. According to Kampelman, the reason for his being checked by the FBI is for clearance to accompany Humphrey when he goes abroad and to act as his consultant on foreign and domestic issues — a role that does not require Senate confirmation. Both Democrats and Republicans were set to vigorously oppose Kampelman's elevation as a federal judge.

were cordoned off by hundreds of police but the saboteurs apparently had made their getaway, felling trees behind them to stop pursuers.

Earlier the town had been plastered with pamphlets and slogans demanding expulsion of Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon from Ireland "as representatives of an occupying power."

Detectives spent the night searching the 12,000-acre De Vesci estate by flashlight. Squads of police guarded every entrance.

The royal couple came to Abbeyleix after visiting Snowden's mother, the Countess of Rosse, at Birr Castle.

Though officially disbanded three years ago, the IRA is still campaigning to end the partition of Ireland into the republic and the six Ulster counties in the north. The latter are still part of the United Kingdom.

Members of the IRA have stressed that they mean Margaret no personal harm.

Midnight sapphire in a mildewed bag stuffed in the locker.

This morning the officers and Allen Kuhn, one of three Miamians accused of the theft, jumped aboard a New York-bound plane at Miami International Airport.

Shortly before 8 a.m., Kuhn and his four escorts dashed from a compact automobile at the airport.

With a detective running interference, they made for the loading ramp of Northeast Flight 38.

Kuhn was not handcuffed.

It was learned that the detectives checked into a motel near the University of Miami late Thursday, after a day of hunting for the stolen gems. Kuhn reportedly made a deal to find them in exchange for leniency.

The telephone call came shortly after midnight. A voice gave the location of the locker and hung up.

The detectives raced for the bus station and found a bag partly rotted as if it had been buried or exposed to dampness.

A glint of fire shown through the rotting fabric. It was the fabled Star of India. Nestling next to it was the midnight sapphire.

It was not learned what other jewels were recovered.

Other hotels have push button operation.

At the Riverside Whittier, one of the two struck hotels, management served coffee and rolls in the lobby. Guests made their own beds.

There was concern, however, for the future. The Society of Automotive Engineers' convention will bring thousands of persons to town Monday.

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh deplored the lockout.

"The lockout in Detroit went out of style 30 years ago," Cavanagh said.

The union struck at the Statler Hilton in addition to the Whittier.

Lockouts followed at the Sheraton Cadillac, Park Shelton, Pickfort Shelby, Embassy, Tuller, Belcrest and Abington. Most of these are downtown establishments.

Both union and management said they were ready to resume negotiations at the call of mediators. The last talks were held Thursday. They broke off without settlement.

Frank Kenney, spokesman for the hotel association, said the lockout was the result of what he called whipsaw tactics by the union. He charged the union's two strikes were intended to force the other hotels into agreements which the union hoped to secure at the two struck hotels.

The union said it would file unfair labor practice charges as a result of the lockout.

The union and a tenth hotel, the Detroit Leland, made peace Thursday night. The union said the Leland met the pay demands and conceded on other points.

colonialism, due to arms aid from the Soviet Union," he said.

The Soviet Union has supplied Indonesia more than $1 billion in arms but deliveries declined in 1964. The Russians have advised the Indonesians not to quit the United Nations, but Indonesian sources in Moscow said the Soviet Foreign Ministry had informed their embassy the walkout would not affect the Kremlin's policy toward Indonesia.

U.N. officials waited for Sukarno to communicate his walkout announcement in writing. Members of the Indonesian mission said no official instructions had arrived from Jakarta. They indicated that there might not be any written notice.

One official was asked what Sukarno meant when he said in a speech Thursday that Indonesia had "walked out" of the United Nations.

"The Russians walked out once (in 1955), but they did not withdraw," he replied.

Sukarno also said that he would turn his back on U.N. agencies that have earmarked more than $50 million to help underdeveloped Indonesia.

"We can afford to operate without the United Nations specialized agencies," he said. "It is good for our nation to stand on our own feet. I have said: 'Go to hell with your aid.' " ed these details by Jan. 6, so we could check back through the police log book to find out where I was at these times.

Ex-Fountain Chief Asks For Details of Charges

"But we haven't gotten anything and when I called Mike Rasher (town coordinator, clerk, treasurer and police administrator) this morning, he said they didn't intend to let me see any clarification of the charges before the hearing.

"I don't feel like I can walk into that hearing and try to answer charges when I don't know what I'm walking into. I won't have exact answers. What would you do if someone asked you exactly where you were at 7:30 the night of July 23, 1963 or something like that? They could make me look like a complete fool.

"The thing is, if I don't go to the hearing, that will make me look bad too.

"My lawyer said I could file an injunction against the town. He said that would force them to ask me questions just on the things they have made clear changes against me on. But that costs $250. I'm a man without a job. I don't have $250 for something like that.

"What's more, I haven't started looking for another job because I am a policeman and until we get this thing cleared up, no one is going to want to hire me.

"No matter what happens now at that hearing Monday night, I'm going to look bad and it isn't fair."

Rasher, questioned about the situation, said, "He (Soltwedel) asked for a public hearing and now he's going to get one. We are in the process of writing up details of the charges. We'll see that he gets a copy as soon as possible."

Town Attorney Fillmore Gibson, asked if Soltwedel would receive a detailed list of the charges against him before the hearing, simply said, "I can't say."

Four Injured In Accident Near Monument

A one-car accident Thursday just west of Monument resulted in injuries to four persons, the State Patrol reported.

John Hughes, 44, 1257 E. Madison St., sustained head cuts. His wife, Mrs. Wanda Hughes, 46, had head an neck injuries.

Ned Wiegers, 28, Monument, suffered head cuts in the accident.

All three injured persons were taken to the Air Force Academy Hospital by Academy ambulance, according to the patrol.

Ben Simpson, 74, Lomita, Calif., had a bruised chest, but was released at the scene.

The accident took place at 12:30 p.m. Thursday on Walden Road, one mile west of Monument. According to the patrol, Hughes was northbound on Walden Road when he lost control of his car as he came over the crest of a hill. The car went off the right side of the road, rolled over once, and Hughes and his wife were then thrown from the vehicle.

Damage to Hughes' 1961 model car was estimated at $1,500, the patrol said.

Funeral service will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Swan Drawing Room. The Rev. Walter A. Enge will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

it is still unknown how the fire started. He said it is not believed to have been electrical. An investigation is continued. Quantities of various chemicals, including a considerable amount of ammonia, were destroyed in the fire and there was a large loss of glass equipment used in chemistry study. Hot as the fire was, several boxes of matches in the storeroom were not ignited.

In spite of the damage in the storeroom and to two electric panels, which shut off light and power on the third floor, school was in session this morning as usual. Superintendent of Schools Thomas Doherty said that all classrooms, including the chemistry laboratory, were in use, although there was only daylight to study by on the third floor. He said it was impossible to make a close estimate of the damage so soon, but that he thought it would run to $2,000 or $3,000.

Doherty said that spectacular as were the flames that shot up through the storeroom vent and old chimney it was probably fortunate that the opening was there. Otherwise, he said, the fire might have done more damage to the building.

There was no casualty among firemen fighting the fire, although the escaping ammonia made the work difficult. Chief Lausch had himself studied in the Chemistry Laboratory when he attended Palmer High School, then called the Colorado Springs High School.

Businesses, Others Clash Over Ordinance for Signs

more liberal for business signs.

They did object to a provision in the ordinance calling for removal of non-conforming business signs within two years and advertising signs within five years.

Douglas Naegele, president of Naegele Outdoor Advertising, said that as many as 20 years might be needed for removal of a non - conforming business sign which had cost a businessman as much as $25,000.

Thomas Barr of Star Signs noted that if signs legally put up, had to come down in a few years because they were nonconforming, "Someone is going to take an awful beating. Any sign that was legally installed ought to remain."

This viewpoint was echoed by Hal King, manager of Advance Neon Sign Co., and Vern Johnson, president of Johnson Pontiac, called the regulations fair but "fairly harsh."

Several tourist attractions in the area objected to provisions for removal of the non-conforming signs. They were John May, representing May Tropical Museum south of Colorado Springs, and Lucky Herzberger, representing North Pole west of the city.

William Elliott, president of the Colorado Springs Equipment Co., asked if "An old and established business should have to remove business signs erected in good faith?"

The more liberal sizes for business signs in the ordinance were opposed by Dr. Fred A. Sondermann, president of the Colorado Springs Charter Association.

Saying they were "alarmingly high" and in some cases a sixfold increase, Sondermann also noted that the five and two year removal provisions for non-conforming signs were too long.

He also said that signs detract drivers' attention and "they are bound to be dangerous." He said he didn't like the K-Mart and a King Soopers sign at shopping centers in East Colorado Springs.

Earl Bryson of the Springs Area Beautiful Association, but representing himself, termed entrances into the city a "jungle of signs." He warned planners they had "gone too far in your liberalizations."

Writer Marshall Sprague reminded planners that Colorado Springs is a beautiful area. He said signs could be asthetic as well as expensive. This, he said, would make the beauty lovers and sign industry happy. Of the region, Sprague said: "We want it to continue to be prosperous, we want it to be beautiful."

Another angle discussed was a sign code following land use as already prescribed by zoning. The proposed ordinance only applies to controlled access highways, not all roads.

Chairman Andrew Marshall said the planners would meet soon — and possibly adopt a new proposed ordinance, taking Thursday's public hearing into consideration.

His committee has no power to impose sign regulations. If they propose an ordinance it will go to the City Council and County Commissioners for final approval.

Then all segments of the population can speak again before these lawmakers.

cautioning against "the dictates of radicalism in any form," Burch said he wants and intends to remain in the chairmanship for which he was tapped by Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

"I believe I can assist in achieving that unity, in preparing the Republican party, in satisfying the desire of the American people for a society that is great mostly because it remains free," he said.

Burch conceded the Republicans made some mistakes during the 1964 campaign. He did not say what they were.

But he added: "The political environment for any Republican presidential contender in the year 1964 could hardly have been worse.

"I reflect on no person, nor engage in the defense of none, when I say that it would have been a political miracle for any contender on our national ticket to have won in such a year," he added.

He said the party can make a comeback.

"I visualize a Republican party with a membership so legion an appeal so universal, as to insure gains — starting this year and culminating with the presidency in 1968," he said. "That is why I want to remain."

Burch said Tuesday a majority of the National Committee members who will gather in Chicago Jan. 22 are on his side, but he noted the opposition claims the same thing.

"Obviously," he said then, "somebody's lying."

As the showdown drew closer, even some allies of the 37-year-old chairman said the opposition seems to have settled on Bliss, and conceded the moderates opposing Burch may have the votes to command a majority.

Bliss did not support Goldwater during the senator's battle to capture the presidential nomination, but enlisted in his effort after the national convention.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., told a news conference Thursday he will work actively for Burch's ouster. Scott, a former GOP national chairman, mentioned Bliss as a possible Burch successor.

Idaho Gov. Robert Smylie, a leader of the forces opposing Burch called Bliss a man around whom the party could rally. Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton has noted that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was one of the first party leaders to suggest Bliss for the national chairmanship.

Thursday night in St. Louis, Walter C. Ploesner, the GOP national committeeman from Missouri, said 21 of 31 National Committee members from 12 Midwestern states who attended an unannounced meeting Thursday in Chicago or were contacted by telephone told him they promised to back Bliss.

Army Snaps Too Many Photos, General Says

ing," Johnson wrote.

"There are simply too many official cameras throughout the Army, and too many people are involved with the taking of pictures."

Although his letter didn't say so, it was reported that Johnson had been annoyed on returning from inspection trips to find stacks of pictures taken by Army photographers at every stop. The pictures were said to feature the four-star chief of staff and apparently were taken in the hope of pleasing him.

If that was the hope, the effect was just the opposite.

"On the matter of coverage of parades, presentation of awards, official parties, and visiting dignitaries, I favor a strict interpretation of AR-108-5 which limits such coverage to 'official requirements,' " Johnson told his commanders.

"On the basis of my own public appearances and the many comments I have heard from senior officers, it seems that the current practice is to interpret 'official requirements' far too liberally."

Excessive photography, as he put it, accounts for "a significant chunk of the estimated $3.8 million spent in fiscal 1964 on the photographic effort," the Army chief asserted.

"I request that you institute such measures as may be necessary to reduce picture taking to true official requirements," Johnson concluded.

And, as everybody in the Army knows, that kind of a "request" is an order.

"One woman from Iowa called and asked if we had a card for a fawn-colored Chihuahua," said Mrs. Olson. "She was crushed when she found out we didn't."

A more satisfied customer was a woman who had helped her dog send Christmas cards each year by putting its paw on an ink pad and transferring its print to a piece of stationery.

"She said that was kind of messy and she was really grateful for our cards," Mrs. Olson said.

"Our reception shows how nutty people are about animals," said Mrs. Olson, whose dog, Dagmar, "has sent cards to all the dogs and cats in the family."

Mrs. Czubakowski's dog and two cats also are card customers.

But Henrikson provides no customers.

"He used to have a dog but he found out he was allergic to them and had to get rid of it," said Mrs. Olson.

$400 Recorder Missing From Apartment

A tape recorder valued at $400 was taken from an apartment between Dec. 29 and Tuesday, police reported.

Jerry L. Hopkins, 2833 E. Pikes Peak Ave., told police he left the recorder at the apartment of two friends of his at 2827 E. Pikes Peak Ave., and that while the friends were out of town on vacation, the recorder disappeared.

Police could find no signs of forced entry into the apartment of Hopkins' friends, according to the report. The recorder was described as being gray in color and having a dual sound track.

Accused U.S. Spy Faces Possible Death Sentence

West Berlin and later on Long Island where Thompson lives, and in New York, Detroit, Washington and Great Falls, Mont.

Thompson, a native of Detroit, operates a service station on Long Island, where he also runs an independent fuel oil business. He joined the Air Force in 1952, and served in West Berlin, Labrador and seval bases in the United States before his discharge in 1958.

Thompson's arrest by four FBI agents at noon Thursday, came as hardly a surprise to him.

"Thompson knew he was under investigation, having been questioned as long as a year ago," his attorney, Sidney Siben, told the court.

Despite a court-martial, Thompson remained in a position of trust with the Air Force in Germany.

On Jan. 9, 1957, the FBI said, he was convicted of being unfit for duty because of drunkenness, leaving his post and stealing a revolver.

He was demoted from airman first class to airman second class, and forfeited $67 in pay.

The indictment against Thompson named these co-conspirators: Karpovich, who once worked at the United Nations as an interpreter and used the alias "John Kurlinsky"; Fedor Kudahskin, former chief of the Soviet section of verbatim reporters at the United Nations; and a Russian named only as "Steven."

Kudashkin returned to the Soviet Union in August 1963 "for imperative family reasons." This coincided with the end of Thompson's alleged spy activities which, the indictment said, ran from June 1957, to July 1963.

The indictment said the Russians provided "large sums of money" to finance Thompsen's activities. He is said to have received his instructions by short wave radio.

Thompson's Bay Shore, N.Y., home is equipped with a 15-foot radio aerial. Neighbors said this was used to transmit radio instructions to his oil trucks over a citizens band.

Thompson, 6-feet-2 and 250 pounds, presented a varied image to his neighbors.

Some looked on him as a "good joe —a guy who would do anything to help you out."

To others he was a man who kept pretty much to himself, and had little to do with his children other than to discipline them.

All his neighbors agreed he lived modestly in his $12,500 home. A year ago, he added an upstairs room.

But Thompson presented a strange face, too. He had engaged in a running racial feud with his next-door-neighbor, Benjamin Young, the only Negro on the block.

Young said Thompson erected a "spite fence," shouted barbs against the Negro family, and planted a sign in his yard reading: "House for sale, mixed neighborhood."

Young said Thompson also put a "hangman's noose out the attic window facing me."

Other neighbors reported that Thompson had entertained Negres in his home. Some said he owned and rented four homes in the nearby Long Island community of Wyandanch to Negro families.

Mrs. Pansy Hanthorn Died at Hospital

Mrs. Pansy Irene Hanthorn, wife of C. Lee Hanthorn, 216 N. Meade Ave., died Wednesday at a local hospital. She had been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1956 and was a member of Pilgrim Holiness Church.

Mrs. Hanthorn was born in Virginia, Sept. 8, 1896. She and Mr. Hanthorn were married in Colorado Springs, Oct. 21, 1918. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Doris Storey, of Glendale, Calif., a son, Carle Hanthorn, Colorado Springs; three brothers, Fletcher and William Estes, of Lima, Ohio, and Freeman Estes, North Hollywood, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Ilene Snyder, Lima.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Chapel of Memories Mortuary. The Rev. Vernon Story will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery. Pallbearers will be: James Nelson, Eddie Vawser, Wayne Highley, Emil Bogren, Jud Hurd and Harley Fogle.

Inaugural Ball May Be Giant Snafu in Capital

country. Huffily, they wanted to know why they were apparently being left out in the cold.

MORE SNAFUS

The vice president-elect made an unannounced visit to the Inaugural Committee.

From Mrs. James Mann, in charge of mailing out all inaugural invitations, he wanted to know why his ball lists were being ignored. Bluntly, Humphrey told her that none of his closest friends and campaign assistants had yet received invitations.

Mrs. Mann as sharply retorted she couldn't send out invitations she didn't have; that they were being mailed as quickly as they arrived from the Texas printer.

Because of these mix-ups, it's still very much up in the air how many guests will have to be taken care of. In anticipation of 30,000 the D.C. Armory, with 12,000 capacity, and the three largest hotels were rented. Preparations now are underway to add several more hotels.

Democratic Treasurer Richard Maguire is seeing to it that members of the $1,000 "President's Club" get first shot at gala tickets. He is insisting on that preliminary to launching a new fund drive to wipe our several million dollars in campaign debts and to start building up a reserve for the 1966 congressional battle.

Almost 5,000 contributors belong to the "President's Club." If only 50 per cent and their wives attend, they will fill one-half of the Armory.

That leaves thousands of other party faithful and contributors clamoring for gala tickets still to be taken care of. Presumably they will get them. What happens then only the gala will tell.

TELLING THEM OFF

Senator Vance Hartke, D-Ind., is introducing a bill barring all forms of U.S. aid — economic, military, surplus food, credits or loans — to any country engaging in "aggressive action." The measure is aimed specifically at Egypt and Indonesia, the former with some 40,000 troops in Yemen, and the latter threatening to "crush" Malaysia. Both Egypt and Indonesia have received hundreds of millions in U.S. aid, and are still getting some under programs which the State Department is refusing to cut off. . .Earl Hawley, editor of the Glendora Calif., Press, sent a cable to bombastic President Sukarno that is a dead-center bullseye. Declared Hawley: "Some dozen years ago, as an undergraduate, I had the dubious pleasure of collecting books for the University of Indonesia library. Apparently the effort to educate a former colonial people was well - meaning but pointless. Eventually I trust we shall eliminate all charlatans, liars and thieves from the UN. Also communists and their sympathizers. Here's earnestly trusting you will soon be relegated to the ash heap of history." . . . This column's disclosure that Max Kampelman, 44-year-old Washington lawyer-lobbyist, was slated to be named to the District of Columbia Federal Court of Appeals apparently threw a monkey wrench into this backstage plan. This close friend of Vice President-elect Humphrey is now putting out the word that he is not being appointed to this prestigious bench. According to Kampelman, the reason for his being checked by the FBI is for clearance to accompany Humphrey when he goes abroad and to act as his consultant on foreign and domestic issues — a role that does not require Senate confirmation. Both Democrats and Republicans were set to vigorously oppose Kampelman's elevation as a federal judge.

Explosion Marks Margaret's Visit in Ireland

were cordoned off by hundreds of police but the saboteurs apparently had made their getaway, felling trees behind them to stop pursuers.

Earlier the town had been plastered with pamphlets and slogans demanding expulsion of Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon from Ireland "as representatives of an occupying power."

Detectives spent the night searching the 12,000-acre De Vesci estate by flashlight. Squads of police guarded every entrance.

The royal couple came to Abbeyleix after visiting Snowden's mother, the Countess of Rosse, at Birr Castle.

Though officially disbanded three years ago, the IRA is still campaigning to end the partition of Ireland into the republic and the six Ulster counties in the north. The latter are still part of the United Kingdom.

Members of the IRA have stressed that they mean Margaret no personal harm.

Two Sapphires Recovered, But Ruby Missing

Midnight sapphire in a mildewed bag stuffed in the locker.

This morning the officers and Allen Kuhn, one of three Miamians accused of the theft, jumped aboard a New York-bound plane at Miami International Airport.

Shortly before 8 a.m., Kuhn and his four escorts dashed from a compact automobile at the airport.

With a detective running interference, they made for the loading ramp of Northeast Flight 38.

Kuhn was not handcuffed.

It was learned that the detectives checked into a motel near the University of Miami late Thursday, after a day of hunting for the stolen gems. Kuhn reportedly made a deal to find them in exchange for leniency.

The telephone call came shortly after midnight. A voice gave the location of the locker and hung up.

The detectives raced for the bus station and found a bag partly rotted as if it had been buried or exposed to dampness.

A glint of fire shown through the rotting fabric. It was the fabled Star of India. Nestling next to it was the midnight sapphire.

It was not learned what other jewels were recovered.

Other hotels have push button operation.

At the Riverside Whittier, one of the two struck hotels, management served coffee and rolls in the lobby. Guests made their own beds.

There was concern, however, for the future. The Society of Automotive Engineers' convention will bring thousands of persons to town Monday.

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh deplored the lockout.

"The lockout in Detroit went out of style 30 years ago," Cavanagh said.

The union struck at the Statler Hilton in addition to the Whittier.

Lockouts followed at the Sheraton Cadillac, Park Shelton, Pickfort Shelby, Embassy, Tuller, Belcrest and Abington. Most of these are downtown establishments.

Both union and management said they were ready to resume negotiations at the call of mediators. The last talks were held Thursday. They broke off without settlement.

Frank Kenney, spokesman for the hotel association, said the lockout was the result of what he called whipsaw tactics by the union. He charged the union's two strikes were intended to force the other hotels into agreements which the union hoped to secure at the two struck hotels.

The union said it would file unfair labor practice charges as a result of the lockout.

The union and a tenth hotel, the Detroit Leland, made peace Thursday night. The union said the Leland met the pay demands and conceded on other points.

Four Injured In Accident Near Monument

A one-car accident Thursday just west of Monument resulted in injuries to four persons, the State Patrol reported.

John Hughes, 44, 1257 E. Madison St., sustained head cuts. His wife, Mrs. Wanda Hughes, 46, had head an neck injuries.

Ned Wiegers, 28, Monument, suffered head cuts in the accident.

All three injured persons were taken to the Air Force Academy Hospital by Academy ambulance, according to the patrol.

Ben Simpson, 74, Lomita, Calif., had a bruised chest, but was released at the scene.

The accident took place at 12:30 p.m. Thursday on Walden Road, one mile west of Monument. According to the patrol, Hughes was northbound on Walden Road when he lost control of his car as he came over the crest of a hill. The car went off the right side of the road, rolled over once, and Hughes and his wife were then thrown from the vehicle.

Damage to Hughes' 1961 model car was estimated at $1,500, the patrol said.

colonialism, due to arms aid from the Soviet Union," he said.

The Soviet Union has supplied Indonesia more than $1 billion in arms but deliveries declined in 1964. The Russians have advised the Indonesians not to quit the United Nations, but Indonesian sources in Moscow said the Soviet Foreign Ministry had informed their embassy the walkout would not affect the Kremlin's policy toward Indonesia.

U.N. officials waited for Sukarno to communicate his walkout announcement in writing. Members of the Indonesian mission said no official instructions had arrived from Jakarta. They indicated that there might not be any written notice.

One official was asked what Sukarno meant when he said in a speech Thursday that Indonesia had "walked out" of the United Nations.

"The Russians walked out once (in 1955), but they did not withdraw," he replied.

Sukarno also said that he would turn his back on U.N. agencies that have earmarked more than $50 million to help underdeveloped Indonesia.

"We can afford to operate without the United Nations specialized agencies," he said. "It is good for our nation to stand on our own feet. I have said: 'Go to hell with your aid.' "

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson said in a speech in London Thursday night that Britain has committed 50,000 of its military forces to the defense of Malaysia, including more than 10,000 in Borneo.

British Army Minister Fred Mulley was due in Singapore tonight for conferences with Britain's Far East military commanders.

Ex-Fountain Chief Asks For Details of Charges

ed these details by Jan. 6, so we could check back through the police log book to find out where I was at these times.

"But we haven't gotten anything and when I called Mike Rasher (town coordinator, clerk, treasurer and police administrator) this morning, he said they didn't intend to let me see any clarification of the charges before the hearing.

"I don't feel like I can walk into that hearing and try to answer charges when I don't know what I'm walking into. I won't have exact answers. What would you do if someone asked you exactly where you were at 7:30 the night of July 23, 1963 or something like that? They could make me look like a complete fool.

"The thing is, if I don't go to the hearing, that will make me look bad too.

"My lawyer said I could file an injunction against the town. He said that would force them to ask me questions just on the things they have made clear changes against me on. But that costs $250. I'm a man without a job. I don't have $250 for something like that.

"What's more, I haven't started looking for another job because I am a policeman and until we get this thing cleared up, no one is going to want to hire me.

"No matter what happens now at that hearing Monday night, I'm going to look bad and it isn't fair."

Rasher, questioned about the situation, said, "He (Soltwedel) asked for a public hearing and now he's going to get one. We are in the process of writing up details of the charges. We'll see that he gets a copy as soon as possible."

Town Attorney Fillmore Gibson, asked if Soltwedel would receive a detailed list of the charges against him before the hearing, simply said, "I can't say."

Mrs. Julia A. Hagge Died Here Thursday

Mrs. Julia A. Hagge, wife of Hans J. Hagge, 616 N. Pine St., died Thursday at a local hospital. She was born in Colorado Springs July 24, 1900, and had been a lifelong resident of the city. She was a charter member of Immanuel Lutheran Church and of the Ladies Aid Society. She was a member of the South Side Improvement Society.

Besides her husband Mrs. Hagge is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Ruth Nicholson, of Colorado Springs; Mrs. Margaret Bosman, Indianapolis, Ind., and Mrs. Rose Anna Schepmann, Bushton, Kan.; a son, Jerry Hagge, Denver; three brothers, Otto J. Brandenburg, Aztec, N.M.; Emil Brandenburg, Colorado Springs, and Carl Brandenburg, Cedar Hill, N.M.; four sisters, Mrs. Hedwig Menzel, Westcliffe, Colo.; Mrs. Clara Bergmann, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Evetett Cole, Canon City, Colo., and Mrs. Anna Edwards, Sycamore, Ill., and 10 grandchildren.

Funeral service will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Swan Drawing Room. The Rev. Walter A. Enge will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

it is still unknown how the fire started. He said it is not believed to have been electrical. An investigation is continued. Quantities of various chemicals, including a considerable amount of ammonia, were destroyed in the fire and there was a large loss of glass equipment used in chemistry study. Hot as the fire was, several boxes of matches in the storeroom were not ignited.

In spite of the damage in the storeroom and to two electric panels, which shut off light and power on the third floor, school was in session this morning as usual. Superintendent of Schools Thomas Doherty said that all classrooms, including the chemistry laboratory, were in use, although there was only daylight to study by on the third floor. He said it was impossible to make a close estimate of the damage so soon, but that he thought it would run to $2,000 or $3,000.

Doherty said that spectacular as were the flames that shot up through the storeroom vent and old chimney it was probably fortunate that the opening was there. Otherwise, he said, the fire might have done more damage to the building.

There was no casualty among firemen fighting the fire, although the escaping ammonia made the work difficult. Chief Lausch had himself studied in the Chemistry Laboratory when he attended Palmer High School, then called the Colorado Springs High School.

Businesses, Others Clash Over Ordinance for Signs

more liberal for business signs.

They did object to a provision in the ordinance calling for removal of non-conforming business signs within two years and advertising signs within five years.

Douglas Naegele, president of Naegele Outdoor Advertising, said that as many as 20 years might be needed for removal of a non-conforming business sign which had cost a businessman as much as $25,000.

Thomas Barr of Star Signs noted that if signs legally put up, had to come down in a few years because they were nonconforming, "Someone is going to take an awful beating. Any sign that was legally installed ought to remain."

This viewpoint was echoed by Hal King, manager of Advance Neon Sign Co., and Vern Johnson, president of Johnson Pontiac, called the regulations fair but "fairly harsh."

Several tourist attractions in the area objected to provisions for removal of the non-conforming signs. They were John May, representing May Tropical Museum south of Colorado Springs, and Lucky Herzberger, representing North Pole west of the city.

William Elliott, president of the Colorado Springs Equipment Co., asked if "An old and established business should have to remove business signs erected in good faith?"

The more liberal sizes for business signs in the ordinance were opposed by Dr. Fred A. Sondermann, president of the Colorado Springs Charter Association.

Saying they were "alarmingly high" and in some cases a six-fold increase, Sondermann also noted that the five and two year removal provisions for non-conforming signs were too long.

He also said that signs detract drivers' attention and "they are bound to be dangerous." He said he didn't like the K-Mart and a King Soopers sign at shopping centers in East Colorado Springs.

Earl Bryson of the Springs Area Beautiful Association, but representing himself, termed entrances into the city a "jungle of signs." He warned planners they had "gone too far in your liberalizations."

Writer Marshall Sprague reminded planners that Colorado Springs is a beautiful area. He said signs could be asthetic as well as expensive. This, he said, would make the beauty lovers and sign industry happy. Of the region, Sprague said: "We want it to continue to be prosperous, we want it to be beautiful."

Another angle discussed was a sign code following land use as already prescribed by zoning. The proposed ordinance only applies to controlled access highways, not all roads.

Chairman Andrew Marshall said the planners would meet soon — and possibly adopt a new proposed ordinance, taking Thursday's public hearing into consideration.

His committee has no power to impose sign regulations. If they propose an ordinance it will go to the City Council and County Commissioners for final approval.

Then all segments of the population can speak again before these lawmakers.

cautioning against "the dictates of radicalism in any form," Burch said he wants and intends to remain in the chairmanship for which he was tapped by Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

"I believe I can assist in achieving that unity, in preparing the Republican party, in satisfying the desire of the American people for a society that is great mostly because it remains free," he said.

Burch conceded the Republicans made some mistakes during the 1964 campaign. He did not say what they were.

But he added: "The political environment for any Republican presidential contender in the year 1964 could hardly have been worse.

"I reflect on no person, nor engage in the defense of none, when I say that it would have been a political miracle for any contender on our national ticket to have won in such a year," he added.

He said the party can make a comeback.

"I visualize a Republican party with a membership so legion an appeal so universal, as to insure gains — starting this year and culminating with the presidency in 1968," he said. "That is why I want to remain."

Burch said Tuesday a majority of the National Committee members who will gather in Chicago Jan. 22 are on his side, but he noted the opposition claims the same thing.

"Obviously," he said then, "somebody's lying."

As the showdown drew closer, even some allies of the 37-year-old chairman said the opposition seems to have settled on Bliss, and conceded the moderates opposing Burch may have the votes to command a majority.

Bliss did not support Goldwater during the senator's battle to capture the presidential nomination, but enlisted in his effort after the national convention.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., told a news conference Thursday he will work actively for Burch's ouster. Scott, a former GOP national chairman, mentioned Bliss as a possible Burch successor.

Idaho Gov. Robert Smylie, a leader of the forces opposing Burch called Bliss a man around whom the party could rally. Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton has noted that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was one of the first party leaders to suggest Bliss for the national chairmanship.

Thursday night in St. Louis, Walter C. Ploesner, the GOP national committeeman from Missouri, said 21 of 31 National Committee members from 12 Midwestern states who attended an unannounced meeting Thursday in Chicago or were contacted by telephone told him they promised to back Bliss.

Army Snaps Too Many Photos, General Says

ing," Johnson wrote.

"There are simply too many official cameras throughout the Army, and too many people are involved with the taking of pictures."

Although his letter didn't say so, it was reported that Johnson had been annoyed on returning from inspection trips to find stacks of pictures taken by Army photographers at every stop. The pictures were said to feature the four-star chief of staff and apparently were taken in the hope of pleasing him.

If that was the hope, the effect was just the opposite.

"On the matter of coverage of parades, presentation of awards, official parties, and visiting dignitaries, I favor a strict interpretation of AR-108-5 which limits such coverage to 'official requirements,' " Johnson told his commanders.

"On the basis of my own public appearances and the many comments I have heard from senior officers, it seems that the current practice is to interpret 'official requirements' far too liberally."

Excessive photography, as he put it, accounts for "a significant chunk of the estimated $3.8 million spent in fiscal 1964 on the photographic effort," the Army chief asserted.

"I request that you institute such measures as may be necessary to reduce picture taking to true official requirements," Johnson concluded.

And, as everybody in the Army knows, that kind of a "request" is an order.

"One woman from Iowa called and asked if we had a card for a fawn-colored Chihuahua," said Mrs. Olson. "She was crushed when she found out we didn't."

A more satisfied customer was a woman who had helped her dog send Christmas cards each year by putting its paw on an ink pad and transferring its print to a piece of stationery.

"She said that was kind of messy and she was really grateful for our cards," Mrs. Olson said.

"Our reception shows how nutty people are about animals," said Mrs. Olson, whose dog, Dagmar, "has sent cards to all the dogs and cats in the family."

Mrs. Czubakowski's dog and two cats also are card customers.

But Henrikson provides no customers.

"He used to have a dog but he found out he was allergic to them and had to get rid of it," said Mrs. Olson.

$400 Recorder Missing From Apartment

A tape recorder valued at $400 was taken from an apartment between Dec. 29 and Tuesday, police reported.

Jerry L. Hopkins, 2833 E. Pikes Peak Ave., told police he left the recorder at the apartment of two friends of his at 2827 E. Pikes Peak Ave., and that while the friends were out of town on vacation, the recorder disappeared.

Police could find no signs of forced entry into the apartment of Hopkins' friends, according to the report. The recorder was described as being gray in color and having a dual sound track.

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Ethel Milne Sunday morning at Sunday School. Mrs. Milne was 86 years young Saturday, Jan. 2. Some of the neighbors and her daughter Doris Powers remembered and called with little gifts of love to help make her day a bit brighter, which she appreciated very much.

Teacher and pupils again are back in the saddle and the thing now to look forward to is first semester exams.

Sunday School Rally will be held at the Hanover Community Church Sunday Jan. 10. This is the Rally of Black Forest, Peyton, Hanover and others who would like to attend. There will be the regular morning services, with basket lunch at noon, with program and business meeting of the Rally and devotional in the afternoon. All are cordially invited to attend.

Several ladies gathered at the Hanover Church last Thursday to sew in the church basement. Comforts were tacked. One was made for the Brockhurst Boys Ranch. Others were made and tacked for the Dorcas Society of the Seventh Day Adventist Church. The president of the society, a newsman of Colorado Springs, came out to visit and also take some pictures. Some of the men worked on the restrooms, which are almost completed. Some painting remains to be done. This is a nice addition to the church. There will be a work day this Wednesday, Jan. 6th at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vette drove to Colorado Springs Sunday and had lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dickson and family, it being Wayne's birthday. They also took Debra home. She had spent a few days with her grandparents, the A. L. Vettes. Teressa also had spent a few days at the Vettes, but had gone home Thursday, when Donna and the other children drove out to the church from Colorado Springs.

The Young folks' Pioneers for Christ group, with their sponsors, will attend a skating party with the Black Forest group in Colorado Springs Tuesday night, Jan. 12. All young folks who would like to attend are invited. Get in contact with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vette.

Election of officers was held at the Hanover Community Church Sunday, Jan. 3. A. L. Vette was re-elected superintendent, with Bill Baker as assistant. Nellie Dickson and Rick Vette were elected pianists, with some of the girls who play part time. Virginia and Sevilla Baker were elected librarians, Rick Vette and Dwaine Trusdale ushers and, to keep the record chart, Fannie Reble, secretary - treasurer, Rosa Baker. Ninetta Vette, Judy Hammer & Irene Vette were named to help arrange for special music. Classes pick their teachers. The superintendents appoint the ones for the smaller classes. This will be done in two weeks, as the Rally will be next Sunday.

Bess Nelson and three children of Colorado Springs attended the sewing held at the church last week. The Nelsons formerly lived on the Bill Harding place, where Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reble now live.

Mr. and Mrs. Huston Peach have been working on their house on the land they purchased from their son-in-law, Earl Baker. The land is on the old Reynolds place. The Peaches now live on the old Causey place.

Several attended the watch night service at the Hanover Community Church Thursday night. They only shot a few fireworks off, as there was too great a cloud coverage.

Robert and Marvin Chisman, of Pueblo, drove out Friday night and stayed with the Roy Chismans. They returned to Pueblo Saturday afternoon. Pauline and girls are in Old Mexico for two weeks.

Congratulations are extended to Ardith Bruce, who won the world's championship in barrel racing. The finals were held in Dallas, Tex. Alene Gaylor won first there. But even though Ardith got second there she held the most points for champion. Alene Gaylor was in ninth place in the year's riding, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce now live in Fountain.

The Ellicott Fire Department recently burned the house on the old Bert Ward place, getting things in readiness for Dr. Shields to build a new home there. Dr. Shields is a chiropractor in Colorado Springs.

Word was received this morning, Jan. 4, of the passing of Ralph Clements, of the Drennan community. The Clements were some of the settlers when this land was being settled. He is survived by his wife, one son Keith, of Colorado Springs; two daughters, Elese, of Denver, and Virginia, of Squirrel Creek, and their families.

'Jungle Boys' Compete With Yeti Snowman

By R. C. PANDE

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—Naked, hairy "jungle boys" are reported to be competing with the Yetis — abominable snowmen — in the lower reaches of the western Himalayas.

According to reports reaching Chamoli, the district headquarters 200 miles northeast of New Delhi, three "wild" boys were seen on the outskirts of Talab Malkoti village, about 25 miles north of Chamoli.

The reports said the three "naked, hairy wild boys" were too quick for the villagers and disappeared in the dense forest nearby when the latter tried to capture them.

Reports of the jungle boys appeared in a local language weekly — Garhwal Samachar. According to the weekly, the jungle boys had been seen several times near the Malkoti village.

Chamoli, inhabited by about 650,000 sturdy hillfolk, is a thickly forested, mountainous country, nestling close to Chinese-ruled Tibet. It has been better known for its man-eating tigers, kingsized orchids and fine soldiers.

This, however, was not the first time "jungle boys" have been reported from this part of the Himalayas. From time immemorial, the locals have maintained the existence of wicked wild men, called the "Canamanushas," who often raid the villages to kidnap women.

According to the villagers, these jungle men often haunt their villages to demand — by gestures—their share of the crops. In return for the grain, salt and sugar, they are said to leave behind "claw - carved" wooden bowls and blackberries for the obliging villagers.

Villagers who swear to have seen the jungle boys closely describe the species to be well-built, hairy creatures with flat noses and long arms touching the knees.

The villagers also think their jungle men aren't as bashful as the reputed abominable snowmen of the Nepal Himalayas.

Fender Benders Follow Law Letter

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — When two drivers had a fender-bending accident Wednesday they followed the letter of the law.

Robert Dicke, 22, Minneapolis, and Dennis McMann, 32, St. Paul, left their cars where the accident occurred and went to call police.

A Rock Island train came along and smashed into both cars. One hit a utility pole. The pole fell and shattered the windshield of a third automobile.

Russian Newspaper Attacks Eisenhower

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet military paper Red Star today attacked former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's dissent from the Allies' World War II unconditional surrender policy. An article by V. Pavlov charged that "Eisenhower and his yes men from the camp of West German military today echo Goebbels' propaganda."

Eisenhower recently said he did not agree with President Franklin D. Roosevelt's decision to demand Germany's unconditional surrender. He said he felt the demand lengthened the war and cost additional lives.

Pavlov charged that "reactionary circles in the United States and Britain" opposed the unconditional surrender policy because they wished to preserve Hitler's Germany as a counterweight to Soviet Russia.

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Ethel Milne Sunday morning at Sunday School. Mrs. Milne was 86 years young Saturday, Jan. 2. Some of the neighbors and her daughter Doris Powers remembered and called with little gifts of love to help make her day a bit brighter, which she appreciated very much.

Teacher and pupils again are back in the saddle and the thing now to look forward to is first semester exams.

Sunday School Rally will be held at the Hanover Community Church Sunday Jan. 10. This is the Rally of Black Forest, Peyton, Hanover and others who would like to attend. There will be the regular morning services, with basket lunch at noon, with program and business meeting of the Rally and devotional in the afternoon. All are cordially invited to attend.

Several ladies gathered at the Hanover Church last Thursday to sew in the church basement. Comforts were tacked. One was made for the Brockhurst Boys Ranch. Others were made and tacked for the Dorcas Society of the Seventh Day Adventist Church. The president of the society, a newsman of Colorado Springs, came out to visit and also take some pictures. Some of the men worked on the restrooms, which are almost completed. Some painting remains to be done. This is a nice addition to the church. There will be a work day this Wednesday, Jan. 6th at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vette drove to Colorado Springs Sunday and had lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dickson and family, it being Wayne's birthday. They also took Debra home. She had spent a few days with her grandparents, the A. L. Vettes. Teressa also had spent a few days at the Vettes, but had gone home Thursday, when Donna and the other children drove out to the church from Colorado Springs.

The Young folks' Pioneers for Christ group, with their sponsors, will attend a skating party with the Black Forest group in Colorado Springs Tuesday night, Jan. 12. All young folks who would like to attend are invited. Get in contact with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vette.

Election of officers was held at the Hanover Community Church Sunday, Jan. 3. A. L. Vette was re-elected superintendent, with Bill Baker as assistant. Nellie Dickson and Rick Vette were elected pianists, with some of the girls who play part time. Virginia and Sevilla Baker were elected librarians, Rick Vette and Dwaine Trusdale ushers and, to keep the record chart, Fannie Reble, secretary - treasurer, Rosa Baker. Ninetta Vette, Judy Hammer & Irene Vette were named to help arrange for special music. Classes pick their teachers. The superintendents appoint the ones for the smaller classes. This will be done in two weeks, as the Rally will be next Sunday.

Bess Nelson and three children of Colorado Springs attended the sewing held at the church last week. The Nelsons formerly lived on the Bill Harding place, where Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reble now live.

Mr. and Mrs. Huston Peach have been working on their house on the land they purchased from their son-in-law, Earl Baker. The land is on the old Reynolds place. The Peaches now live on the old Causey place.

Several attended the watch night service at the Hanover Community Church Thursday night. They only shot a few fireworks off, as there was too great a cloud coverage.

Robert and Marvin Chisman, of Pueblo, drove out Friday night and stayed with the Roy Chismans. They returned to Pueblo Saturday afternoon. Pauline and girls are in Old Mexico for two weeks.

Congratulations are extended to Ardith Bruce, who won the world's championship in barrel racing. The finals were held in Dallas, Tex. Alene Gaylor won first there. But even though Ardith got second there she held the most points for champion. Alene Gaylor was in ninth place in the year's riding, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce now live in Fountain.

The Ellicott Fire Department recently burned the house on the old Bert Ward place, getting things in readiness for Dr. Shields to build a new home there. Dr. Shields is a chiropractor in Colorado Springs.

Word was received this morning, Jan. 4, of the passing of Ralph Clements, of the Drennan community. The Clements were some of the settlers when this land was being settled. He is survived by his wife, one son Keith, of Colorado Springs; two daughters, Elese, of Denver, and Virginia, of Squirrel Creek, and their families.

'Jungle Boys' Compete With Yeti Snowman

By R. C. PANDE

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—Naked, hairy "jungle boys" are reported to be competing with the Yetis — abominable snowmen — in the lower reaches of the western Himalayas.

According to reports reaching Chamoli, the district headquarters 200 miles northeast of New Delhi, three "wild" boys were seen on the outskirts of Talab Malkoti village, about 25 miles north of Chamoli.

The reports said the three "naked, hairy wild boys" were too quick for the villagers and disappeared in the dense forest nearby when the latter tried to capture them.

Reports of the jungle boys appeared in a local language weekly — Garhwal Samachar. According to the weekly, the jungle boys had been seen several times near the Malkoti village.

Chamoli, inhabited by about 650,000 sturdy hillfolk, is a thickly forested, mountainous country, nestling close to Chinese-ruled Tibet. It has been better known for its man-eating tigers, kingsized orchids and fine soldiers.

This, however, was not the first time "jungle boys" have been reported from this part of the Himalayas. From time immemorial, the locals have maintained the existence of wicked wild men, called the "Canamanushas," who often raid the villages to kidnap women.

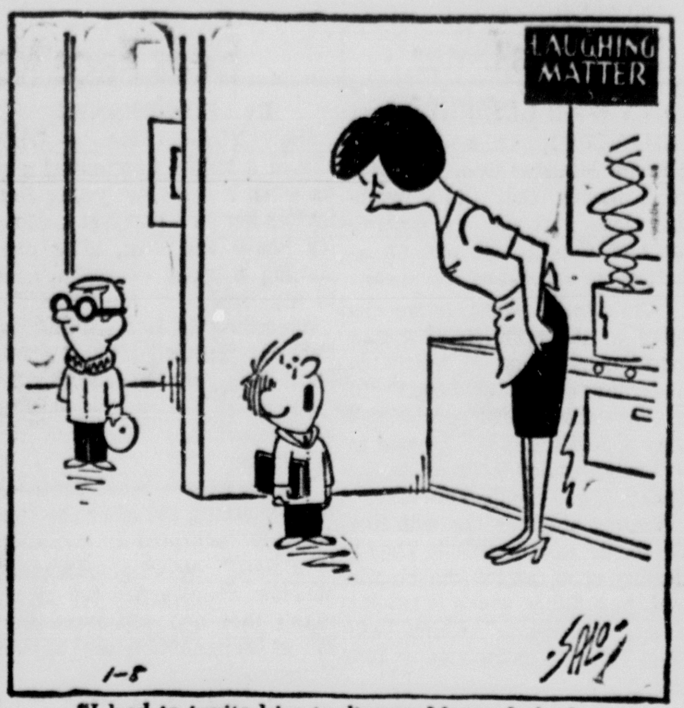
According to the villagers, these jungle men often haunt their villages to demand — by gestures—their share of the crops. In return for the grain, salt and sugar, they are said to leave behind "claw - carved" wooden bowls and blackberries for the obliging villagers.

Villagers who swear to have seen the jungle boys closely describe the species to be well-built, hairy creatures with flat noses and long arms touching the knees.

The villagers also think their jungle men aren't as bashful as the reputed abominable snowmen of the Nepal Himalayas.

AIR CARRIER LIABILITY

The Warsaw Convention, a multilateral treaty drafted in Warsaw, Poland, to which most nations are parties, was set up to regulate the ateliability of international air carriers in case of accident.



"I had to invite him to dinner, Mom—he's the food critic for our school paper."

TV Producers Seek New Ideas

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The problem perennially bedeviling the programming heads of the major television networks is finding sources of new show ideas.

Usual sources are switches on programs which have proved popular; combining two popular themes into one series, say a cowboy spy, an idea I just had, or adaptations of old movies and books, even if only the title actually is utilized.

One vast potential source of series ideas however has been completely overlooked, or perhaps ignored, by the industry: the slice-of-life commercials, as they are called.

For several years now a girl named Katy Winters has been popping up all over the television screen giving away containers of deoderant to people with perspiration problems. Katy, who invariably solves her friends' problems, seems to have a serious one of her own — she seems to be a rather lost, wistful creature who lives vicariously through her acquaintances' experiences. She would be an ideal central figure in a new soap opera.

Then there's that father of the bride, who at the wedding reception confides to his radiant daughter: "I haven't lost a daughter — I've gained a dandruff shampoo!" This fellow, his wife and family are ideally suited to be moved intact into a prime-time situation comedy.

For the kiddy hours, there's a great potential in the adventures of that giant who lives inside of top-loading washing machines. He must lead a fascinating, if cramped, life. Or further adventures of those women and children who can fly through the air merely by grabbing a can of scouring powder.

Isn't there a warm human story in Josephine, the lady plumber? This is indeed meat for the creative script writer.

Isn't there an action-adventure series in those handsome Lotharios who, in spite of owning sail boats and fast cars, are ignored by the gentle sex because they use greasy hair cream or inadequate shaving equipment?

And what about a series — probably with psychiatric emphasis — on the group of unfortunates stuck with the wrong toothpaste in the brushing tests?

Oh, there's eight million series in the commercials — if you look at them.

Egypt, Sudan, Make Quick Political Deal

CAIRO (AP) — Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Sudanese Premier El Khatem El-Khalifa made a quick deal Thursday night at an iftar, the sunset breakfast with which Moslems break their daily fast during the holy month of Ramadan.

"I'll send you 2,000 head of livestock as a present from the Sudanese government," Khalifa whispered to Nasser, whose country perennially needs food.

"And I'm paying you immediately $2.3 million we owe you," said Nasser.

Egypt owes Sudan $12.6 million under a 1962 trade exchange agreement and $42 million compensation for Sudanese Nubians driven from their home by the Aswan High Dam.

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD — James Poe says he's like an architect who's always grumbling about his contractor: "For years I've been griping about what directors do to my scripts, So I decided it was about time to put up or shut up." He signed a long-term contract with Mike Frankovich at Columbia and we'll find out what kind of a director he is in "The Gambler," which he'll shoot in Las Vegas. It's the story of a compulsive gambler. We went through the list and named many. When he came to Mike Todd, he said, "I'm beginning to miss him." Poe won an Oscar for "80 Days," but had to sue Todd to get screen credit. Mike had to call back all the prints and put his name on them. Then he sued Jim for $250,000. I asked Poe how he made out on his "Lilies of the Field" percentage. Better than all expectations," he said. "It put me in a higher bracket, but for this I'm not complaining."

Cubby Broccoli says Jock and Ned McLean first told him about the James Bond stories, but it was six years before he could make a deal to film "Dr. No." He has the rights to all of them except "Casino Royale," which Charlie Feldman inherited through Gregory Ratoff, and "Thunderball," which Kevin McClory will co-produce. They'll film it in Nassau in April. In this one Bond will be a frog man wearing a dinner jacket complete with carnation under his diving suit. "You don't need a gold mine when you've got a 'Goldfinger,' " says Broccoli, who wants to make another picture here. He's been in England since '51.

King Constantine of Greece went backstage to compliment Laurence Harvey on his "Camelot." After examining the heavy velvet robes, capes, and jewelry Larry wears as King Arthur, Constantine said, "Thank God, we don't have to wear that stuff any more."

Jean Seberg returns here to finish "Moment to Moment," Mervyn Leroy's picture which she started in Nice. Much has happened to her since she left our town and took up residence in Paris. For one thing, she was married to Writer Romain Gary.

I hear Deborah Kerr got $900 for a magazine article and framed the check to remind her husband, Peter Viertel, he'snot the only writer in the family. Deborah's English — she'll cash it. I'll bet Liz Taylor didn't frame her check for $150,000 a national mag paid for her story. Incidentally, Richard Burton's prediction to Eddie Fisher came true. He said, "She'll make me the greatest actor in the world." Burton now outranks Liz on the money-making star list.

Merle Oberon did it again. It was Christmas all over after her party. Her guests sent her all kinds of gifts; Ray Stark, a gold key, Anita May, a Steuben vase filled with orchids, and Bing and Kathy Crosby, a Chinese porcelain plate. The Crosbys danced until midnight, then Bing said: "I've got to take her home. She starts a Ben Casey on Monday." Betsy Bloomingdale was being congratulated for making the best-dressed list.

Bill Goetz bet me a box of candy that Kim Stanley wouldn't win the Oscar. He said, "it's seldom that a star of a small picture wins." "What about Sidney Poitier" I asked.

Roz Russell and George Burns did their own version of the Watusi. He dances better than he sings. At 1 a.m. Mrs. Bob Enders took over the piano and sang. The guests of honor, Princess Ghislaine de Polignac and Baron Alexis de Rede, were charming.

The brother of French artist Dimitri Berea joined Archie Preissman and myself. He thinks we need a monorail and said there was scads of Eruopean money, including that of the Krupps of Germany, ready to back it. Preissman explained it wasn't money we needed (we have plenty) but permission to build it. Berea looked crestfallen after Archie explained the situation and gave him $25,000 worth of free advice.

The girls all dazzled in new gowns and jewels. Merle wore her famous emeralds. One of leading jewelers told me more stars bought diamonds for Christmas gifts this year than ever before. Many handsome stags were present. They looked as though they'll be around — and single — a long time.

Chances for Medicare Reported by Doctor

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Dr. Donovan Ward, president of the American Medical Association said Thursday the chances of President Johnson's medicare program being passed by Congress have improved since the November election.

Dr. Ward declined to comment on the multibillion-dollar package of health proposals introduced by the President, including insured hospital care for the elderly and intensified research in the fight against killer diseases.

The AMA has opposed medicare, calling it a step toward socialism.

Bills signed by the President are sent to the National Archives where they are assigned a public law number and published.

Joint Prayer Service Slated for Inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP) — A joint Protestant-Roman Catholic prayer service will be held here Inauguration Day.

The unique service is scheduled for the morning of Jan. 20 at St. John's Episcopal church, across the street from the White House.

The sponsors are the Catholic archdiocese of Washington and the Protestant Council of Churches of Greater Washington. Invitations, which are being sent to President and Mrs. Johnson, Vice President-elect and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey and 1,000 government officials and lay leaders, refer to "an ecumenical prayer service."

Chile Seeks Closer Ties With Commies

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Foreign Minister Gabriel Valdes recommends that Chile establish closer ties with the neutralist and Communist nations as part of an expanding world role.

"Chile must be an active element in the creation of a new world community, in which the underdeveloped countries in the so-called third world will play a decisive role," he said in a foreign policy address to the Senate made public Thursday.

Hinting at closer ties with Red China, he said that Chile "has a destiny open toward the Pacific and, in a future which is not far away, continental China will open itself to exchanges in this area."

However, Valdes pledged the moderately leftist government of President Eudardo Frei to continue Chile's alliance with the United States. Chile received $17 per capita in U.S. aid last year, the highest in Latin America.

East Berliner Hurt By Border Guards

BERLIN (AP) — A young East Berliner was wounded early today by border guards firing submachine guns to stop his escape to West Berlin.

West Berlin police said the man, about 20, made his way through the 300-feet-wide security zone at Bernauerstrasse, in the French sector. A Communist patrol discovered him just before he reached the wall.

West Berlin police saw the young man, limping, being led to an ambulance.

Reds Face New Quandary Over Love in Russia

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA) — What should a nubile Communist girl do when a romantic young Red invites her to a party at a country house and then, after consuming a glass of vodka tries to kiss her

According to Komsomolskaya Pravda, Russia's official youth publication, she should slap his face, stalk out of the datcha and report his offense to the newspaper.

That is exactly what Comrade Miss Svetlana did after she "innocently" accepted an invitation to a party at a datcha near Moscow. She slapped the young man's face and denounced him in an indignant letter to the Komsomolskaya Pravda.

But did Miss Svetlana's friends appreciate her courageous act. Not at all, reported Pravda's angry editors. In fact, the paper was deluged with letters from "romantic" girls who hardly shared Miss Svetlana's pure Marxist-Leninist view of necking.

What puts them in a dither is that this preoccupation with love between the sexes keeps young men and women from putting their hearts from the only thing that counts—working and producing for the Communist state.

But physical love, alas, is just too impudent to be regimented, Communist style. And there are no "sacred" Marxist - Leninist texts giving guidance as to how romantic love should be handled in a materialistic collective society.

So, despite strict orders to substitute love of work and love of the Communist party for physical love, romantic capitalist love laughs at tractors, factories and locksmiths.

The authorities are forced to admit this, however reluctantly. The director of Communist Poland's Academy of Science — putting the best possible face on the resurgence of romanticism —recently said:

"We are now facing an imbalance in various fields, including love. I venture to say that romanticism is disappearing. However, love cannot exist without sincere courtship and gentlemanliness, because such a lack would deny the very essense of the love union."

The Red leaders are obviously in a quandary. What makes it difficult for them to expound a strict Communist line on sex is that there is none that can serve the Red state on all occasions.

In the early days of the Russian revolution, there were continuous jabs at the family as an outdated institution of the "old capitalist order." Alexandra Kollontai, Lenin's close collaborator and Russia's apostle of "free love," even preached the family was "ceasing to be a necessity for its members as well as for the Communist state."

Child Suffocates In Plastic Bag

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A girl, 3, pulled a plastic bag over her head and suffocated after her mother had knotted both ends to prevent just such a tragedy.

Police said the girl, Perri Parsons, apparently had pulled the bag out of a waste basket Wednesday.

TV Producers Seek New Ideas

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The problem perennially bedeviling the programming heads of the major television networks is finding sources of new show ideas.

Usual sources are switches on programs which have proved popular; combining two popular themes into one series, say a cowboy spy, an idea I just had, or adaptations of old movies and books, even if only the title actually is utilized.

One vast potential source of series ideas however has been completely overlooked, or perhaps ignored, by the industry: the slice-of-life commercials, as they are called.

For several years now a girl named Katy Winters has been popping up all over the television screen giving away containers of deoderant to people with perspiration problems. Katy, who invariably solves her friends' problems, seems to have a serious one of her own — she seems to be a rather lost, wistful creature who lives vicariously through her acquaintances' experiences. She would be an ideal central figure in a new soap opera.

Then there's that father of the bride, who at the wedding reception confides to his radiant daughter: "I haven't lost a daughter — I've gained a dandruff shampoo!" This fellow, his wife and family are ideally suited to be moved intact into a prime-time situation comedy.

For the kiddy hours, there's a great potential in the adventures of that giant who lives inside of top-loading washing machines. He must lead a fascinating, if cramped, life. Or further adventures of those women and children who can fly through the air merely by grabbing a can of scouring powder.

Isn't there a warm human story in Josephine, the lady plumber? This is indeed meat for the creative script writer.

Isn't there an action-adventure series in those handsome Lotharios who, in spite of owning sail boats and fast cars, are ignored by the gentle sex because they use greasy hair cream or inadequate shaving equipment?

And what about a series — probably with psychiatric emphasis — on the group of unfortunates stuck with the wrong toothpaste in the brushing tests?

Oh, there's eight million series in the commercials — if you look at them.

Egypt, Sudan, Make Quick Political Deal

CAIRO (AP) — Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Sudanese Premier El Khatem El-Khalifa made a quick deal Thursday night at an iftar, the sunset breakfast with which Moslems break their daily fast during the holy month of Ramadan.

"I'll send you 2,000 head of livestock as a present from the Sudanese government," Khalifa whispered to Nasser, whose country perennially needs food.

"And I'm paying you immediately $2.3 million we owe you," said Nasser.

Egypt owes Sudan $12.6 million under a 1962 trade exchange agreement and $42 million compensation for Sudanese Nubians driven from their home by the Aswan High Dam.

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD — James Poe says he's like an architect who's always grumbling about his contractor: "For years I've been griping about what directors do to my scripts, So I decided it was about time to put up or shut up." He signed a long-term contract with Mike Frankovich at Columbia and we'll find out what kind of a director he is in "The Gambler," which he'll shoot in Las Vegas. It's the story of a compulsive gambler. We went through the list and named many. When he came to Mike Todd, he said, "I'm beginning to miss him." Poe won an Oscar for "80 Days," but had to sue Todd to get screen credit. Mike had to call back all the prints and put his name on them. Then he sued Jim for $250,000. I asked Poe how he made out on his "Lilies of the Field" percentage. "Better than all expectations," he said. "It put me in a higher bracket, but for this I'm not complaining."

Cubby Broccoli says Jock and Ned McLean first told him about the James Bond stories, but it was six years before he could make a deal to film "Dr. No." He has the rights to all of them except "Casino Royale," which Charlie Feldman inherited through Gregory Ratoff, and "Thunderball," which Kevin McClory will co-produce. They'll husband, Peter Viertel, he's not film it in Nassau in April. In this one Bond will be a frog man wearing a dinner jacket complete with carnation under his diving suit. "You don't need a gold mine when you've got a 'Goldfinger,' " says Broccoli, who wants to make another picture here. He's been in England since '51.

King Constantine of Greece went backstage to compliment Laurence Harvey on his "Camelot." After examining the heavy velvet robes, capes, and jewelry Larry wears as King Arthur, Constantine said, "Thank God, we don't have to wear that stuff any more."

Jean Seberg returns here to finish "Moment to Moment," Mervyn Leroy's picture which she started in Nice. Much has happened to her since she left our town and took up residence in Paris. For one thing, she was married to Writer Romain Gary.

I hear Deborah Kerr got $900 for a magazine article and framed the check to remind her husband, Peter Viertel, he'snot the only writer in the family. Deborah's English — she'll cash it. I'll bet Liz Taylor didn't frame her check for $150,000 a national mag paid for her story. Incidentally, Richard Burton's prediction to Eddie Fisher came true. He said, "She'll make me the greatest actor in the world." Burton now outranks Liz on the money-making star list.

Merle Oberon did it again. It was Christmas all over after her party. Her guests sent her all kinds of gifts; Ray Stark, a gold key, Anita May, a Steuben vase filled with orchids, and Bing and Kathy Crosby, a Chinese porcelain plate. The Crosbys danced until midnight, then Bing said: "I've got to take her home. She starts a Ben Casey on Monday." Betsy Bloomingdale was being congratulated for making the best-dressed list.

Bill Goetz bet me a box of candy that Kim Stanley wouldn't win the Oscar. He said, "it's seldom that a star of a small picture wins." "What about Sidney Poitier" I asked.

Roz Russell and George Burns did their own version of the Watusi. He dances better than he sings. At 1 a.m. Mrs. Bob Enders took over the piano and sang. The guests of honor, Princess Ghislaine de Polignac and Baron Alexis de Rede, were charming.

The brother of French artist Dimitri Berea joined Archie Preissman and myself. He thinks we need a monorail and said there was scads of Eruopean money, including that of the Krupps of Germany, ready to back it. Preissman explained it wasn't money we needed (we have plenty) but permission to build it. Berea looked crestfallen after Archie explained the situation and gave him $25,000 worth of free advice.

The girls all dazzled in new gowns and jewels. Merle wore her famous emeralds. One of leading jewelers told me more stars bought diamonds for Christmas gifts this year than ever before. Many handsome stags were present. They looked as though they'll be around — and single — a long time.

Chances for Medicare Reported by Doctor

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Dr. Donovan Ward, president of the American Medical Association said Thursday the chances of President Johnson's medicare program being passed by Congress have improved since the November election.

Dr. Ward declined to comment on the multibillion-dollar package of health proposals introduced by the President, including insured hospital care for the elderly and intensified research in the fight against killer diseases.

The AMA has opposed medicare, calling it a step toward socialism.

Bills signed by the President are sent to the National Archives where they are assigned a public law number and published.

Joint Prayer Service Slated for Inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP) — A joint Protestant-Roman Catholic prayer service will be held here Inauguration Day.

The unique service is scheduled for the morning of Jan. 20 at St. John's Episcopal church, across the street from the White House.

The sponsors are the Catholic archdiocese of Washington and the Protestant Council of Churches of Greater Washington. Invitations, which are being sent to President and Mrs. Johnson, Vice President-elect and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey and 1,000 government officials and lay leaders, refer to "an ecumenical prayer service."

Chile Seeks Closer Ties With Commies

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Foreign Minister Gabriel Valdes recommends that Chile establish closer ties with the neutralist and Communist nations as part of an expanding world role.

"Chile must be an active element in the creation of a new world community, in which the underdeveloped countries in the so-called third world will play a decisive role," he said in a foreign policy address to the Senate made public Thursday.

Hinting at closer ties with Red China, he said that Chile "has a destiny open toward the Pacific and, in a future which is not far away, continental China will open itself to exchanges in this area."

However, Valdes pledged the moderately leftist government of President Eudardo Frei to continue Chile's alliance with the United States. Chile received $17 per capita in U.S. aid last year, the highest in Latin America.

East Berliner Hurt By Border Guards

BERLIN (AP) — A young East Berliner was wounded early today by border guards firing submachine guns to stop his escape to West Berlin.

West Berlin police said the man, about 20, made his way through the 300-feet-wide security zone at Bernauerstrasse, in the French sector. A Communist patrol discovered him just before he reached the wall.

West Berlin police saw the young man, limping, being led to an ambulance.

Reds Face New Quandary Over Love in Russia

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA) — What should a nubile Communist girl do when a romantic young Red invites her to a party at a country house and then, after consuming a glass of vodka tries to kiss her

According to Komsomolskaya Pravda, Russia's official youth publication, she should slap his face, stalk out of the datcha and report his offense to the newspaper.

That is exactly what Comrade Miss Svetlana did after she "innocently" accepted an invitation to a party at a datcha near Moscow. She slapped the young man's face and denounced him in an indignant letter to the Komsomolskaya Pravda.

But did Miss Svetlana's friends appreciate her courageous act. Not at all, reported Pravda's angry editors. In fact, the paper was deluged with letters from "romantic" girls who hardly shared Miss Svetlana's pure Marxist-Leninist view of necking.

What puts them in a dither is that this preoccupation with love between the sexes keeps young men and women from putting their hearts from the only thing that counts—working and producing for the Communist state.

But physical love, alas, is just too impudent to be regimented, Communist style. And there are no "sacred" Marxist - Leninist texts giving guidance as to how romantic love should be handled in a materialistic collective society.

So, despite strict orders to substitute love of work and love of the Communist party for physical love, romantic capitalist love laughs at tractors, factories and locksmiths.

The authorities are forced to admit this, however reluctantly. The director of Communist Poland's Academy of Science — putting the best possible face on the resurgence of romanticism —recently said:

"We are now facing an imbalance in various fields, including love. I venture to say that romanticism is disappearing. However, love cannot exist without sincere courtship and gentlemanliness, because such a lack would deny the very essense of the love union."

The Red leaders are obviously in a quandary. What makes it difficult for them to expound a strict Communist line on sex is that there is none that can serve the Red state on all occasions.

In the early days of the Russian revolution, there were continuous jabs at the family as an outdated institution of the "old capitalist order." Alexandra Kollontai, Lenin's close collaborator and Russia's apostle of "free love," even preached the family was "ceasing to be a necessity for its members as well as for the Communist state."

Child Suffocates In Plastic Bag

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A girl, 3, pulled a plastic bag over her head and suffocated after her mother had knotted both ends to prevent just such a tragedy.

Police said the girl, Perri Parsons, apparently had pulled the bag out of a waste basket Wednesday.

Weather Control Still Far Off, Scientists Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson talks about changing or controlling the weather but federal scientists indicated today it will be years before the talking changes to doing.

The National Science Foundation, in an annual report to Johnson on weather modification, did see a possibility of changing regional climates to some degree within decades. It emphasized the need for continued research.

The foundations said mankind perhaps is modifying the weather already in subtle, little understood ways and perhaps priority should be given to studying the effects of such changes.

One noteworthy development, the report said, is the production of mathematical models of the atmosphere by electronic computers performing millions of calculations in a short time.

Another hopeful development, the report suggested, is in combining the knowledge and skills of various scientists —anthropologists, biologists, geologists, meteorologists, historians —in research that might influence the direction of weather modification in future years.

LBJ, De Gaulle Put Dispute 'On Ice'

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press International

PARIS (UPI) — The long-feared showdown between President Johnson and French President Charles de Gaulle over an Allied nuclear force appears to have been put on ice — perhaps for good.

French officials are confident there no longer is danger of a confrontation over this in 1965.

In fact, there is growing belief here that the entire project is dead.

Washington's recent announcement that the U.S. State Department's special office in charge of negotiations on an Allied nuclear fleet is being closed down was taken by French officials as final evidence that the nuclear force row that rocked the Atlantic alliance last summer and fall is past.

The dispute exploded after De Gaulle's return from his South American grand tour in October. It was touched off by a series of Washington and Bonn statements indicating the United States was determined, regardless of French objections, to ram through its project for a mixed - manned Allied force of ships (MLF) by the end of 1964.

De Gaulle interpreted these statements as a personal challenge. He feared if the project went through it would perpetuate what he described as "American domination" of Europe's defense.

It was at this point that De Gaulle unleashed vague threats through aides and members of his government that if MLF went into effect, France would quit the North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO) and denounce the 1963 French - German alliance.

Curiously, De Gaulle's biggest assist came from the new British Labor government.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson went to Washington in November with a project for a so-called "Allied nuclear force" (ANF) as an alternative to MLF.

This would have watered down to almost unrecognizable proportions the original U. S. plan for a fleet of 25 surface ships with crews of mixed nationalities and equipped with Polaris missiles.

In its place the ANF project would have put part of the British V-bomber force, some nuclear submarines, some land-based missiles and only a very few mixed - manned surface ships.

By tacit general consent the MLF-ANF controversy was kept from becoming a showdown issue at the Paris NATO council of ministers just before Christmas.

When the ministers left for home it was with a vague general agreement that representatives of the United States, Great Britain, West Germany, Italy and the Netherlands should meet somewhere some time this month to see if there is any possibility of marrying up MLF and ANF into a workable project.

But no time or place has yet been set.

French officials now estimate that even if the new talks get underway soon, it would take three to four months before they could hope to achieve results. But by that time West Germany's parliamentary general elections will be close at hand. And it is hardly conceivable here that any major decision on so red-hot an issue as an Allied nuclear force could be rammed through with elections impending.

All this studying of the calendar explains the suddenly relaxed attitude of French officials about MLF and ANF.

Any decision in 1965 now is considered out of the question.

Moscow Released Framed Newsman

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda reported today that a journalist who was imprisoned on a false bribery charge has been released and officials who framed him punished.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper demanded sterner punishment for party officials who helped railroad the newsman into prison.

The journalist was A. Gaskov, in the town of Armavir, in the Krasnodar region, whose column specialized in exposing coruption and inefficiency among town officials. He was convicted of seeking a bribe to keep an expose of an abortion mill operator out of the paper.

Pravda reported today that the Supreme Court of the Russian Federation had cleared Gaskov and ordered him released. It also ordered a criminal investigation into the handling of the case by the prosecutor.

McDonald Rebuffed By Steel Workers

PITTSBURGH (UPI) The Executive Board of the United Steelworkers of America (USW) today rebuffed union president David J. McDonald and voted not to employ an outside group to oversee the union's election next month.

The opposing forces were led by union Secretary - Treasurer I.W. Abel, who is contesting McDonald for the union presidency in the Feb. 9 election. The office of the secretary-treasurer controls the machinery for the ballot counting.

McDonald denied that his defeat in today's executive Board meeting was an indication that he was losing strength with the membership.

French officials are confident there no longer is danger of a confrontation over this in 1965.

In fact, there is growing belief here that the entire project is dead.

Washington's recent announcement that the U.S. State Department's special office in charge of negotiations on an Allied nuclear fleet is being closed down was taken by French officials as final evidence that the nuclear force row that rocked the Atlantic alliance last summer and fall is past.

The dispute exploded after De Gaulle's return from his South American grand tour in October. It was touched off by a series of Washington and Bonn statements indicating the United States was determined, regardless of French objections, to ram through its project for a mixed - manned Allied force of ships (MLF) by the end of 1964.

De Gaulle interpreted these statements as a personal challenge. He feared if the project went through it would perpetuate what he described as "American domination" of Europe's defense.

It was at this point that De Gaulle unleashed vague threats through aides and members of his government that if MLF went into effect, France would quit the North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO) and denounce the 1963 French - German alliance.

Curiously, De Gaulle's biggest assist came from the new British Labor government.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson went to Washington in November with a project for a so-called "Allied nuclear force" (ANF) as an alternative to MLF.

This would have watered down to almost unrecognizable proportions the original U. S. plan for a fleet of 25 surface ships with crews of mixed nationalities and equipped with Polaris missiles.

In its place the ANF project would have put part of the British V-bomber force, some nuclear submarines, some land-based missiles and only a very few mixed - manned surface ships.

By tacit general consent the MLF-ANF controversy was kept from becoming a showdown issue at the Paris NATO council of ministers just before Christmas.

When the ministers left for home it was with a vague general agreement that representatives of the United States, Great Britain, West Germany, Italy and the Netherlands should meet somewhere some time this month to see if there is any possibility of marrying up MLF and ANF into a workable project.

But no time or place has yet been set.

French officials now estimate that even if the new talks get underway soon, it would take three to four months before they could hope to achieve results. But by that time West Germany's parliamentary general elections will be close at hand. And it is hardly conceivable here that any major decision on so red-hot an issue as an Allied nuclear force could be rammed through with elections impending.

All this studying of the calendar explains the suddenly relaxed attitude of French officials about MLF and ANF.

Any decision in 1965 now is considered out of the question.

Moscow Released Framed Newsman

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda reported today that a journalist who was imprisoned on a false bribery charge has been released and officials who framed him punished.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper demanded sterner punishment for party officials who helped railroad the newsman into prison.

The journalist was A. Gaskov, in the town of Armavir, in the Krasnodar region, whose column specialized in exposing coruption and inefficiency among town officials. He was convicted of seeking a bribe to keep an expose of an abortion mill operator out of the paper.

Pravda reported today that the Supreme Court of the Russian Federation had cleared Gaskov and ordered him released. It also ordered a criminal investigation into the handling of the case by the prosecutor.

McDonald Rebuffed By Steel Workers

PITTSBURGH (UPI) The Executive Board of the United Steelworkers of America (USW) today rebuffed union president David J. McDonald and voted not to employ an outside group to oversee the union's election next month.

The opposing forces were led by union Secretary - Treasurer I.W. Abel, who is contesting McDonald for the union presidency in the Feb. 9 election. The office of the secretary-treasurer controls the machinery for the ballot counting.

McDonald denied that his defeat in today's executive Board meeting was an indication that he was losing strength with the membership.

COLORADO SPRINGS—FRIDAY, JANUARY 8, 1965 SECTION B

Fish, Game, Recreation Interests House Member

George F. Jackson,, Republican member of the Colorado House from the 23 Representative District, expects to do a lot of work in the fish and game and recreation areas during the 1965 General Assembly.

Jackson is a first term representative, who won his seat in the general election by defeating Democrat Gerald D. Lindsey.

While committee assignments have not yet been made, Jackson hopes to serve on at least these three: Fish and Game, Transportation, and Public Health and Welfare.

While these may be his primary fields of work in the assembly, he also recognizes that the big problem facing the state is education and how to finance it.

"The big problem will be getting enough money for education. Everyone wants more money for education,, but no one wants more taxes and you can't have more education without more money," he said.

Jackson pointed out that total preliminary requests for money or for all educational support total to about $50 million more than the anticipated revenue.

He said that if there is to be more money available it will have to come from taxes and said that he expected to see a hard fight over the problem.

Several proposals for fish and game activities and for added recreational facilities have been made during the past year and some legislators apparently have provisional bills ready to submit. "I don't know what shape they will come up in, so will have to wait and see what they are all about," he stated.

He explained that there are federal funds available on a matching fund basis, and that the money for matching the funds would not have to come from the general fund.

"For instance, I think that it is possible for municipalities and counties to get some of the money by putting up matching funds," Jackson explained.

Further, he added, some of the money in the fish and game treasury comes from licenses and fees, and thus not from the general fund, and that money would, in part, be available for matching fund application within the state.

There is one issue that is not particularly big, but that does worry Jackson.

"I think I'll push to get rid of the mountain lion bounty. Right now the state pays $50 a head for mountain lions and the Denver Post also pays $50. All a man has to do is send in a mountain lion scalp and he gets $100. So naturally the state buys a lot of mountain lion scalps that came from lions killed in the neighboring states." Jackson said.

In the transportation field Jackson wants something done about the administration of the ton - mile tax. "At this time it costs about 12.8 per cent of the income just for administrative purposes, and that is too high," he said.

"I also think that some of our public health laws need strengthening. I am particularly interested in public health laws that affect our clean water," he stated.

In this field, a number of proposals apparently will be made soon after the assembly convenes and clears its decks of organizational matters, he indicated.

"I don't know what all we will see, but I'm sure we can work out some bills to help," he said.

Jackson said that he also expects some highly controversial bills to come up which likely as not will slow down some of the other bills which should normally progress without too much trouble.

Fair housing bills probably will fall into that category, he said. Jackson explained that he is aware of a number of different ideas that probably will be put into such bills that are likely to generate a lot of heat on the floor of the two houses.

He explained that it is too early to predict what will happen in the way of game and fish legislation, but that he hopes to have some bills passed that will help El Paso County and the Pikes Peak Region in fish and game and recreation facilities.

Black Forest To Vote on Board Members

Citizens of the Black Forest area are voting today for members of the board of directors of the Black Forest Volunteer Fire Department.

Voting is at the fire station from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Following the public election, the fire department organizational meeting will be held at which the new chief and assistant chief will be elected.

Present chief is Sam Smale, and assistant chief is Bill Amos.

Present board members are Dr. Robert Bauman, Elmer Rankin, Roy Wolfe and Darwin Wooley. One seat is vacant because of a resignation.

The seats held by Wooley and Rankin are not up for election this time.

The three seats to be filled are all for three-year terms.

The six candidates for the board are Cecil Calicutt, Jack Grier, Dick Humphrey, Ken Korchoffer, Al Pettigrew and Frank Tillman.

A man must have lived in the area for two years to be eligible to serve on the board. There is no residence requirement for voting.

Commissioners Approve Petition

The El Paso County commissioners gave final approval to a previously tabled petition presented in November to the planning commission by the Cimarron Land Development Co.

The original petition was for permission to change an R-1 residential district to an R-2 residential district for the purpose of constructing a "cluster home" development, containing homes, recreation facilities, a club-house, playground and nursery. The Planning Commission approved the change of the R-1 zone to an R-4 zone, and also approved the addition of more property.

The area presently contains 30 acres and is located in Cimarron Hills.

Sgt. Stokes Will Again Lead AFA Band

The thousands of people who watch President Lyndon B. Johnson's inauguration parade in person and the millions who view it on television will see a "familiar face."

As he leads the Air Force Academy Band down Pennsylvania Avenue Jan. 20, M. Sgt. William Stokes will be appearing in his fifth inauguration parade.

The drum major has marched with the Academy Band the three times it has appeared in the event (1957, 1961, and 1965). He also led the University of Maryland Band as its drum major in 1953 and headed his high school band — Patterson Park of Baltimore — in 1949.

Sgt. Stokes has taken part in inaugurations of President Truman, Eisenhower (twice), and Kennedy.

The Academy drum major will carry a special mace in this year's parade. It was made especially for the inauguration appearance.

Fledgling musicians who care to follow in the sergeant's footsteps would do well to consider two facts: the new mace weighs an even 15-pounds and the route of the inaugural parade is about four miles!

It all adds up to a heap of hiking and a lot of liftin'.

Leading Scientist Will Deliver Roberts Lecture

Dr. I. I. Rabi, Nobel Prize-winning physicist at Columbia University and one of the nation's leading scientists, will deliver the annual Roberts Memorial Lecture at Colorado College Monday night.

The lecture is one of the major addresses to be delivered during a week-long symposium on The New Science at Colorado College. It will be open to the public without charge at 8 p.m. in Shove Chapel.

The title of Dr. Rabi's talk is "The Two Cultures: Can They be Made One?"

Dr. Rabi is one of more than 30 eminent scientists taking part in the seven - day examination of new developments in the sciences at the independent liberal arts college here. Although attendance is voluntary, most of the 1,300 undergraduates at Colorado College are expected to take part.

A former chairman of President Eisenhower's Science Advisory Committee, he currently is a U.S. representative on the United Nations Science Committee.

Last fall, Columbia University elevated Dr. Rabi to the newly created rank of University-wide Professor. A Columbia spokesman said not more than three professors would bear the distinction simultaneously.

In November of 1940, Dr. Rabi joined a group of physicists to set up the Radiation Laboratory in Cambridge, Mass. This was devoted to the development of radar for military purposes during the war. For most of the wartime period he was also a consultant on the atomic bomb project.

In 1944 he received the Nobel Prize for his work in the development of the molecular beam magnetic resonance method which employed the effect of radio waves on beams of atoms and molecules.

Location Wrong In Accident Story

It was erroneously reported in Wednesday's edition of the Gazette Telegraph that Charles E. Nix, 32, was staying at the Embers Motel, 21 S. Wahsatch Ave., when he fell from a second story window and broke a bone in his heel.

Nix was staying, instead, at 106 S. Wahsatch Ave., and fell from a second story window in the house at that address. After the accident he crawled to the Embers Motel, and was discovered there by an employe of the Motel, who then notified police.

School Drop-Out Research Reveals Few Basic Answers

A year of research into the high school drop-out problem has yielded a wealth of statistics and evidence that the department of education is still lighting phantoms.

Results of the first year's study of the drop-out problem were discussed here Wednesday night before an audience of nearly 100 persons. The study, conducted by a special committee appointed by the Colorado State Department of Education, is part of a five-year projected plan to investigate the increasing number of high school students leaving school.

The panel symposium was cosponsored by the Colorado Springs section of the national Council of Jewish Women and the Junior League of the city. Those on the panel were Dr. Barclay H. Watson, director of the division of special services for School District 11; Julian P. Tatum, director of the department of guidance and counseling, and Lewis Reimer, counselor at Palmer High School. Mrs. Mildred Reibscheid acted as moderator.

Panel members first presented their research finding covering three phases of the problem — Dr. Watson gave background statistics, Tatum supplied findings from District 11 and Reimer cited actual cases.

Dr. Watson reported that in the statewide study only 34 of over 200 districts had agreed to cooperate in the research. Of those, 116 schools reported 2,407 drop-outs within the first year of study. Nearly 59 per cent were male, 41.5 per cent female. But the real problem was revealed in the number of drop-outs who gave no reason for their decision. Over 27 per cent of the males refused to give a reason. Eight categories were provided on the questionnaire for reasons for the student's decision. Those included "financial reasons," "behind in class-work," etc. The last choice was "others." About 70 per cent of the males either refused to give their reasons or marked "others" on the questionnaire.

Some 34 per cent of the girls left for marriage and-or pregnancy.

The high mobility of the class of the population here did not seem to be a factor as over 50 per cent of the drop-outs had been in the school system three years or longer.

About 75 per cent of the boys and 66 per cent of the females were not involved in extra-curricular or community activities.

Drop-outs in District 11 amounted to only 3.5 per cent of the students enrolled.

"There are no typical drop-outs," Reimer said, discussing his association in counseling with some of these students. "The mutual bond in most cases, however, seems to be parental disinterest. I think that is the biggest factor in our drop-out problem. This is a personal opinion and has not yet been proved by the statistics. The community also is responsible for these drop-outs, not just persons connected with the schools. We need to have more community interest behind this effort."

When the panel had finished, the audience was asked for comments. County Welfare Director Vard V. Gray reminded the audience that "these drop-outs are the ones who will be confronted with disasters they cannot handle and eventually will fall back on the state for support."

The suggestion was made that those in the audience could help the situation by working to help obtain $1 million from the federal government by working to get the required matching state funds.

Yet more money for a cure seems futile when research has not yet yielded the cause of the disease.

Virgil Schwartz, seven - year pin; Loro Wayne McCullough, seven - year pin; Sam Fisher, five - year pin, three years in District No. 3 and two years in District No. 2; David Baxter, four - year pin; Earl Platz, one - year pin, and Freddie Fox, one - year pin.

Leadership Course to Start at Post

One hundred students will begin a five-week course today at the Ft. Carson Leadership School where 340 men completed courses in 1964.

Capt. Vincent Vespia, commandant, said the new course will combine basic and advanced curricula.

The school added the Ft. Carson honor guard to its roster in 1964. The guard now includes more than 50 members who have made several public appearances in addition to their duties on post.

Honor guard members are being trained in mountain and cold weather skills and will assist the leadership cadre in instruction and in giving military mountaineering demonstrations.

The demonstrations in N. Cheyenne Canon, southwest of Colorado Springs, were seen by 15,629 spectators in 1964.

Denver Speaker Slated for NAACP Meet

A member of the Anti-Discrimination Commission in Denver will address the Colorado Springs Branch, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at 3 p.m. Sunday in Carpenters Hall.

All regular meetings of the NAACP are presently scheduled for the second Sunday of each month at the same time and place.

The NAACP has adopted "All For America, and America For All" as its theme for 1965. The local branch members have resolved to do more for America this year than ever before, citing "togetherness in brotherhood, righteousness, freedom, and love" as the bywords if this nation is to grow stronger from within and maintain faith and confidence from without.

Mrs. Suzanne T. Rodgers is the new president of the local group. Other new officers are: John Q. White, the Rev. D. C. Coleman Jr., and James S. White, first, second and third vice presidents, respectively; Mrs. Ross Crumpacker, secretary, and Mrs. Amy Ewing, treasurer.

Executive committee members are George Brock, Harry Davis, Vernon Freeman, Albert T. Hart, Albert Hurd, and Mrs. Eva McAdams. Samuel C. Hunter Jr., past president, is also a member of the committee by proclamation.

The general public is invited to Sunday's meeting and all other NAACP meetings. Refreshments will be served.

Glowing Agate Collection Of Fahl Shown Downtown

By JOHN FETLER
ARTS CRITIC

A remarkably beautiful, glowing, collection of "Fortification Agate" gem specimens, has been placed on exhibit in the lobby of the Colorado Springs National Bank. They are from the collection of Rudy Fahl, well - known Colorado Springs collector and sports leader. The exhibit will remain on view for about a month, according to Broun Mayall, the bank's public relations director.

The bank has consistently preseneed Colorado Springs artists and collectors of various kinds in its lobby and exhibit cases. The exhibition of these gem specimens has been installed in the glass case in the center of the lobby, and it is highly rewarding to take a goodlookat them.

There are a total 46 specimens in the exhibit, each one of them showing beautiful colors, and each one of them showing the care which went in their selection, for they are all of superb quality. Rudy Fahl, who also is well-known for his work as health culturist, and for his promotion of the annual International Pikes Peak Marathon, explains that the bank exhibit consists of items from his collection of 80 or 90 agate specimens. His collection has been called the finest of its kind in the state of Colorado.

Fahl has been helpful in arrangements for art and other exhibits at the bank, and this time it is his turn to show some of the best items from his collection. He is a long - time collector of agates, minerals and crystals. He is a member of the Colorado Springs Mineralogical Society, and participated in the group's exhibition last June at the City Auditorium, where he also showed his collection of Fortification Agates.

Fahl has been collecting gems and agates for some 30 years, and it is a highly rewarding, and valuable, hobby. He studied geology in college, and he explains that helped a little. "To get into the agate field means a search and discovery for greater beauty than even that of crystals," he declares.

The definition for Fortification Agate could be put in the following words: A colorful arrangement of chalcedony formed into lines. The agates show patterns that often resemble a military fort in the center of the agate, or a lake, with rings on its shores, such as are left when a lake is receding.

But words are hardly enough to describe the fascination which these fantastic lines and colors in the gems hold for the collector — and for the appreciator. It has to be seen to obtain the greatest impact.

Looking at the agates makes this come alive, with the deep and bright colors, and with the patterns of the agates.

Fortification Agates all share the general image of fortifications, although no two of them, of course, are the same, for the variety of the nature is inexhaustible. This is part of the charm and the beauty for the collector.

Agates are also made into "cabochons," that is, stones that are rounded, ready for ear-rings, pendants, rings, etc. But this exhibit at the Colorado Springs National Bank consists of the original specimens.

In order to bring out the pattern of the agate, the stone, or gem, as it is found in nature, is sliced, at least at one end, and at this time it reveals the colors and patterns inside. The facing is then polished to its highest gloss.

There are occasions when these Fortification Agates are "cut" or polished in a rounded form, to reveal the lines of the gem more fully.

Such a specimen, for instance, is what seems one of most fantastic of the agates in the collection: A beautiful pink rhodochrosite from far-off Patagonia, which has been polished into the shape of a lustrous miniature bowl. This one item alone is worth a trip to the exhibit. It is easy to stop off at the bank, and walk into the lobby, while downtown.

One big agate from Brazil in the exhibit weighs 13 pounds. Others are naturally smaller. The ones from Mexico seem to attract a great deal of attention, showing powder covering th agate, just as when many people stumble over it, not realizing the beauty within the rock.

The beauty for the collector is that he may obtain agates from far away, as well as from nearer sites. For instance, in this exhibit of the glowing specimens come from such places as Laguna, Mexico; Montezuma, Mexico; Patagonia, which is probably as far away as one can get in the Western Hemisphere; Brazil; Sierra Apago, Mexico; but also from such nearer places as Deming, N.M.: the famous Fairburn, S.D.; Iowa; Crawford, Neb.; Red Canyon, Custer, S. D.; and even closer, Grand Junction and Wolf Creek Pass, Colo.

A white Fortification Agate from the State Park in South Dakota is also of special beauty; and there is a remarkably dee-cleer-blue agate from Montezuma which would be a color to be envied by any artist; and anther remarkable clear - bright-yellow one also from Montezuma.

City Cigaret Tax Grossed More in 1964

The city's cigaret tax grossed more in 1964 than in 1963. Collections during 1964 were $135,545 compared with $132,505 in 1963.

A headline was incorrect in the Thursday issue of the Gazette Telegraph which said the cigaret tax grossed less in 1964 than 1963.

Youth Found Not Guilty In City Court

No conclusive evidence was presented Thursday in Municipal Court that Roger Nestor was on East Columbia Street between 11:30 and 11:45 p.m. Nov. 21, so Judge Allan Asher found the 19-year old youth not guilty of reckless and careless driving charges.

The charges had been lodged against Steven Steinkraus, 19, 1612 N. Foote Ave., who was charged with careless driving when his car struck a parked car in the 900 block of Columbia that night.

Steinkraus said he was challenged to a fight by two youths in a black 1957 Plymouth. He said he was trying to get away from them, and when he turned onto Columbia the car crowded him over, causing him to strike the parked car.

He could not identify Nestor as the driver, but said the defendant looked like the one, and that the following Sunday, Nestor "was the guy that jumped me."

Danny Townsend testified that he was coming home from a date, was standing at Institute and San Miguel Streets, saw the two cars and thought it odd that Steinkraus' car was way over in the left lane as the two headed up Columbia. He said later at school, he told Steinkraus about seeing this, but did not know Nestor and could not identify him as the driver of the other car.

Nestor, 1031 W. Colorado Ave., was represented by attorney HayDen Kane who declined to present any evidence on Nestor's behalf.

Judge Asher said he saw no evidence that Nestor was the driver, and because of Townsend's testimony, also found Steinkraus not guilty of careless driving.

Mrs. Thora Pick, 42, 516 W. Kiowa St., was found guilty of careless driving and received a $35 fine.

Jules Kennedy, 51, 2548 Mt. Vernon St., was found guilty of failing to yield the right of way and was fined $15. His attorney, Jack O'Leary, was granted a 10-day stay of execution.

Kennedy was cited Oct. 28 when his car collided with one being driven by Linda Murphy, 17, 1247 E. Madison St., at the uncontrolled intersection of Streets. Miss Murphy had earlier pleaded guilty to careless driving and had been fined.

Kennedy's testimony was that he was northbound on Northview, saw the girl's car coming at a high rate of speed, headed west on Caramillo. He estimated her speed at between 45 and 50, but Miss Murphy claimed she was driving between 30 and 35 miles an hour.

Patrolman John Humphrey said a skid test showed she was going about 35 miles an hour. Kennedy said he thought he could make it, but when the girl made no attempt to avoid him, he made a left turn to go in her direction and was struck. Miss Murphy claimed she was at a dead stop in the intersection when he struck her.

Humphrey testified that at the scene, Miss Murphy told him a car had followed her that day, and when she saw Kennedy's car, she thought it was the same one, and became frightened and turned to say something to a passenger when the two cars collided.

When O'Leary asked her what make of car followed her, Miss Murphy said a 1963 Chevrolet convertible. "What kind of car was Mr. Kennedy driving?" O'Leary asked, and the girl said a 1959 Ford.

She denied telling Humphrey she thought Kennedy's car was the one following her earlier, and said it was the "action" of his car coming from her left that scared her, as the other car had come from her left.

"Each car coming from your left scared you that day?" O'Leary asked, and Miss Murphy nodded yes. "but not cars from your right or coming towards you?" O'Leary persisted, and the girl said no.

Judge Asher ordered bonds forfeited by the following: John Hubby, 19, 1214 Morningstar Dr., $15, careless driving; Frank Pena, 20, Denver, $15, careless driving; and William Lemmon, 19, 2510 Sycamore St., $50, reckless driving.

Tommy Cox, 25, 917½ E. 2nd St., was fined $25 on his guilty plea to failing to exercise due care, and William Christian, 24, Ft. Carson, was fined $75 on his guilty plea to reckless driving. As neither were in court, the judge ordered writs of execution issued immediately.

A $35 fine was levied against Raymond Allen, 19, 725 S. Royer St., on his guilty plea to careless driving.

COLORADO SPRINGS—FRIDAY, JANUARY 8, 1965 SECTION B

Fish, Game, Recreation Interests House Member

George F. Jackson,, Republican member of the Colorado House from the 23 Representative District, expects to do a lot of work in the fish and game and recreation areas during the 1965 General Assembly.

Jackson is a first term representative, who won his seat in the general election by defeating Democrat Gerald D. Lindsey.

While committee assignments have not yet been made, Jackson hopes to serve on at least these three: Fish and Game, Transportation, and Public Health and Welfare.

While these may be his primary fields of work in the assembly, he also recognizes that the big problem facing the state is education and how to finance it.

"The big problem will be getting enough money for education. Everyone wants more money for education,, but no one wants more taxes and you can't have more education without more money," he said.

Jackson pointed out that total preliminary requests for money or for all educational support total to about $50 million more than the anticipated revenue.

He said that if there is to be more money available it will have to come from taxes and said that he expected to see a hard fight over the problem.

Several proposals for fish and game activities and for added recreational facilities have been made during the past year and some legislators apparently have provisional bills ready to submit. "I don't know what shape they will come up in, so will have to wait and see what they are all about," he stated.

He explained that there are federal funds available on a matching fund basis, and that the money for matching the funds would not have to come from the general fund.

"For instance, I think that it is possible for municipalities and counties to get some of the money by putting up matching funds," Jackson explained.

Further, he added, some of the money in the fish and game treasury comes from licenses and fees, and thus not from the general fund, and that money would, in part, be available for matching fund application within the state.

There is one issue that is not particularly big, but that does worry Jackson.

"I think I'll push to get rid of the mountain lion bounty. Right now the state pays $50 a head for mountain lions and the Denver Post also pays $50. All a man has to do is send in a mountain lion scalp and he gets $100. So naturally the state buys a lot of mountain lion scalps that came from lions killed in the neighboring states." Jackson said.

In the transportation field Jackson wants something done about the administration of the ton - mile tax. "At this time it costs about 12.8 per cent of the income just for administrative purposes, and that is too high," he said.

"I also think that some of our public health laws need strengthening. I am particularly interested in public health laws that affect our clean water," he stated.

In this field, a number of proposals apparently will be made soon after the assembly convenes and clears its decks of organizational matters, he indicated.

"I don't know what all we will see, but I'm sure we can work out some bills to help," he said.

Jackson said that he also expects some highly controversial bills to come up which likely as not will slow down some of the other bills which should normally progress without too much trouble.

Fair housing bills probably will fall into that category, he said. Jackson explained that he is aware of a number of different ideas that probably will be put into such bills that are likely to generate a lot of heat on the floor of the two houses.

He explained that it is too early to predict what will happen in the way of game and fish legislation, but that he hopes to have some bills passed that will help El Paso County and the Pikes Peak Region in fish and game and recreation facilities.

Black Forest To Vote on Board Members

Citizens of the Black Forest area are voting today for members of the board of directors of the Black Forest Volunteer Fire Department.

Voting is at the fire station from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Following the public election, the fire department organizational meeting will be held at which the new chief and assistant chief will be elected.

Present chief is Sam Smale, and assistant chief is Bill Amos.

Present board members are Dr. Robert Bauman, Elmer Rankin, Roy Wolfe and Darwin Wooley. One seat is vacant because of a resignation.

The seats held by Wooley and Rankin are not up for election this time.

The three seats to be filled are all for three-year terms.

The six candidates for the board are Cecil Calicutt, Jack Grier, Dick Humphrey, Ken Korchoffer, Al Pettigrew and Frank Tillman.

A man must have lived in the area for two years to be eligible to serve on the board. There is no residence requirement for voting.

Commissioners Approve Petition

The El Paso County commissioners gave final approval to a previously tabled petition presented in November to the planning commission by the Cimarron Land Development Co.

The original petition was for permission to change an R-1 residential district to an R-2 residential district for the purpose of constructing a "cluster home" development, containing homes, recreation facilities, a club-house, playground and nursery. The Planning Commission approved the change of the R-1 zone to an R-4 zone, and also approved the addition of more property.

The area presently contains 30 acres and is located in Cimarron Hills.

Sgt. Stokes Will Again Lead AFA Band

The thousands of people who watch President Lyndon B. Johnson's inauguration parade in person and the millions who view it on television will see a "familiar face."

As he leads the Air Force Academy Band down Pennsylvania Avenue Jan. 20, M. Sgt. William Stokes will be appearing in his fifth inauguration parade.

The drum major has marched with the Academy Band the three times it has appeared in the event (1957, 1961, and 1965). He also led the University of Maryland Band as its drum major in 1953 and headed his high school band — Patterson Park of Baltimore — in 1949.

Sgt. Stokes has taken part in inaugurations of President Truman, Eisenhower (twice), and Kennedy.

The Academy drum major will carry a special mace in this year's parade. It was made especially for the inauguration appearance.

Fledgling musicians who care to follow in the sergeant's footsteps would do well to consider two facts: the new mace weighs an even 15-pounds and the route of the inaugural parade is about four miles!

It all adds up to a heap of hiking and a lot of liftin'.

Leading Scientist Will Deliver Roberts Lecture

Dr. I. I. Rabi, Nobel Prize-winning physicist at Columbia University and one of the nation's leading scientists, will deliver the annual Roberts Memorial Lecture at Colorado College Monday night.

The lecture is one of the major addresses to be delivered during a week-long symposium on The New Science at Colorado College. It will be open to the public without charge at 8 p.m. in Shove Chapel.

The title of Dr. Rabi's talk is "The Two Cultures: Can They be Made One?"

Dr. Rabi is one of more than 30 eminent scientists taking part in the seven - day examination of new developments in the sciences at the independent liberal arts college here. Although attendance is voluntary, most of the 1,300 undergraduates at Colorado College are expected to take part.

A former chairman of President Eisenhower's Science Advisory Committee, he currently is a U.S. representative on the United Nations Science Committee.

Last fall, Columbia University elevated Dr. Rabi to the newly created rank of University-wide Professor. A Columbia spokesman said not more than three professors would bear the distinction simultaneously.

In November of 1940, Dr. Rabi joined a group of physicists to set up the Radiation Laboratory in Cambridge, Mass. This was devoted to the development of radar for military purposes during the war. For most of the wartime period he was also a consultant on the atomic bomb project.

In 1944 he received the Nobel Prize for his work in the development of the molecular beam magnetic resonance method which employed the effect of radio waves on beams of atoms and molecules.

Location Wrong In Accident Story

It was erroneously reported in Wednesday's edition of the Gazette Telegraph that Charles E. Nix, 32, was staying at the Embers Motel, 21 S. Wahsatch Ave., when he fell from a second story window and broke a bone in his heel.

Nix was staying, instead, at 106 S. Wahsatch Ave., and fell from a second story window in the house at that address. After the accident he crawled to the Embers Motel, and was discovered there by an employe of the Motel, who then notified police.

School Drop-Out Research Reveals Few Basic Answers

A year of research into the high school drop-out problem has yielded a wealth of statistics and evidence that the department of education is still lighting phantoms.

Results of the first year's study of the drop-out problem were discussed here Wednesday night before an audience of nearly 100 persons. The study, conducted by a special committee appointed by the Colorado State Department of Education, is part of a five-year projected plan to investigate the increasing number of high school students leaving school.

The panel symposium was cosponsored by the Colorado Springs section of the national Council of Jewish Women and the Junior League of the city. Those on the panel were Dr. Barclay H. Watson, director of the division of special services for School District 11; Julian P. Tatum, director of the department of guidance and counseling, and Lewis Reimer, counselor at Palmer High School. Mrs. Mildred Reibscheid acted as moderator.

Panel members first presented their research finding covering three phases of the problem — Dr. Watson gave background statistics, Tatum supplied findings from District 11 and Reimer cited actual cases.

Dr. Watson reported that in the statewide study only 34 of over 200 districts had agreed to cooperate in the research. Of those, 116 schools reported 2,407 drop-outs within the first year of study. Nearly 59 per cent were male, 41.5 per cent female. But the real problem was revealed in the number of drop-outs who gave no reason for their decision. Over 27 per cent of the males refused to give a reason. Eight categories were provided on the questionnaire for reasons for the student's decision. Those included "financial reasons," "behind in class-work," etc. The last choice was "others." About 70 per cent of the males either refused to give their reasons or marked "others" on the questionnaire.

Some 34 per cent of the girls left for marriage and-or pregnancy.

The high mobility of the class of the population here did not seem to be a factor as over 50 per cent of the drop-outs had been in the school system three years or longer.

About 75 per cent of the boys and 66 per cent of the females were not involved in extra-curricular or community activities.

Drop-outs in District 11 amounted to only 3.5 per cent of the students enrolled.

"There are no typical drop-outs," Reimer said, discussing his association in counseling with some of these students. "The mutual bond in most cases, however, seems to be parental disinterest. I think that is the biggest factor in our drop-out problem. This is a personal opinion and has not yet been proved by the statistics. The community also is responsible for these drop-outs, not just persons connected with the schools. We need to have more community interest behind this effort."

When the panel had finished, the audience was asked for comments. County Welfare Director Vard V. Gray reminded the audience that "these drop-outs are the ones who will be confronted with disasters they cannot handle and eventually will fall back on the state for support."

The suggestion was made that those in the audience could help the situation by working to help obtain $1 million from the federal government by working to get the required matching state funds.

Yet more money for a cure seems futile when research has not yet yielded the cause of the disease.

Safe Driver Pins Awarded

Clarence Foster, chairman of the board of Education of School District No. 3, at a recent meeting presented Safe Driver pins to the following persons who have successfully driven school buses for the district without accidents:

Virgil Schwartz, seven - year pin; Loro Wayne McCullough, seven - year pin; Sam Fisher, five - year pin, three years in District No. 3 and two years in District No. 2; David Baxter, four - year pin; Earl Platz, one - year pin, and Freddie Fox, one - year pin.

Leadership Course to Start at Post

One hundred students will begin a five-week course today at the Ft. Carson Leadership School where 340 men completed courses in 1964.

Capt. Vincent Vespia, commandant, said the new course will combine basic and advanced curricula.

The school added the Ft. Carson honor guard to its roster in 1964. The guard now includes more than 50 members who have made several public appearances in addition to their duties on post.

Honor guard members are being trained in mountain and cold weather skills and will assist the leadership cadre in instruction and in giving military mountaineering demonstrations.

The demonstrations in N. Cheyenne Canon, southwest of Colorado Springs, were seen by 15,629 spectators in 1964.

Glowing Agate Collection Of Fahl Shown Downtown

ARTS CRITIC

A remarkably beautiful, glowing, collection of "Fortification Agate" gem specimens, has been placed on exhibit in the lobby of the Colorado Springs National Bank. They are from the collection of Rudy Fahl, well - known Colorado Springs collector and sports leader. The exhibit will remain on view for about a month, according to Broun Mayall, the bank's public relations director.

The bank has consistently preseneed Colorado Springs artists and collectors of various kinds in its lobby and exhibit cases. The exhibition of these gem specimens has been installed in the glass case in the center of the lobby, and it is highly rewarding to take a goodlookat them.

There are a total 46 speciments in the exhibit, each one of them showing beautiful colors, and each one of them showing the care which went in their selection, for they are all of superb quality. Rudy Fahl, who also is well-known for his work as health culturist, and for his promotion of the annual International Pikes Peak Marathon, explains that the bank exhibit consists of items from his collection of 80 or 90 agate specimens. His collection has been called the finest of its kind in the state of Colorado.

Fahl has been helpful in arrangements for art and other exhibits at the bank, and this time it is his turn to show some of the best items from his collection. He is a long - time collector of agates, minerals and crystals. He is a member of the Colorado Springs Mineralogical Society, and participated in the group's exhibition last June at the City Auditorium, where he also showed his collection of Fortification Agates.

Fahl has been collecting gems and agates for some 30 years, and it is a highly rewarding, and valuable, hobby. He studied geology in college, and he explains that helped a little. "To get into the agate field means a search and discovery for greater beauty than even that of crystals," he declares.

The definition for Fortification Agate could be put in the following words: A colorful arrangement of chalcedony formed into lines. The agates show patterns that often resemble a military fort in the center of the agate, or a lake, with rings on its shores, such as are left when a lake is receding.

But words are hardly enough to describe the fascination which these fantastic lines and colors in the gems hold for the collector — and for the appreciator. It has to be seen to obtain the greatest impact.

Looking at the agates makes this come alive, with the deep and bright colors, and with the patterns of the agates.

Fortification Agates all share the general image of fortifications, although no two of them, of course, are the same, for the variety of the nature is inexhaustible. This is part of the charm and the beauty for the collector.

Agates are also made into "cabochons," that is, stones that are rounded, ready for earrings, pendants, rings, etc. But this exhibit at the Colorado Springs National Bank consists of the original specimens.

In order to bring out the pattern of the agate, the stone, or gem, as it is found in nature, is sliced, at least at one end, and at this time it reveals the colors and patterns inside. The facing is then polished to its highest gloss.

There are occasions when these Fortification Agates are "cut" or polished in a rounded form, to reveal the lines of the gem more fully.

Such a specimen, for instance, is what seems one of most fantastic of the agates in the collection: A beautiful pink rhodochrosite from far-off Patagonia, which has been polished into the shape of a lustrous miniature bowl. This one item alone is worth a trip to the exhibit. It is easy to stop off at the bank, and walk into the lobby, while downtown.

One big agate from Brazil in the exhibit weighs 13 pounds. Others are naturally smaller. The ones from Mexico seem to attract a great deal of attention, showing powder covering th agate, just as when many people stumble over it, not realizing the beauty within the rock.

The beauty for the collector is that he may obtain agates from far away, as well as from nearer sites. For instance, in this exhibit of the glowing specimens come from such places as Laguna, Mexico; Montezuma, Mexico; Patagonia, which is probably as far away as one can get in the Western Hemisphere; Brazil; Sierra Apago, Mexico; but also from such nearer places as Deming, N.M.; the famous Fairburn, S.D.; Iowa; Crawford, Neb.; Red Canyon, Custer, S. D.; and even closer, Grand Junction and Wolf Creek Pass, Colo.

A white Fortification Agate from the State Park in South Dakota is also of special beauty; and there is a remarkably deecleer-blue agate from Montezuma which would be a color to be envied by any artist; and another remarkable clear - bright-yellow one also from Montezuma.

City Cigaret Tax Grossed More in 1964

The city's cigaret tax grossed more in 1964 than in 1963. Collections during 1964 were $135,545 compared with $132,505 in 1963.

A headline was incorrect in the Thursday issue of the Gazette Telegraph which said the cigaret tax grossed less in 1964 than 1963.

Youth Found Not Guilty In City Court

No conclusive evidence was presented Thursday in Municipal Court that Roger Nestor was on East Columbia Street between 11:30 and 11:45 p.m. Nov. 21, so Judge Allan Asher found the 19-year old youth not guilty of reckless and careless driving charges.

The charges had been lodged against Steven Steinkraus, 19, 1612 N. Foote Ave., who was charged with careless driving when his car struck a parked car in the 900 block of Columbia that night.

Steinkraus said he was challenged to a fight by two youths in a black 1957 Plymouth. He said he was trying to get away from them, and when he turned onto Columbia the car crowded him over, causing him to strike the parked car.

He could not identify Nestor as the driver, but said the defendant looked like the one, and that the following Sunday, Nestor "was the guy that jumped me."

Danny Townsend testified that he was coming home from a date, was standing at Institute and San Miguel Streets, saw the two cars and thought it odd that Steinkraus' car was way over in the left lane as the two headed up Columbia. He said later at school, he told Steinkraus about seeing this, but did not know Nestor and could not identify him as the driver of the other car.

Nestor, 1031 W. Colorado Ave., was represented by attorney HayDen Kane who declined to present any evidence on Nestor's behalf.

Judge Asher said he saw no evidence that Nestor was the driver, and because of Townsend's testimony, also found Steinkraus not guilty of careless driving.

Mrs. Thora Pick, 42, 516 W. Kiowa St., was found guilty of careless driving and received a $35 fine.

Jules Kennedy, 51, 2548 Mt. Vernon St., was found guilty of failing to yield the right of way and was fined $15. His attorney, Jack O'Leary, was granted a 10-day stay of execution.

Kennedy was cited Oct. 28 when his car collided with one being driven by Linda Murphy, 17, 1247 E. Madison St., at the uncontrolled intersection of Streets. Miss Murphy had earlier pleaded guilty to careless driving and had been fined.

Kennedy's testimony was that he was northbound on Northview, saw the girl's car coming at a high rate of speed, headed west on Caramillo. He estimated her speed at between 45 and 50, but Miss Murphy claimed she was driving between 30 and 35 miles an hour.

Patrolman John Humphrey said a skid test showed she was going about 35 miles an hour. Kennedy said he thought he could make it, but when the girl made no attempt to avoid him, he made a left turn to go in her direction and was struck. Miss Murphy claimed she was at a dead stop in the intersection when he struck her.

Humphrey testified that at the scene, Miss Murphy told him a car had followed her that day, and when she saw Kennedy's car, she thought it was the same one, and became frightened and turned to say something to a passenger when the two cars collided.

When O'Leary asked her what make of car followed her, Miss Murphy said a 1963 Chevrolet convertible. "What kind of car was Mr. Kennedy driving?" O'Leary asked, and the girl said a 1959 Ford.

She denied telling Humphrey she thought Kennedy's car was the one following her earlier, and said it was the "action" of his car coming from her left that scared her, as the other car had come from her left.

"Each car coming from your left scared you that day?" O'Leary asked, and Miss Murphy nodded yes. "but not cars from your right or coming towards you?" O'Leary persisted, and the girl said no.

Judge Asher ordered bonds forfeited by the following: John Hubby, 19, 1214 Morningstar Dr., $15, careless driving; Frank Pena, 20, Denver, $15, careless driving; and William Lemmon, 19, 2510 Sycamore St., $50, reckless driving.

Tommy Cox, 25, 917½ E. 2nd St., was fined $25 on his guilty plea to failing to exercise due care, and William Christian, 24, Ft. Carson, was fined $75 on his guilty plea to reckless driving. As neither were in court, the judge ordered writs of execution issued immediately.

A $35 fine was levied against Raymond Allen, 19, 725 S. Royer St., on his guilty plea to careless driving.

Confessed Thief Says He Was Disgusted

YARDVILLE, N.J. (AP) — "The man needed a job. I needed a man."

That's how Nicholas Sadowy, owner of Nick's barbecued chickens and cold cuts store, explained his hiring of Harold Brown, a grocery clerk who stole $8,000 from his previous employer, then returned it.

"I needed a manager for the night shift," Sadowy said, and decided Brown was the man he was looking for after reading of his plight. Brown, charged with burglary but free on bond, went to work for Sadowy Saturday night.

Brown, 33-year-old father of five, confessed he had burglarized a safe at the Cherry Hill store where he worked because he was in financial straits.

Asked why he returned the money, Brown said: "I was disgusted with myself."

Congress Counts Electoral Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress counted the electoral votes Wednesday and found that President Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey were the winners of last November's election.

The joint session was climaxed with the announcement by Senate President pro tem Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., that Johnson had been elected president and Humphrey vice president with 486 electoral votes to 52 for Republicans Barry Goldwater and William E. Miller.

The session was the last stage in the electoral process, formally clearing the way for inauguration of Johnson and Humphrey Jan. 20.

Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Edlund, 1015 Greenwood Ave., Canon City celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Dec. 31. They were honored at a reception on Sunday, Dec. 27, at the parlor of the First Christian Church.

Hosts for the occasion were their children, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Edlund, Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Naylor, Menlo Park, Calif., and the Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Edlund of Salida.

The Edlund's granddaughters, Barbara and Janet Naylor of Menlo Park and Sharilyn Edlund of Salida presided at the reception table and served anniversary cake, punch, coffee, and mints to about 125 relatives and friends. 8

The guest book was submitted by their grandson,, Alvin Ray Edlund of Salida.

Miss Ethel Roley and Enoch H. Edlund were married on New Year's Eve, 1914 at Rapid City, S.D., and moved to Colorado a few years after their marriage. The couple has lived in Canon City for the past two and one - half years, moving here from Minturn after Mr. Edlund's retirement as telegrapher with the D&RGW Railroad. They previously resided in Denver.

Mr. Edlund has been employed as dispatcher for the Canon City police department for the past several months. His wife is an active worker in the First Christian Church and is president of the Christian Woman's Fellowship.

Museum Praises Restorer of Old Furniture

By ROBERT FRANKLIN

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Fifty years ago, Harvey Soulen drew up before the still-unopened Minneapolis Institute of Arts in a horse-drawn van containing two wood-burning stoves and under horse blankets, art masterpieces from the home of railroad tycoon James J. Hill.

The stoves were to keep the bitter cold from damaging the paintings on the all-day trip from Hill's home in St. Paul to the institute for its inaugural exhibit.

Soulen marked his 75th birthday -- and the institute's 50th — Thursday by continuing his work in restoring period furniture. Institute director Anthony M. Clark calls him "the best craftsman in the country.

Work was so pressing when Soulen was hired by the institute that he was not even allowed to return to his native Milwaukee to see his wife when his son was born. He quickly rose to building superintendent and served in the post 39 years before retiring in 1955.

Now he works three to four months a year at the delicate task of restoration.

"You have to know just how far to go," he says. "In this business, you don't make mistakes," he says. "These pieces are just like my children."

He laments the lack of youngsters interested in taking up the craft. Many, he says, think restorations can be made on any piece by recipe.

Soulen passed up Thursday night's Founders' Day dinner for a family birthday celebration, but showed up in time to be presented a gift for the man with everything — a solid gold reamer for his ever-present pipe.

The institute was honored as well, in a speech by John Walker, director of the national Gallery in Washington. He called the Minneapolis Institute "one of the great museums in the United States."

"Your representation of Chinese art, especially bronzes, is pre-eminent; your painting galleries contain masterpieces as fine as any in our country; your period rooms are famous and convey a sense of actuality, which is exception in museum installations of this kind," Walker said.

Confessed Thief Says He Was Disgusted

YARDVILLE, N.J. (AP) — "The man needed a job. I needed a man."

That's how Nicholas Sadowy, owner of Nick's barbecued chickens and cold cuts store, explained his hiring of Harold Brown, a grocery clerk who stole $8,000 from his previous employer, then returned it.

"I needed a manager for the night shift," Sadowy said, and decided Brown was the man he was looking for after reading of his plight. Brown, charged with burglary but free on bond, went to work for Sadowy Saturday night.

Brown, 33-year-old father of five, confessed he had burglarized a safe at the Cherry Hill store where he worked because he was in financial straits.

Asked why he returned the money, Brown said: "I was disgusted with myself."

Congress Counts Electoral Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress counted the electoral votes Wednesday and found that President Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey were the winners of last November's election.

The joint session was climaxed with the announcement by Senate President pro tem Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., that Johnson had been elected president and Humphrey vice president with 486 electoral votes to 52 for Republicans Barry Goldwater and William E. Miller.

The session was the last stage in the electoral process, formally clearing the way for inauguration of Johnson and Humphrey Jan. 20.

Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Edlund, 1015 Greenwood Ave., Canon City celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Dec. 31. They were honored at a reception on Sunday, Dec. 27, at the parlor of the First Christian Church.

Hosts for the occasion were their children, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Edlund, Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Naylor, Menlo Park, Calif., and the Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Edlund of Salida.

The Edlund's granddaughters, Barbara and Janet Naylor of Menlo Park and Sharilyn Edlund of Salida presided at the reception table and served anniversary cake, punch, coffee, and mints to about 125 relatives and friends. 8

The guest book was submitted by their grandson,, Alvin Ray Edlund of Salida.

Miss Ethel Roley and Enoch H. Edlund were married on New Year's Eve, 1914 at Rapid City, S.D., and moved to Colorado a few years after their marriage. The couple has lived in Canon City for the past two and one - half years, moving here from Minturn after Mr. Edlund's retirement as telegrapher with the D&RGW Railroad. They previously resided in Denver.

Mr. Edlund has been employed as dispatcher for the Canon City police department for the past several months. His wife is an active worker in the First Christian Church and is president of the Christian Woman's Fellowship.

Roller Skating Party Planned For CF Girls

Reservations are due Jan. 12 for the roller skating parties to be given by the Pikes Peak Area Council of Camp Fire Girls in cooperation with Delmar Jones, owner - manager of Roll-O-Rena.

The parties will be after school on Jan. 14 and Jan. 27, from 3:30 to 5 p.m., at Roll-O-Rena, 2903 N. Prospect.

Those attending will be Blue Birds, Camp Fire and Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls and Horizon Club members who sold at least 12 boxes of candy during the recent council - wide sale. Tickets for eligible members have been issued to group leaders. Adults accompanying groups to the parties may skate if they wish or attend as spectators.

Advance reservations are necessary so that the total 519 eligible girls will be divided evenly between the two dates. Reservations should be made by leaders at the council office, 635-2525.

If a winter storm causes dangerous driving conditions on either date, the free party will be postponed to a later date.

Help Him if Possible!

DEAR ABBY: There's a fatherless family in our neighborhod. The mother works and the children more or less shift for themselves.

The eldest is a 17-year-old girl who has no supervision whatsoever. She smokes and drinks and my college-age son told me not to let my 10-year-old son play with her 10-year-old brother because you wouldn't believe what goes on over there.

I hate to have to tell our boy that I have nothing against Johnny (not his real name) but because his home atmosphere is so bad I don't want him to associate with Johnny anymore. I realize that it's not Johnny's fault that his environment is poor, but I'm afraid he will be a bad influence on our boy. How can I forbid my son to play with Johnny without appearing snobbish? It's practically impossible to keep them apart. They are in the same grade at school and live in the same block. Other mothers in the neighborhood share my problem and we need an answer. —UNSOLVED PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Tell your son that if he wants to play with Johnny, Johnny will have to come to HIS home. But under no circumstances is he to go to Johnny's. Perhaps your son could be a good influence on Johnny. And if you cultivate Johnny's friendship and win his confidence, you might be a tremendously positive factor in building his character. It's not enough simply to refrain from doing evil. Seize every opportunity to do good and make the most of it.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of people who offer to take you on a "tour" of their homes when you visit them? In my opinion it is showing off. I have had this happen with people who have modest homes and also with people who have better homes. Either way I feel it is wrong. If a person has a simple home, why show off the ordinary things that everybody else has? On the other hand, if they have a better home, isn't it bragging and in poor taste to show off what they have to people who have less? I would like your opinion. —AGAINST HOUSE TOURS

DEAR AGAINST: Most people offer their friends a "tour" of the house because they assume their friends are interested in seeing it. (And they usually are!) I do not consider it "showing off" but if YOU do, don't offer a "tour" of your home. But don't condemn those who do.

VFW Auxiliary Reports on January Events

Mrs. Garvin B. Harris, president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Pikes Peak Ladies Auxiliary 4051, VFW, presided at the meeting held at the Post home Monday evening.

Mrs. Robert Fuller, past auxiliary president, was appointed to serve as hospital chairman for the remainder of the year and Mrs. John Joiner was elected to the position of guard. Mrs. Tom Newell Jr., past president, served as the installing officer. Mrs. Joiner is replacing Mrs. Ruth Anderson who has moved to Ft. Collins.

All auxiliary members are asked to note that the January covered dish luncheon will be held Jan. 12 at the home of Mrs. Tom Newell Jr., 27 N. Hancock St. Mrs. Lester Van Druff, auxiliary cancer chairman, will be in charge of the afternoon project of working on cancer dressings.

The membership contest ended Dec. 31 and the winning team headed by Mrs. Franklin T. Ripley will be guests of the losing team, with Mrs. Robert Anderson, team captain, in charge of the membership dinner to be held at the Post home at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 18. All members of the losing team are asked to contact Mrs. Anderson, regarding the dinner arrangements. She may be reached by calling 634-7372. There will be a short business meeting following the dinner.

Stop Winter Wrinkles

Use the colder months to give your skin a lovely bloom, but guard against dry wrinkles caused by the cold air. Even mildly crisp air causes the skin to contract, preventing protective oils from reaching the surface. Ask your druggist for a little oil of olay, and before you make-up, smooth it over your face, neck and hands. You will be amazed how quickly this moist oil will give the skin a peaches-and-cream loveliness, especially on cold days. This tropical oil is rather scarce and expensive but your druggist should be able to get you a small supply.

More Doctors Needed By Armed Services

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has cited an insufficient number of volunteers for its draft call Thursday for 851 doctors to enter the Army, Navy and Air Force next summer.

Most of the doctors will serve as general medical officers. The Army will get 550 of them, the Navy 176 and the Air Force 125.

"This call for physicians is necessary because a sufficient number of 1964 medical school graduates did not volunteer for active duty immediately following internship," the Pentagon announcement said.

I have had this happen with people who have modest homes and also with people who have better homes. Either way I feel it is wrong. If a person has a simple home, why show off the ordinary things that everybody else has? On the other hand, if they have a better home, isn't it bragging and in poor taste to show off what they have to people who have less? I would like your opinion. —AGAINST HOUSE TOURS

DEAR AGAINST: Most people offer their friends a "tour" of the house because they assume their friends are interested in seeing it. (And they usually are!) I do not consider it "showing off" but if YOU do, don't offer a "tour" of your home. But don't condemn those who do.

VFW Auxiliary Reports on January Events

Mrs. Garvin B. Harris, president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Pikes Peak Ladies Auxiliary 4051, VFW, presided at the meeting held at the Post home Monday evening.

Mrs. Robert Fuller, past auxiliary president, was appointed to serve as hospital chairman for the remainder of the year and Mrs. John Joiner was elected to the position of guard. Mrs. Tom Newell Jr., past president, served as the installing officer. Mrs. Joiner is replacing Mrs. Ruth Anderson who has moved to Ft. Collins.

All auxiliary members are asked to note that the January covered dish luncheon will be held Jan. 12 at the home of Mrs. Tom Newell Jr., 27 N. Hancock St. Mrs. Lester Van Druff, auxiliary cancer chairman, will be in charge of the afternoon project of working on cancer dressings.

The membership contest ended Dec. 31 and the winning team headed by Mrs. Franklin T. Ripley will be guests of the losing team, with Mrs. Robert Anderson, team captain, in charge of the membership dinner to be held at the Post home at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 18. All members of the losing team are asked to contact Mrs. Anderson, regarding the dinner arrangements. She may be reached by calling 634-7372. There will be a short business meeting following the dinner.

When seedless green grapes are out of season, you may find it handy to have a can of the grapes on your pantry shelf. They are delicious added to a cream sauce for chicken breasts or fish fillets.

Cranberry sauce in the house? You'll find it makes a delightful accompaniment to cheese sandwiches — grilled or French - toasted.

Stop Winter Wrinkles

Use the colder months to give your skin a lovely bloom, but guard against dry wrinkles caused by the cold air. Even mildly crisp air causes the skin to contract, preventing protective oils from reaching the surface. Ask your druggist for a little oil of olay, and before you make-up, smooth it over your face, neck and hands. You will be amazed how quickly this moist oil will give the skin a peaches-and-cream loveliness, especially on cold days. This tropical oil is rather scarce and expensive but your druggist should be able to get you a small supply.

More Doctors Needed By Armed Services

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has cited an insufficient number of volunteers for its draft call Thursday for 851 doctors to enter the Army, Navy and Air Force next summer.

Most of the doctors will serve as general medical officers. The Army will get 550 of them, the Navy 176 and the Air Force 125.

"This call for physicians is necessary because a sufficient number of 1964 medical school graduates did not volunteer for active duty immediately following internship," the Pentagon announcement said.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rally carried part way into its fourth straight session but faltered early this afternoon as prices turned mixed.

Trading ticked along at Thursday's active rate which should put volume around the five-million-share level.

Normal profit taking took effect, brokers said, following the week's big upsurge and in view of the approaching weekend.

Gold mining stocks rose on balance in further response to higher prices for gold in the world market and renewed emphasis on the problem of the outflow from U.S. gold holdings.

Cigarette stocks took a string of moderate losses in anticipation of a new report on smoking and health Monday.

The trend was a little lower among mail order-retail stocks, chemicals and oils, but a number of issues in these groups were unchanged.

Steels headed irregularly lower. Motors, electrical equipmunts, utilities and chemicals were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .2 at 327.5 with industrials unchanged, rails up .4 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.48 at 882.88.

U.S. Gypsum sank more than a point. Merck was about a point higher.

IBM was up 4, Polaroid 3, Xerox more than 2, Control Data and Zenith more than a point each.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange in active trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were unchanged to slightly lower.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Soybean futures started a rally soon after the opening of the Board of Trade today and held most of the gains throughout the session.

Corn was firm at the opening but prices sagged when demand dropped off and commission houses became sellers.

Carlot receipts were estimated at: wheat 12 cars, corn 197, oats 10, rye none, barley 9, soybeans 34.

Segregationists Start Talking With Negroes

By REX THOMAS

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — A new city administration is striving to erase the image of Selma as a symbol of racial strife.

In his first three months as mayor, Joe Smitherman, 35, has established new lines of communication with Negro leaders in the community to help them work out their problems.

Still as strongly pro-segregation as ever, he has promised impartial enforcement of the law and the prompt arrest of all troublemakers, white or Negro.

No longer, says Smitherman, will the city surrender its responsibility for maintaining order and leave the job, as in the past, to heavily armed sheriff's possemen whose clubs and electric prods became a familiar sight on Selma's streets.

"This is our responsibility," said the former appliance dealer. "We are ready to meet it."

When Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. spoke here last Saturday and launched a new statewide Negro voter registration drive, the posse was conspicuous by its absence.

The street outside the Negro church was patrolled by a small force of city policemen with orders to keep all whites off the block unless they had authority to be there.

There was no disorder. The congregation went home quietly.

Other mass meetings earlier had brought wholesale arrests and charges of brutality against Sheriff Jim Clark's men who handled racial matters.

In his inaugural address last Oct. 6, Smitherman made himself available to "discuss conditions with legitimate representatives of the Selma Negro community who can speak with authority for their race.

But he insists that "we don't need outside interference" — a reference to King's visit.

To handle the city's enforcement problems, the mayor persuaded Wilson Baker, a onetime catcher for the Cincinnati Reds, to leave his job with the University of Alabama and return to Selma, where he began his career in police work.

Baker, who had spent the past six years teaching law enforcement procedures as a part of the university's vocational division, says the time has come when police in the South must enforce the law as professional men regardless of their personal philosophies.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Soybean futures started a rally soon after the opening of the Board of Trade today and held most of the gains throughout the session.

Corn was firm at the opening but prices sagged when demand dropped off and commission houses became sellers.

Carlot receipts were estimated at: wheat 12 cars, corn 197, oats 10, rye none, barley 9, soybeans 34.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rally carried part way into its fourth straight session but faltered early this afternoon as prices turned mixed.

Trading ticked along at Thursday's active rate which should put volume around the five-million-share level.

Normal profit taking took effect, brokers said, following the week's big upsurge and in view of the approaching weekend.

Gold mining stocks rose on balance in further response to higher prices for gold in the world market and renewed emphasis on the problem of the outflow from U.S. gold holdings.

Cigarette stocks took a string of moderate losses in anticipation of a new report on smoking and health Monday.

The trend was a little lower among mail order-retail stocks, chemicals and oils, but a number of issues in these groups were unchanged.

Steels headed irregularly lower. Motors, electrical equipmunts, utilities and chemicals were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .2 at 327.5 with industrials unchanged, rails up .4 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.48 at 882.88.

U.S. Gypsum sank more than a point. Merck was about a point higher.

IBM was up 4, Polaroid 3, Xerox more than 2, Control Data and Zenith more than a point each.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange in active trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were unchanged to slightly lower.

Segregationists Start Talking With Negroes

By REX THOMAS

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — A new city administration is striving to erase the image of Selma as a symbol of racial strife.

In his first three months as mayor, Joe Smitherman, 35, has established new lines of communication with Negro leaders in the community to help them work out their problems.

Still as strongly pro-segregation as ever, he has promised impartial enforcement of the law and the prompt arrest of all troublemakers, white or Negro.

No longer, says Smitherman, will the city surrender its responsibility for maintaining order and leave the job, as in the past, to heavily armed sheriff's possemen whose clubs and electric prods became a familiar sight on Selma's streets.

"This is our responsibility," said the former appliance dealer. "We are ready to meet it."

When Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. spoke here last Saturday and launched a new statewide Negro voter registration drive, the posse was conspicuous by its absence.

The street outside the Negro church was patrolled by a small force of city policemen with orders to keep all whites off the block unless they had authority to be there.

There was no disorder. The congregation went home quietly.

Other mass meetings earlier had brought wholesale arrests and charges of brutality against Sheriff Jim Clark's men who handled racial matters.

In his inaugural address last Oct. 6, Smitherman made himself available to "discuss conditions with legitimate representatives of the Selma Negro community who can speak with authority for their race.

But he insists that "we don't need outside interference" — a reference to King's visit.

To handle the city's enforcement problems, the mayor persuaded Wilson Baker, a onetime catcher for the Cincinnati Reds, to leave his job with the University of Alabama and return to Selma, where he began his career in police work.

Baker, who had spent the past six years teaching law enforcement procedures as a part of the university's vocational division, says the time has come when police in the South must enforce the law as professional men regardless of their personal philosophies.

Over 3 Million Aliens Plan To Register

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINTON (AP) — The government is harvesting its annual bumper crop of address report cards from the millions of foreigners living in the United States.

They are required by a 1952 law — carrying the threat of deportation —to notify the government of their whereabouts each January.

But an immigration official said today the penalty had been enforced only once or twice in 12 years, and then only as a legal maneuver to kick out an undesirable.

Thus an absent-minded alien who forgets to turn in his card by Jan. 31 is under no serious threat of deportation or the 30-day jail term and $200 fine prescribed by the law.

"We've had practically full compliance every year," said Mario T. Noto, associate commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"We've tried to handle this gently — not like police work but like an invitation to these people to 'come on down and let us know where you are these days,' " Noto said in an interview.

Commissioner Raymond F. Farrell estimates 3,385,000 aliens will fill out the alien address report cards by the end of the month. More than 90 per cent of the aliens have used their local post offices for the chore; others go to nearby offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

What's the reason for the massive reporting task?

"This gives the government an account of those people within our borders who aren't citizens," Noto said. "An alien has a right to be here. But he can leave any time he wants to, and it takes an annual survey like this to give us accurate knowledge of who's here."

The address report requirement applies to all aliens except those in diplomatic service, temporary farm laborers, and representatives of international organizations of which the United States is a member, such as the United Nations.

One in a Million Odds Beaten Twice

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oklo. (AP) — Motorist Johnny Jackson beat one-in-a-million odds twice.

His wife reported Wednesday he brought home the license plates for their two cars without even looking at them. The numbers were the same as those of their 1964 tags — XB 5263 and XB 5264.

Oklahoma will sell more than a million tags this year.

Opening lead: King of ◇ South took full advantage of a totally inept defense to land a vulnerable slam contract.

South opened the bidding modestly with one club. Although he has enough winners for a demand bid. he lacks the required four defensive tricks. Observe that, with a holding that contains only 14 high card points, there is no real risk that one club will be passed out.

West overcalled with one heart and North made a free bid of one notrump, which denotes a balanced hand of about average strength with a sure stopper in the opponent's suit. South's jump to three clubs is forcing, after partner's free bid. West now showed his second suit and North made a penalty double.

South was not interested in defending against a low level contract. He had visions of reaching a slam and, in order to inform partner of his intentions, he now made a cue bid of four diamonds, designating first round control of that suit. When North showed the ace of hearts, South did not dally any further, proceeding directly to six clubs.

A heart opening would have assured the defense of a profit on the deal, however, West elected to lead the king of diamonds despite South's cue bid in that suit. Declarer ruffed and confidently expected to make a claim momentarily—until West showed out on the first round of trumps.

South continued with the king of clubs and then gave East his trick in the suit. A heart return at this pont would still have defeated the contract, for it breaks the vital communications link between the declarer's hand and the dummy. East continued his partner's futile attack, however, by returning the seven of diamonds.

South ruffed in his hand, cashed three spades and then proceeded to lead out his remaining trumps. As the last club was led, West was down to the king - queen of hearts and the ace of diamonds, while the dummy retained the ace-jack of hearts and the queen of diamonds. If West gave up a heart, North would take the last two tricks in that suit. The discard of the ace of diamonds is equally fatal, for it establishes dummy's queen as the fulfilling trick.

Despite the fact that West failed to open a heart originally, East surely should have shifted to that suit when he was in in order to make a play for his partner. If West does not have good hearts, the defense might as well abandon hope, for declarer can always play that suit himself.

Western Will Resume Service To Yellowstone

Regular airline service to Yellowstone National Park will be resumed by Western Air Lines on June 12 after a 17-year lapse caused by inadequate airport facilities.

Resumption of the service was made possible through the construction of a $1,318,000 airport at the west entrance to the park. The new airport was financed by a Federal Aviation Agency grant of $646,332 and $735,000 provided by the Department of Interior.

The Montana Aeronautics Commission supervised construction and will operate the field. The airport will be dedicated in conjunction with the arrival of the first WAL flight.

Service to the nation's oldest and largest national park will be on a June-September basis. Western will inaugurate service with two flights a day an all-coach Lockheed Electra flight and one first class-and-coach DC-6B schedule. Both scheduled have been designed to use Salt Lake City as the principal gateway to Yellowstone, connecting with transcontinental flights and other airline service at that point.

Air service to Yellowstone Park was pioneered in 1935 by National Parks Airways, a Salt Lake City-to-Great Falls airline that Western acquired in 1937.

Western officially began service to the park in 1939, suspended during World War II, resumed in 1946 and discontinued flights in 1948 when the existing airport was incapable of accommodating the DC-3 and larger aircraft that were entering service following World War II.

Working with the Yellowstone Park Company, which operates hotels and ground transportation facilities in the park, Western has constructed a series of package tours for 2, 3, 4 and 5-night visits. Fly-and-drive arrangements also will be available.

"Almost two million visitors visited Yellowstone Park last summer," Arthur F. Kelly, Western vice president-sales, said. "The availability of jet-age air service direct to the park gate will make it possible for many thousands of other travelers from all over the world to visit this internationally famed scenic wonder."

Yellowstone was created as the first National Park in 1872. More than three times the size of Rhode Island, Yellowstone Park contains 2¼ million acres of forest, mountains and lakes. It is most famous for Old Faithful Geyser, but has more than 10,000 other thermal phenomena within its boundaries.

The park is a true wildlife refuge with bear, buffalo, deer, elk, antelope, moose and rare trumpeter swans roaming its colorful landscape.

Yellowstone, which was named for the colors in the sheer canyon walls surrounding the 420-foot falls, has long been one of America's great tourist attractions.

Minimum Wage Put Ahead of 'Right to Work'

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson plans to put minimum wage and unemployment compensation legislation ahead of organized labor's pet project — repeal of the "right-to-work" section of federal law.

But, a high administration source says, repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act is still of "very real political and economic concern" to Johnson, even though he may not get around to proposing it until next spring.

Section 14B permits states to enact so-called "right-to-work laws that prohibit labor contracts from requiring compulsory union membership.

Its repeal is organized labor's No. 1 goal in the new Congrss.

In his State of the Union message Monday night Johnson promised to ask Congress to repeal 14B. The next day some reports circulated on Capitol Hill that Johnson would not push hard for repeal in the next few months.

This caused some consternation in union circles.

It also has been learned on high authority that Johnson at the same time will seek another change in the Taft-Hartley Act desired by organized labor — especially in the construction trades.

This is the present ban on "situs" picketing which makes unions subject to secondary boycott penalties when calling at a strike at a construction site involving more than one employer.

Although he will not present a separate labor message to Congress, Johnson is considering a number of other changes in labor laws. But high sources indicated there is no change in the administration's opposition to cutting the federal standard work week from 40 to 35 hours — another prime aim of organized labor.

The administration believes it has the votes in Congress to change the two sections of Taft-Hartley without opening up the whole law to extensive revision under pressure of business interests.

Repeal of section 14B would wipe from the books "right-to-work laws in 20 states.

Johnson is assigning top priority to bringing another estimated 2 million workers under the Fair Labor Standards Act, and improving the unemployment compensation program.

The first measure would bring hotel, restaurant, laundry and agricultural processing workers under the $1.25 minimum wage and other provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

There is also some consideration in high administration circles of requesting an increase in the $1.25 minimum wage, although probably not to the $2 figure advocated by the AFL-CIO.

Another possibility reported under "serious consideration" is bringing agricultural workers under the Fair Labor Standards Act. But this is expected to bring strong political resistance from growers who are already angry over the recent abolition of the foreign migrant labor program.

RKO-General Takes Over Frontier Stock

Frontier Airlines majority stock ownership has been assumed by RKO-General, Inc. of New York, wholly owned subsidiary of General Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio.

Transfer of 651,308 shares from Goldfield Corporation of New York coupled with a separate transaction covering purchase of 16,341 shares of Frontier treasury stock, gives RKO-General a 55.5 per cent interest in Frontier's outstanding 1,203,160 shares.

T. F. O'Neil, chairman of the board of General Tire & Rubber and RKO-General, reaffirmed previously announced intentions of no change in management and policies. It was further disclosed that Lewis W. Dymond, president of Frontier, was recently elected an officer of RKO-General.

Dymond commented, "We will continue unchanged our program of improving the quality and reliability of service throughout our eleven-state area. No changes will be made in the planned fleet expansion to fifteen jet-powered Convair 580s and in our endeavor to obtain additional route authorizations."

The company has closed another record year by registering a 22 per cent increase in revenue passenger miles over the pace setting record established in 1963 which itself was 51 per cent ahead of the previous year. This was announced by Lewis W. Dymond, president of Frontier Airlines.

This year's gain accompanied a minimal 5 per cent increase in total airplane miles flown and a 13 per cent increase in capacity made possible by the added larger jet-powered Convair 580 planes.

Frontier carried 635,452 passengers compared with 539,032 in 1963. Revenue passenger miles flown totaled 187,082,000 compared with 152,940,000.

An important factor in this year's growth was the introduction of the first of the airline's planned fleet of 15 Convair 580 jet-powered aircraft. The first two were placed in service in June with a total of four in scheduled operations by November.

Commencing in February an additional Convair 580 will replace the present Convair 340s in successive six week intervals. All 15 of the jet-powered aircraft will be in service by the spring of 1966.

A comparison of December's traffic results indicate the improved utility of the new planes. The four jet planes in December flew only 306,218 miles against 401,579 with eight of the piston-powered Convair 340s which they are replacing. Yet, the total passenger miles were approximately the same — 7,122,000 against 7,305,000 with the Convair 340s.

Greater passenger appeal coupled with increased seating capacity enabled the jet-powered Convair 580s to average 27 per cent higher passenger loads per mile than the Convair 340s in December.

At the Colorado cities served by Frontier a total of 18,937 passengers were recorded for a 12 per cent increase. Alamosa boarded 362 for a 4 per cent increase, Colorado Springs recorded 937 for a 168 per cent increase, Denver had 13,193 passengers for a 13 per cent increase, Grand Junction 2536 for an 18 per cent increase, Gunnison 194 for a 12 per cent increase, Montrose 436 for a 10 per cent increase.

Robert D. Skaer Services Saturday

Robert D. Skaer, 1952 Woodburn St., died Thursday at his home. He was an insurance salesman and had been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1951, and was a member of Grace Episcopal Church. He served as a first lieutenant in the Army Transportation Corps in World War II.

Mr. Skaer was born in Independence, Mo. Jan. 12, 1918. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Skaer; his mother, Mrs. Mae Sinton, both of Colorado Springs- a grandmother, Mrs. Guss Skaer, Wichita, Kan.; three aunts, Mrs. Ray Hutchison, Mrs. L. B. McNeil, and Mrs. Ralph McCauley, all of Augusta, Kan. and three uncles, Wesley Skaer, Herrington, Kan.; Victor Auer, Eldorado, Kan., and Hobert Auer, Artesia, N.M.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Law Drawing Room. The Rev. Arthur W. Pierpoint will officiate. Burial will be in Augusta, Kan.

Long Distance Call Increase Noted Here

Another indication of growth in the Colorado Springs area was announced by the Telephone Company today.

Long distance calling has been increasing at a tremendous pace in the past few years. It was announced that on an average day there are 93 telephone operators on duty to handle this calling.

Christmas day 161 telephone operators were on duty to handle the peak business that is experienced each year people like to call their families when they cannot be there in person.

On Christmas 1963 the telephone operators in Colorado Springs placed 16,044 calls while 18,486 were dial direct by customers. This made a total of 34,930 long distance calls placed on Christmas 1963.

This year operators placed 20,701 calls while 26,226 were dialed direct by customers for a total of 46,967 long distance calls. This is an increase of 12,437 calls from last year.

Ford Output Shows 9 Per Cent December Rise

Ford Motor Company built 223,946 cars and 41,706 trucks in December, raising total U. S. production for calendar year 1964 to 2,603,891 units — up nine per cent over 1963 car-truck output.

The company 1964 passenger car total of 2,145,942 units eclipsed 1964 production of 1,963,869 and was second only to the 2,240,661 cars built in 1955.

Truck production for the year reached 457,949 units, an all-time high and eight per cent above the former record of 424,728 set last year.

Total car-truck production was the highest since 1955 when 2,614,558 units were assembled.

The company had said earlier that a two-week strike cut fourth quarter production by 115,000 cars and 15,000 trucks.

Prime Ministers Plan Big Meeting

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson said Thursday night he is planning his first conference of prime ministers of the British Commonwealth.

"I am already in touch with my colleagues to find out their reactions to this proposal," he told an anniversary dinner of the Commonwealth Correspondents' Association.

A commonwealth meeting probably would not take place before July at the earliest government sources said. The last Commonwealth conference was held last July.

Over 3 Million Aliens Plan To Register

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINTON (AP) — The government is harvesting its annual bumper crop of address report cards from the millions of foreigners living in the United States.

They are required by a 1952 law — carrying the threat of deportation —to notify the government of their whereabouts each January.

But an immigration official said today the penalty had been enforced only once or twice in 12 years, and then only as a legal maneuver to kick out an undesirable.

Thus an absent-minded alien who forgets to turn in his card by Jan. 31 is under no serious threat of deportation or the 30-day jail term and $200 fine prescribed by the law.

"We've had practically full compliance every year," said Mario T. Noto, associate commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"We've tried to handle this gently — not like police work but like an invitation to these people to 'come on down and let us know where you are these days,'" Noto said in an interview.

Commissioner Raymond F. Farrell estimates 3,385,000 aliens will fill out the alien address report cards by the end of the month. More than 90 per cent of the aliens have used their local post offices for the chore; others go to nearby offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

What's the reason for the massive reporting task?

"This gives the government an account of those people within our borders who aren't citizens," Noto said. "An alien has a right to be here. But he can leave any time he wants to, and it takes an annual survey like this to give us accurate knowledge of who's here."

The address report requirement applies to all aliens except those in diplomatic service, temporary farm laborers, and representatives of international organizations of which the United States is a member, such as the United Nations.

'One in a Million Odds Beaten Twice

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oklo. (AP) — Motorist Johnny Jackson beat one-in-a-million odds twice.

His wife reported Wednesday he brought home the license plates for their two cars without even looking at them. The numbers were the same as those of their 1964 tags — XB 5263 and XB 5264.

Oklahoma will sell more than a million tags this year.

1 ♣	1 ♡	1 NT	Pass
3 ♣	3 ◇	Double	Pass
4 ◇	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ◇

South took full advantage of a totally inept defense to land a vulnerable slam contract.

South opened the bidding modestly with one club. Although he has enough winners for a demand bid, he lacks the required four defensive tricks. Observe that, with a holding that contains only 14 high card points, there is no real risk that one club will be passed out.

West overcalled with one heart and North made a free bid of one notrump, which denotes a balanced hand of about average strength with a sure stopper in the opponent's suit. South's jump to three clubs is forcing, after partner's free bid. West now showed his second suit and North made a penalty double.

South was not interested in defending against a low level contract. He had visions of reaching a slam and, in order to inform partner of his intentions, he now made a cue bid of four diamonds, designating first round control of that suit. When North showed the ace of hearts, South did not dally any further, proceeding directly to six clubs.

A heart opening would have assured the defense of a profit on the deal, however, West elected to lead the king of diamonds despite South's cue bid in that suit. Declarer ruffed and confidently expected to make a claim momentarily—until West showed out on the first round of trumps.

South continued with the king of clubs and then gave East his trick in the suit. A heart return at this pont would still have defeated the contract, for it breaks the vital communications link between the declarer's hand and the dummy. East continued his partner's futile attack, however, by returning the seven of diamonds.

South ruffed in his hand, cashed three spades and then proceeded to lead out his remaining trumps. As the last club was led, West was down to the king - queen of hearts and the ace of diamonds, while the dummy retained the ace-jack of hearts and the queen of diamonds. If West gave up a heart, North would take the last two tricks in that suit. The discard of the ace of diamonds is equally fatal, for it establishes dummy's queen as the fulfilling trick.

Despite the fact that West failed to open a heart originally, East surely should have shifted to that suit when he was in in order to make a play for his partner. If West does not have good hearts, the defense might as well abandon hope, for declarer can always play that suit himself.

Western Will Resume Service To Yellowstone

Regular airline service to Yellowstone National Park will be resumed by Western Air Lines on June 12 after a 17-year lapse caused by inadequate airport facilities.

Resumption of the service was made possible through the construction of a $1,318,000 airport at the west entrance to the park. The new airport was financed by a Federal Aviation Agency grant of $646,332 and $735,000 provided by the Department of Interior.

The Montana Aeronautics Commission supervised construction and will operate the field. The airport will be dedicated in conjunction with the arrival of the first WAL flight.

Service to the nation's oldest and largest national park will be on a June-September basis. Western will inaugurate service with two flights a day an all-coach Lockheed Electra flight and one first class-and-coach DC-6B schedule. Both scheduled have been designed to use Salt Lake City as the principal gateway to Yellowstone, connecting with transcontinental flights and other airline service at that point.

Air service to Yellowstone Park was pioneered in 1935 by National Parks Airways, a Salt Lake City-to-Great Falls airline that Western acquired in 1937.

Western officially began service to the park in 1939, suspended during World War II, resumed in 1946 and discontinued flights in 1948 when the existing airport was incapable of accommodating the DC-3 and larger aircraft that were entering service following World War II.

Working with the Yellowstone Park Company, which operates hotels and ground transportation facilities in the park, Western has constructed a series of package tours for 2, 3, 4 and 5-night visits. Fly-and-drive arrangements also will be available.

"Almost two million visitors visited Yellowstone Park last summer," Arthur F. Kelly, Western vice president-sales, said. "The availability of jet-age air service direct to the park gate will make it possible for many thousands of other travelers from all over the world to visit this internationally famed scenic wonder."

Yellowstone was created as the first National Park in 1872. More than three times the size of Rhode Island, Yellowstone Park contains 2¼ million acres of forest, mountains and lakes. It is most famous for Old Faithful Geyser, but has more than 10,000 other thermal phenomena within its boundaries.

The park is a true wildlife refuge with bear, buffalo, deer, elk, antelope, moose and rare trumpeter swans roaming its colorful landscape.

Yellowstone, which was named for the colors in the sheer canyon walls surrounding the 420-foot falls, has long been one of America's great tourist attractions.

Minimum Wage Put Ahead of 'Right to Work'

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson plans to put minimum wage and unemployment compensation legislation ahead of organized labor's pet project — repeal of the "right-to-work" section of federal law.

But, a high administration source says, repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act is still of "very real political and economic concern" to Johnson, even though he may not get around to proposing it until next spring.

Section 14B permits states to enact so-called "right-to-work laws that prohibit labor contracts from requiring compulsory union membership.

Its repeal is organized labor's No. 1 goal in the new Congrss.

In his State of the Union message Monday night Johnson promised to ask Congress to repeal 14B. The next day some reports circulated on Capitol Hill that Johnson would not push hard for repeal in the next few months.

This caused some consternation in union circles.

It also has been learned on high authority that Johnson at the same time will seek another change in the Taft-Hartley Act desired by organized labor — especially in the construction trades.

This is the present ban on "situs" picketing which makes unions subject to secondary boycott penalties when calling at a strike at a construction site involving more than one employer.

Although he will not present a separate labor message to Congress, Johnson is considering a number of other changes in labor laws. But high sources indicated there is no change in the administration's opposition to cutting the federal standard work week from 40 to 35 hours — another prime aim of organized labor.

The administration believes it has the votes in Congress to change the two sections of Taft-Hartley without opening up the whole law to extensive revision under pressure of business interests.

Repeal of section 14B would wipe from the books "right-to-work laws in 20 states.

Johnson is assigning top priority to bringing another estimated 2 million workers under the Fair Labor Standards Act, and improving the unemployment compensation program.

The first measure would bring hotel, restaurant, laundry and agricultural processing workers under the $1.25 minimum wage and other provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

There is also some consideration in high administration circles of requesting an increase in the $1.25 minimum wage, although probably not to the $2 figure advocated by the AFL-CIO.

Another possibility reported under "serious consideration" is bringing agricultural workers under the Fair Labor Standards Act. But this is expected to bring strong political resistance from growers who are already angry over the recent abolition of the foreign migrant labor program.

RKO-General Takes Over Frontier Stock

Frontier Airlines majority stock ownership has been assumed by RKO-General, Inc. of New York, wholly owned subsidiary of General Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio.

Transfer of 651,308 shares from Goldfield Corporation of New York coupled with a separate transaction covering purchase of 16,341 shares of Frontier treasury stock, gives RKO-General a 55.5 per cent interest in Frontier's outstanding 1,203,160 shares.

T. F. O'Neil, chairman of the board of General Tire & Rubber and RKO-General, reaffirmed previously announced intentions of no change in management and policies. It was further disclosed that Lewis W. Dymond, president of Frontier, was recently elected an officer of RKO-General.

Dymond commented, "We will continue unchanged our program of improving the quality and reliability of service throughout our eleven-state area. No changes will be made in the planned fleet expansion to fifteen jet-powered Convair 580s and in our endeavor to obtain additional route authorizations."

The company has closed another record year by registering a 22 per cent increase in revenue passenger miles over the pace setting record established in 1963 which itself was 51 per cent ahead of the previous year. This was announced by Lewis W. Dymond, president of Frontier Airiines.

This year's gain accompanied a minimal 5 per cent increase in total airplane miles flown and a 13 per cent increase in capacity made possible by the added larger jet-powered Convair 580 planes.

Frontier carried 635,452 passengers compared with 539,032 in 1963. Revenue passenger miles flown totaled 187,082,000 compared with 152,940,000.

An important factor in this year's growth was the introduction of the first of the airline's planned fleet of 15 Convair 580 jet-powered aircraft. The first two were placed in service in June with a total of four in scheduled operations by November.

Commencing in February an additional Convair 580 will replace the present Convair 340s in successive six week intervals. All 15 of the jet-powered aircraft will be in service by the spring of 1966.

A comparison of December's traffic results indicate the improved utility of the new planes. The four jet planes in December flew only 306,218 miles against 401,579 with eight of the piston-powered Convair 340s which they are replacing. Yet, the total passenger miles were approximately the same — 7,122,000 against 7,305,000 with the Convair 340s.

Greater passenger appeal coupled with increased seating capacity enabled the jet-powered Convair 580s to average 27 per cent higher passenger loads per mile than the Convair 340s in December.

At the Colorado cities served by Frontier a total of 18,937 passengers were recorded for a 12 per cent increase. Alamosa boarded 362 for a 4 per cent increase, Colorado Springs recorded 937 for a 168 per cent increase, Denver had 13,193 passengers for a 13 per cent increase, Grand Junction 2536 for an 18 per cent increase, Gunnison 194 for a 12 per cent increase, Montrose 436 for a 10 per cent increase.

Robert D. Skaer Services Saturday

Robert D. Skaer, 1952 Woodburn St., died Thursday at his home. He was an insurance salesman and had been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1951, and was a member of Grace Episcopal Church. He served as a first lieutenant in the Army Transportation Corps in World War II.

Mr. Skaer was born in Independence, Mo. Jan. 12, 1918. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Skaer; his mother, Mrs. Mae Sinton, both of Colorado Springs- a grandmother, Mrs. Guss Skaer, Wichita, Kan.; three aunts, Mrs. Ray Hutchison, Mrs. L. B. McNeil, and Mrs. Ralph McCauley, all of Augusta, Kan. and three uncles, Wesley Skaer, Herrington, Kan.; Victor Auer, Eldorado, Kan., and Hobert Auer, Artesia, N.M.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Law Drawing Room. The Rev. Arthur W. Pierpoint will officiate. Burial will be in Augusta, Kan.

Long Distance Call Increase Noted Here

Another indication of growth in the Colorado Springs area was announced by the Telephone Company today.

Long distance calling has been increasing at a tremendous pace in the past few years. It was announced that on an average day there are 93 telephone operators on duty to handle this calling.

Christmas day 161 telephone operators were on duty to handle the peak business that is experienced each year people like to call their families when they cannot be there in person.

On Christmas 1963 the telephone operators in Colorado Springs placed 16,044 calls while 18,486 were dial direct by customers. This made a total of 34,930 long distance calls placed on Christmas 1963.

This year operators placed 20,701 calls while 26,226 were dialed direct by customers for a total of 46,967 long distance calls. This is an increase of 12,437 calls from last year.

Ford Output Shows 9 Per Cent December Rise

Ford Motor Company built 223,946 cars and 41,706 trucks in December, raising total U. S. production for calendar year 1964 to 2,603,891 units — up nine per cent over 1963 car-truck output.

The company 1964 passenger car total of 2,145,942 units eclipsed 1964 production of 1,963,869 and was second only to the 2,240,661 cars built in 1955.

Truck production for the year reached 457,949 units, an all-time high and eight per cent above the former record of 424,728 set last year.

Total car-truck production was the highest since 1955 when 2,614,558 units were assembled.

The company had said earlier that a two-week strike cut fourth quarter production by 115,000 cars and 15,000 trucks.

Prime Ministers Plan Big Meeting

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson said Thursday night he is planning his first conference of prime ministers of the British Commonwealth.

"I am already in touch with my colleagues to find out their reactions to this proposal," he told an anniversary dinner of the Commonwealth Correspondents' Association.

A commonwealth meeting probably would not take place before July at the earliest government sources said. The last Commonwealth conference was held last July.

Loot Is Loot Regardless of Flow

Fred Lander is back with us again on the subject of a local sales tax.

He makes a plea to ye editor to help him show that the problem we have here relates to tax money taken out of the city but that does not relate to tax money spent in the city. But Mr. Lander is in error and we cannot assist him.

Tax money, wherever it is taken to be spent, is money that is taken from the rightful owners without their consent.

If it is claimed that a majority, or even a plurality, or even the council in a majority, actually votes approval, and therefore the money is taken with consent and not against the wills of the owners, we will protest.

If Mr. Lander wishes to pay a sales tax to be used in the city, we will recommend that he keep track of what he spends, add the city sales tax, and then trot down to city hall and turn in the percentage he believes he should pay. We have no objection to his doing this. We have no objection if the other people who feel as he does, do the same thing.

Let those who wish a two per cent, or a one per cent or any other per cent in a sales tax, tax themselves the amount they approve. In the event a law were passed along this line, someone would have to keep track of it anyway, so let those who wish to be so taxed, tax themselves and voluntarily turn over the money with instructions as to how it is to be spent.

But the moment those who object to the tax are forced to pay it, then the involuntary nature of the tax is revealed. And this is the characteristic of all taxes. Taxes are collected from ALL; those who have approved and, likewise, those who disapprove.

Mr. Lander objects to taxes being taken out of the community. But this is wholly a secondary objection and not a primary one. In actual fact, what he is saying is that he does not really object to plunder and legal spoliation, so long as the loot remains locally and is locally expended. In short, he wishes to deal with the looter and hopes to keep the loot handy for that purpose.

Now, if it is wrong to take money from a person in this community and spend the money in Viet Nam, it is just as wrong to take money from a person in this community and spend it in Denver. The geographical flow of loot does not determine the morality of the matter. Indeed, it is just as wrong to take money from a man on one side of the street and expend it on a man on the other side of the street. The distance the money travels after it is wrested from the rightful owner has no bearing whatever on the morality of the issue.

Indeed, this is the whole problem. Most of those we have met who object to some of the governmental policies we have at the moment, base their objections, not on the morality of the issue, but on the fact that they don't seem to be getting a large enough cut. They don't object to taxation; they object to the shortage of the handouts to them.

If Mr. Lander will agree that taxation for spending in Asia is wrong; he must, if he adheres to logic and principle, agree that to tax A and spend it on B is just as wrong and for identical reasons. But his formula, if it can be said to be a formula, is to cut back on foreign spending of tax money and to encourage local spending of tax money. And this is only to say that Mr. Lander doesn't think he is getting his share of the loot and he wants more of it spent locally. In other words, he is in favor of looting, provided he gets his cut.

This is the very point that Marx, Lenin and other socialists emphasized. They pointed out that nearly everyone, and certainly most "workers" or the "proletariat," will always be willing to get an advantage through the government. Thus, the workers will favor any kind of policy which may appear to impair the "rich" if only the worker gets a "benefit" out of the procedure.

All of us have witnessed this tendency. Many men, claiming to favor freedom and free enterprise, have called for a curtailment of government intrusion in business and a lessening of government expenditures. But whenever the men in government suggest that local tax spending be curtailed, there is a great cry of objection raised in Washington. When the "other fellow" gets a socialist handout, Mr. Lander and others object. But when they don't get the kind of handout they want, then they favor new taxes so they can get in on the gravy.

Personal Progress

Self-satisfaction is the father of complacency and the mother of pride. No one ever begins improving himself until he wakes up to realize that he's not quite as good as he thought he was.

Not What It Seems

It's not just the number of dollars in the pay envelope, but what the dollars will buy that is important to the worker. However, sometimes it seems a little difficult to see that additional dollars on payday don't buy as much as they did just a few years back.

For that reason, a study by the Manufacturers Association of Colorado reported in a recent issue of Industrial News Review, is especially important.

The organization reported that in 1947 the average production worker's take home pay (after taxes and social security) was $2,474. Fifteen years later, in 1962, the average was $4,446, which seems a sizable increase, until the inflationary factors are realized.

The 1962 dollar, because of inflation, was worth 35 per cent less than the 1947 dollar. That means that in terms of purchasing power, the worker's 1962 income was $1,556 less than it seemed. In purchasing power it was only $416 larger than his 1947 income. His gain was far less than it appeared.

But the real victim was not the salaried person or the wage earner, who received more money in terms of 1947 dollars. The real victim is the person on a fixed pension or other fixed income from insurance or savings. That individual in 1962 was receiving the same number of dollars, which had been depreciated by that 35 per cent. He was being taxed, in the most cruel way there is, to finance the inflation.

To The Point

The Salvation Army And The Beatles

By RUSSELL KIRK

People are always saying that something is wrong with the rising generation; and so it is. But also something is wrong with the declining generation.

During the Christmas season, the Salvation Army came to sing to us. These were the Salvation Army people of the town of Leven, in Scotland, for this column is written from a Scottish country house. A few years ago, the Salvation Army used to march up from the town, playing instruments with great fervor, some 25 strong. This year, however, there were only seven of them, and they had no band. But some of them sang very well, and we adults at Durie House ate cake and drank milk with them, and sang hymns.

But the teen-agers of Durie House did not join in the singing. For they were watching the Beatles on television, and could not be bothered with mere live people. To watch the Beatles has become a quasi-religious rite with the rising generation, ordained by all the silly apparatus of modern mass publicity. Who wants hymns and good works?

I do not suggest, nevertheless, that the younger generation is peculiarly afflicted with a failure of taste and intellect. For demon "tellie," as the British call it, equally enraptures their seniors. A few days ago, I sat in the parlor of an old-fashioned hotel, where most of the patrons are people of advanced years and superior education. When I visited this hotel a decade ago, the guests spent the evening reading the better magazines and newspapers, and in cheerful, intelligent conversation. What were they doing this holiday season? Why, to a man, they were watching television—and drinking in, much of the time, British imitations of the quiz-shows that are even more inane than their American originals.

I venture to ask you, gentle reader, what happens to a society in which even the more promising or experienced people succumb to the mentality of the "viewer"? Who is left to do the physical and mental labor—and, more important, to exercise the imagination? This affliction seems to operate at every level of society, and in every vocation. Why, for instance, does the Salvation Army of Leven have left only seven active members — though that organization still has important work to do? Can it be, in part, that the rest of the band have fallen away to watch television?

Mass-produced triviality is a sorry substitute for hymns at Christmas. And centralized amusement, by television screen, is an unpleasant replacement of personal, local, live activity. Would I agree that the possibility of hearing and watching a professional chorus sing carols over TV sufficiently compensates for the old local amateur efforts? No, friend, I would not so agree, any more than I would agree that watching a professional ball game is healthier than playing on the sand-lot yourself. Real people, especially such folk as compose the Salvation Army, always are better than television ghosts.

The Local Scene

Non-heroes in Heroic Size

BY RUFUS L. PORTER

To celebrate our wedding anniversary New Year's Eve, my wife and I went out to dinner and then to a picture show or, as the British say, to the cinema.

This was the first time I had visited a movie emporium in quite a spell. I knew there was some reason why I had quit going to them, but I had forgotten what it was. But the minute I walked into one, I remembered. It is the wide, wide, wide screen, with the actors and actresses pictured ten times bigger than life.

I do not know the dimensions of the screen we were viewing, but it was tremendous. In a close up, the actor's head filled the whole thing. Imagine a head 15 feet high and a nose seemingly as long as a ski slope, and when he opened his mouth you could have dropped the grand canyon into it — and teeth bigger than tombstones. And the scenery was in proportion.

Another fault of the big screens is that when the actors walk about in the foreground, they appear to move so quickly that everything and everybody in the background becomes a blur. I am not opposed to progress — but I believe it can be too much.

I loved the old silent flickers. When sound was introduced, I recognized it as a vast improvement and the color, when it came, added beauty and life to the unique form of entertainment known as "the movies." But I do not believe it is necessary to make the actors so big that the spectator can keep his mind on nothing but their size. I do not even like the close ups on TV where the head, or sometimes only the mouth, fills the whole screen.

Before movies came along I saw many road shows and much vaudeville -- and some opera — all in life size. And the first color "talkies" that came out were things of beauty. But these huge screens certainly do not make them a joy forever. I will probably never attend another picture show, unless there is a theatre somewhere with a modest sized screen. The drive ins are even worse than the regular movie houses.

Maybe I am old fashioned, but in my estimation, there haven't been a dozen men in the history of America who deserve to be pictured as 20 feet tall — and four of them are on Mount Rushmore. I like my actors actor size. And the same goes for actresses and scenery. When I want an unreal world, I'll blast off to another planet. Pictures can't make up in size what the plot lacks in drama, or the actors lack in artistic ability.

What has happened to the movies? They are overgrown. One man's opinion, and not necessarily that of his wife. The show was a little better than ordinary and not nearly as sexy as most are nowadays, judging from their ads. I would probably have enjoyed it if I hadn't been awestruck by the size of the hero's teeth, hands, feet, etc. — and the same for the heroine and the rest of the cast. Perhaps I have grown hypercritical in my dotage. The only thing I enjoy on TV is "Fractured Flickers," that is why I do my writing at night.

I have nothing against the theatres, nor the movie industry, and I realize that many people enjoy the wide screens. But I'll bet there are quite a few who feel as I do. I do not believe you can improve the looks of a human being by magnifying him to ten times life size. In fact, it might work the other way around.

The government's left hand never seems to know what its right hand is doing. For instance, Congress recently authorized the setting aside of nine million more acres of "wilderness areas," for the enjoyment of posterity. Much of this land will have to be purchased from the owners, and it will all add a tremendous burden on the taxpayers.

At the same time, with the other hand, the government is damming up and burying under water some of the grandest and wildest scenery on the face of the earth. The Glen Canyon Dam is one, the Black Canyon Dam, now under construction, is another. Both are in Colorado. The Dinosaur National Monument is next on the list, and the Grand Canon of the Colorado itself is being seriously considered by the Bureau of "Reclamation" as a site for several huge, high and impressive dams.

By the time "posterity" arrives on the scene — it is always far off according to the politicians — these dams will contain nothing but seas of silt. They will be bottomless mud marshes. The most magnificent scenery on the continent will be buried for all time. But we will still have our "wilderness areas," or will we? Not if the politicos decide to use them for something else, and they will, in time.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What substance makes an "eye"?

A—A tropical cyclone (hurricane). The "eye" is the area in the center of the storm. It varies in diameter from about 7 to 20 miles. Whereas the rest of the storm is violent, the eye has little or no wind and sometimes is clear enough so that sunshine or stars can be seen.

Q—How does a starfish turn over?

A—A starfish rights itself by bending its stiff arms and pulling with its tube feet.

Q—What American tree has the longest thorns?

A—Honey locust.

Q—What is meant by the term geophagy?

A—Geophagy is the practice of eating earthy substances, especially clays.

LOCAL TAXES

To the Editor:

My first plan (November 28) was a "trap." I wanted to start a chain reaction of people thinking for themselves — we have been accepting the tax-rate structure for too long, accepting it blindly. But finally, with protest — weakly — I stuck my neck out. I got it chopped at, not off, but one person even asked if I was trying to cause "trouble." No, I didn't mean to cause trouble; it is already here, in full boom — I just wanted to bring it out in the open view.

As I explained to Councilman Roe, the objection to the two per cent city tax was a big error by merchants and citizens based on a feeling of "added burden." But I feel they were looking in the wrong direction. Let me give you an example. Say that an item is taxed 15 cents. It probably is based like this: federal, 12 cents; state, 2 cents; city, 01 cent; total, 15 cents. And therein lies the "cancer" of the whole structure. Can't you see my point?

Let us figure the same basis on income taxes. Look at the money you are now paying at the year end: the federal tax, the state tax, but no city income tax. This is obvious or it should be to you!

Now for a solution. I am not after a "revolt" (as I have been accused). I am asking that we get a revision or, to paraphrase the government, a "Re-Deal." Let's cut the cards and this time play the cards face up for all to see.

Like Phil Harris' song, let's not play according to "Hoyle"—let's play this game according to "US." The 2 per cent tax would not affect our local business as the retail merchants suggested. They need to start a petition, placed in their stores, for people to understand the "big" tax bite. Let people know how much federal and state tax is hidden in THEIR products. The gasoline industry tried to help at one time. Remember how the gas pumps had a sign placed on them showing the division of cost, federal tax, state tax, etc.?

Why should you merchants work so d. . .hard to RESTRAIN the growth of OUR city while all the time you continue to allow the growth of federal tax spending for foreign aid to countries that never could possibly be your customers — or are you figuring to give additional taxes to them for free transportation from their country to Colorado Springs for a one-time "shopping spree"?

It looks like this was your object in protesting a tax that would help OUR city, OUR unemployed. It could mean a lot of difference for people wanting to come to Colorado Springs.

This letter will probably prevent me from getting a job downtown even though I need one. It will make some old friends very mad at me. It could even get me a "free pass" into Brady's, but I am for the growth of Colorado, not the Viet Nam, the Congo, and the Philippines, etc.

Let's take a lesson from the old Mormon Church. Tax US, but let US use the taxes for US!

FRED A. LANDER
1514 N. Wshsatch

P.S. Mr. Editor, please use this as you wish, for me, or against, but help me show that the problem is in the taxes LEAVING our city, not the ones that COULD be spent HERE!

Editor's note: Please see our editorial, "Loot Is Loot, Regardless of Flow."

'SALVATION'

To the Editor:

Mass-produced salvation! Spread redemption via the ballot box. Step right up, ladies and gentlemen, and buy security for eternity. Cast your vote for more government agencies and employees, larger welfare and subsidy checks, increased Social Security benefits and — the frosting on the cake — for another increase in taxes you may buy your ticket to heaven at the portals of the pearly gate in Washington.

Fantastic? But there are persons who believe it can be done — although one odd thing usually sticks out like a sore thumb. An example may be found in an Open Parliament letter Jan. 1, from George M. Ernst, who has selected reservations. Mr. Ernst believes that a Sunday closing law would force obedience to one of the Ten Commandments, saying, in part, "—the convictions of most Christians are not strong enough today to refrain from patronizing them" (business places).

Why, if it is morally right for government to force obedience to one commandment, should other commandments be ignored? If Mr. A's convictions need government aid, what about Mr. B, who takes the name of the Lord in vain every time he opens his mouth? Or the person who bears "false witness," or covets his neighbor's wife, or house, or "anything" that is his neighbor's? Surely we can't discriminate against these and deny them equal protection under the law against the wiles of the devil.

Why should persons working in certain occupations be exempt from the law Mr. Ernst proposes: "drugs, prepared meals served within an establishment, and gasoline and oil on Sundays"? They have families and friends, too. Gas tanks could be filled on Saturdays for short emergency trips and government dispensaries set up for emergency drugs, or gas for rare emergencies calling anyone out of town. Cold food one day a week wouldn't hurt anyone and could be provided for before Sundays. This would allow more persons a day of rest, and mean less slaughter on the highways.

Informers in every home — that is what we would need. How about a "youth corps"? When Junior or Sis heard Mom or Pop let fly with the cuss words, they could notify the proper government agency. Mind readers could circulate freely, it being unlawful to deny them entrance to any home or establishment, to check on the thoughts and desires of persons who might be covetous of a neighbor's possessions or have borne "false witness."

If a job is worth doing, isn't it worth doing well? Law enforcement on this scale would cost huge sums of money — but huge sums are contributed to churches, and who would need churches with government in charge of salvation?

Clergymen from many leading denominations appear to lack strong convictions. That was demonstrated during debate on the Civil Rights legislation of 1964 by extensive lobbying on their part. Strong convictions and courage would have impelled them to open the doors of their churches to all God's children without a man-made law.

Instead, they said, in effect: "Great White Father in Washington, hear our plea. We have failed. Make people be good; make them be Good Samaritans and fill them with brotherly love; use force if necessary; call out the troops if you have to; imprison them if they resist; but make them DO UNTO OTHERS AS YOU WOULD HAVE THEM DO." We can handle our material needs if you can handle salvation.

UNDER BONDAGE

To the Editor:

Mr. Sam Campbell stated the facts in saying the people gave the socialists the mandate to own and rule them. They put themselves under bondage and slavery in the face of the infallible compass pointing the way to freedom. They said, "We will not walk that way." Perhaps Mr. Campbell and Mr. Grove believe this.

If there were more people in the leading class who put their trust in the infinite wisdom of God instead of leaning on their own finite understanding, this country would not be on the brink of chaos. The unbelieving people of this nation have sold their birthright of freedom and substituted communism which means ruin. As Mr. Campbell pointed out and probably had in mind that if the American people in the market place of ideas were possessers of the product of salvation, and were as zealous for the cause of freedom as the socialists are for communism, their ideas would sell.

I am not capable of selling my ideas to the public, but I can recommend the one who is capable of lifting everyone to a higher standard. He said, "If he is lifted up, he would draw every class of people." Jesus said, "Without Him we can do nothing." We are as sounding brass and a tinkling symbol. A leader without salvation is like a ship without a rudder, the blind leading the blind and they all sink. Jesus said that those whom the Lord makes free are free from self-aggrandizement, free from wanting to take unjust advantage of their fellowman, free from wanting to rule and dictate to them. When the leaders apply to God for freedom as our fore-parents did, they are free from these characteristics and can woo people to their line of thinking. When Jesus said, if he be lifted up, he would draw all people, he did not say this for his benefit but for our sake. If enough people would glorify him, the prince of this world called communism and all other isms would be cast out. Too many people love the praise of man more than the praise of God. They have set their time and affections on the trivial perishable things and have become almost immune and incapable of thinking about anything worthwhile. There is not enough intellectual people to arouse them from their stupor. We learn from Jesus' statement in Luke 16:8 that the shallow - thinking, non-Christian socialists of this present time are more wise and zealous in putting into operation and effect Satan's cause than the lukewarm, unzealous Christians are in God's cause. They have become greedy, self-centered, uncharitable, and unthoughtful so the socialists are taking over and to stop them we will have to bestir ourselves as the people did when the boat was sinking, and ask God to save us before we perish. We are told in the 16th chapter of Luke what the destiny of the filthy luchre seekers and mammon servers will be. May God raise up some more people of the caliber of General Douglas MacArthur, of high standards and uncompromising Christian principles who can lift up the king of kings and draw people to Him.

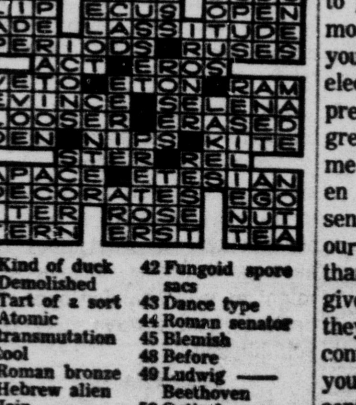
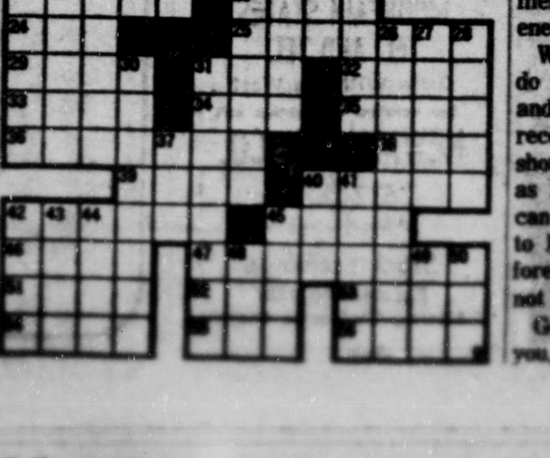
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Foreign Aid

BY GEORGE BOARDMAN

It has been my policy to avoid such subjects as foreign policy and foreign aid, as well as other aspects of political action abroad in this column. Tonight, two statements caught my ear as I listened to news and commentaries on radio. The first mentioned that foreign aid now goes to about 80 countries, and I hope you'll want to think about it.

Eighty foreign governments receive support provided by American wage earners, investors and others who provide creative energy. It is not enough that Americans labor to support their own government, the parasites of bureaucracy and all who refuse to earn. Americans are forced to labor on behalf of EIGHTY FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS and if you do not realize this is involuntary servitude carried to an extreme degree, you may wish to study the meaning of words, for a starter.

Imagine how people would have laughed had I, at the age of 21, tried to tell Americans they would be compelled to support most of the governments on the face of the globe, in one way or another, long before I reached the age of 62. Forget your listening and reading habits for just a few minutes and consider the fact that freeborn human beings are compelled to labor on behalf of kings and queens and dictators, communists, socialists, fascists and other evidences of political rulership who rule other human beings all over the world, aided by your money!

The commentator mentioned, "Long-suffering Uncle Sam" in this connection, and that gets us back to the business of images again. The money isn't yours. Nothing has been taken from you and your children, grandchildren and grandchildren's children. Only an imaginary Uncle Sam has been suffering so long!

Okay, patient and impatient readers and a few friends. Take an objective view of the whole thing. Be impersonal, be logical, be factual and realistic and I believe you will admit that if even 30 years ago, you were told you would be forced to labor to support foreign governments year after year after tiresome year or even for one year, you would have challenged the intelligence of the person who made such a ridiculous statement. "You're out of your mind," you might have said. "Who do you think can force me to work for the queen of England, or for Egypt or India?" You might have added, "IT CAN NEVER HAPPEN HERE."

Just imagine this. There are people in this country who insist that capitalism will not work while capitalism is providing support for 80 foreign governments as well as a fantastic array of socialist and fascist domestic agencies and millions of human beings who draw wages while producing absolutely nothing but more of the same thing. Unfortunately, there are also untold millions who believe there is justification for thievery.

Rulers of foreign governments demand foreign aid and get it. Long-suffering Uncle Sam, hogwash! Which foreign ruler of what foreign government wrote to you and thanked you for the money which was taken from you by force by the people you elected to rule over you? Which president or senator or congressman said, "Don't thank me for the money we have taken from the people we represent, the people who sanction our right to their earnings; just thank the American people and give them a little discount when they buy from your government-controlled stores and ride on your government-owned and controlled steamships, airlines and railways"? Of course nobody in your government or any other is going to thank you. Just be glad your government does not take all of your property, all of your earnings and investments in money and creative energy.

Well, now you know why I do not write about foreign aid and which government should receive how much and which should receive nothing. As far as I am concerned, no American should have been compelled to labor on behalf of rulers of foreign governments. It could not happen here!

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Loot Is Loot Regardless of Flow

Fred Lander is back with us again on the subject of a local sales tax.

He makes a plea to ye editor to help him show that the problem we have here relates to tax money taken out of the city but that does not relate to tax money spent in the city. But Mr. Lander is in error and we cannot assist him.

Tax money, wherever it is taken to be spent, is money that is taken from the rightful owners without their consent.

If it is claimed that a majority, or even a plurality, or even the council in a majority, actually votes approval, and therefore the money is taken with consent and not against the wills of the owners, we will protest.

If Mr. Lander wishes to pay a sales tax to be used in the city, we will recommend that he keep track of what he spends, add the city sales tax, and then trot down to city hall and turn in the percentage he believes he should pay. We have no objection to his doing this. We have no objection if the other people who feel as he does, do the same thing.

Let those who wish a two per cent, or a one per cent or any other per cent in a sales tax, tax themselves the amount they approve. In the event a law were passed along this line, someone would have to keep track of it anyway, so let those who wish to be so taxed, tax themselves and voluntarily turn over the money with instructions as to how it is to be spent.

But the moment those who object to the tax are forced to pay it, then the involuntary nature of the tax is revealed. And this is the characteristic of all taxes. Taxes are collected from ALL; those who have approved and, likewise, those who disapprove.

Mr. Lander objects to taxes being taken out of the community. But this is wholly a secondary objection and not a primary one. In actual fact, what he is saying is that he does not really object to plunder and legal spoliation, so long as the loot remains locally and is locally expended. In short, he wishes to deal with the looter and hopes to keep the loot handy for that purpose.

Now, if it is wrong to take money from a person in this community and spend the money in Viet Nam, it is just as wrong to take money from a person in this community and spend it in Denver. The geographical flow of loot does not determine the morality of the matter. Indeed, it is just as wrong to take money from a man on one side of the street and expend it on a man on the other side of the street. The distance the money travels after it is wrested from the rightful owner has no bearing whatever on the morality of the issue.

Indeed, this is the whole problem. Most of those we have met who object to some of the governmental policies we have at the moment, base their objections, not on the morality of the issue, but on the fact that they don't seem to be getting a large enough cut. They don't object to taxation; they object to the shortage of the handouts to them.

If Mr. Lander will agree that taxation for spending in Asia is wrong; he must, if he adheres to logic and principle, agree that to tax A and spend it on B is just as wrong and for identical reasons. But his formula, if it can be said to be a formula, is to cut back on foreign spending of tax money and to encourage local spending of tax money. And this is only to say that Mr. Lander doesn't think he is getting his share of the loot and he wants more of it spent locally. In other words, he is in favor of looting, provided he gets his cut.

This is the very point that Marx, Lenin and other socialists emphasized. They pointed out that nearly everyone, and certainly most "workers" or the "proletariat," will always be willing to get an advantage through the government. Thus, the workers will favor any kind of policy which may appear to impair the "rich" if only the worker gets a "benefit" out of the procedure.

All of us have witnessed this tendency. Many men, claiming to favor freedom and free enterprise, have called for a curtailment of government intrusion in business and a lessening of government expenditures. But whenever the men in government suggest that local tax spending be curtailed, there is a great cry of objection raised in Washington. When the "other fellow" gets a socialist handout, Mr. Lander and others object. But when they don't get the kind of handout they want, then they favor new taxes so they can get in on the gravy.

Personal Progress

Self-satisfaction is the father of complacency and the mother of pride. No one ever begins improving himself until he wakes up to realize that he's not quite as good as he thought he was.

Not What It Seems

It's not just the number of dollars in the pay envelope, but what the dollars will buy that is important to the worker. However, sometimes it seems a little difficult to see that additional dollars on payday don't buy as much as they did just a few years back.

For that reason, a study by the Manufacturers Association of Colorado reported in a recent issue of Industrial News Review, is especially important.

The organization reported that in 1947 the average production worker's take home pay (after taxes and social security) was $2,474. Fifteen years later, in 1962, the average was $4,446, which seems a sizable increase, until the inflationary factors are realized.

The 1962 dollar, because of inflation, was worth 35 per cent less than the 1947 dollar. That means that in terms of purchasing power, the worker's 1962 income was $1,556 less than it seemed. In purchasing power it was only $416 larger than his 1947 income. His gain was far less than it appeared.

But the real victim was not the salaried person or the wage earner, who received more money in terms of 1947 dollars. The real victim is the person on a fixed pension or other fixed income from insurance or savings. That individual in 1962 was receiving the same number of dollars, which had been depreciated by that 35 per cent. He was being taxed, in the most cruel way there is, to finance the inflation.

To The Point

The Salvation Army And The Beatles

By RUSSELL KIRK

People are always saying that something is wrong with the rising generation; and so it is. But also something is wrong with the declining generation.

During the Christmas season, the Salvation Army came to sing to us. These were the Salvation Army people of the town of Leven, in Scotland, for this column is written from a Scottish country house. A few years ago, the Salvation Army used to march up from the town, playing instruments with great fervor, some 25 strong. This year, however, there were only seven of them, and they had no band. But some of them sang very well, and we adults at Durie House ate cake and drank milk with them, and sang hymns.

But the teen-agers of Durie House did not join in the singing. For they were watching the Beatles on television, and could not be bothered with mere live people. To watch the Beatles has become a quasi-religious rite with the rising generation, ordained by all the silly apparatus of modern mass publicity. Who wants hymns and good works?

I do not suggest, nevertheless, that the younger generation is peculiarly afflicted with a failure of taste and intellect. For demon "tellie," as the British call it, equally enraptures their seniors. A few days ago, I sat in the parlor of an old-fashioned hotel, where most of the patrons are people of advanced years and superior education. When I visited this hotel a decade ago, the guests spent the evening reading the better magazines and newspapers, and in cheerful, intelligent conversation. What were they doing this holiday season? Why, to a man, they were watching television—and drinking in, much of the time, British imitations of the quiz-shows that are even more inane than their American originals.

I venture to ask you, gentle reader, what happens to a society in which even the more promising or experienced people succumb to the mentality of the "viewer"? Who is left to do the physical and mental labor—and, more important, to exercise the imagination? This affliction seems to operate at every level of society, and in every vocation. Why, for instance, does the Salvation Army of Leven have left only seven active members — though that organization still has important work to do? Can it be, in part, that the rest of the band have fallen away to watch television?

Mass-produced triviality is a sorry substitute for hymns at Christmas. And centralized amusement, by television screen, is an unpleasant replacement of personal, local, live activity. Would I agree that the possibility of hearing and watching a professional chorus sing carols over TV sufficiently compensates for the old local amateur efforts? No, friend, I would not so agree, any more than I would agree that watching a professional ball game is healthier than playing on the sand-lot yourself. Real people, especially such folk as compose the Salvation Army, always are better than television ghosts.

The Local Scene

Non-heroes in Heroic Size

BY RUFUS L. PORTER

To celebrate our wedding anniversary New Year's Eve, my wife and I went out to dinner and then to a picture show or, as the British say, to the cinema.

This was the first time I had visited a movie emporium in quite a spell. I knew there was some reason why I had quit going to them, but I had forgotten what it was. But the minute I walked into one, I remembered. It is the wide, wide, wide screen, with the actors and actresses pictured ten times bigger than life.

I do not know the dimensions of the screen we were viewing, but it was tremendous. In a close up, the actor's head filled the whole thing. Imagine a head 15 feet high and a nose seemingly as long as a ski slope, and when he opened his mouth you could have dropped the grand canyon into it — and teeth bigger than tombstones. And the scenery was in proportion.

Another fault of the big screens is that when the actors walk about in the foreground, they appear to move so quickly that everything and everybody in the background becomes a blur. I am not opposed to progress — but I believe it can be too much.

I loved the old silent flickers. When sound was introduced, I recognized it as a vast improvement and the color, when it came, added beauty and life to the unique form of entertainment known as "the movies." But I do not believe it is necessary to make the actors so big that the spectator can keep his mind on nothing but their size. I do not even like the close ups on TV where the head, or sometimes only the mouth, fills the whole screen.

Before movies came along I saw many road shows and much vaudeville — and some opera — all in life size. And the first color "talkies" that came out were things of beauty. But these huge screens certainly do not make them a joy forever. I will probably never attend another picture show, unless there is a theatre somewhere with a modest sized screen. The drive ins are even worse than the regular movie houses.

Maybe I am old fashioned, but in my estimation, there haven't been a dozen men in the history of America who deserve to be pictured as 20 feet tall — and four of them are on Mount Rushmore. I like my actors actor size. And the same goes for actresses and scenery. When I want an unreal world, I'll blast off to another planet. Pictures can't make up in size what the plot lacks in drama, or the actors lack in artistic ability.

What has happened to the movies? They are overgrown. One man's opinion, and not necessarily that of his wife. The show was a little better than ordinary and not nearly as sexy as most are nowadays, judging from their ads. I would probably have enjoyed it if I hadn't been awestruck by the size of the hero's teeth, hands, feet, etc. — and the same for the heroine and the rest of the cast. Perhaps I have grown hypercritical in my dotage. The only thing I enjoy on TV is "Fractured Flickers," that is why I do my writing at night.

I have nothing against the theatres, nor the movie industry, and I realize that many people enjoy the wide screens. But I'll bet there are quite a few who feel as I do. I do not believe you can improve the looks of a human being by magnifying him to ten times life size. In fact, it might work the other way around.

The government's left hand never seems to know what its right hand is doing. For instance, Congress recently authorized the setting aside of nine million more acres of "wilderness areas," for the enjoyment of posterity. Much of this land will have to be purchased from the owners, and it will all add a tremendous burden on the taxpayers.

At the same time, with the other hand, the government is damming up and burying under water some of the grandest and wildest scenery on the face of the earth. The Glen Canyon Dam is one, the Black Canyon Dam, now under construction, is another. Both are in Colorado The Dinosaur National Monument is next on the list, and the Grand Canon of the Colorado itself is being seriously considered by the Bureau of "Reclamation" as a site for several huge, high and impressive dams.

By the time "posterity" arrives on the scene — it is always far off according to the politicians — these dams will contain nothing but seas of silt. They will be bottomless mud marshes. The most magnificent scenery on the continent will be buried for all time. But we will still have our "wilderness areas," or will we? Not if the politicos decide to use them for something else, and they will, in time.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What substance makes an "eye"?

A—A tropical cyclone (hurricane). The "eye" is the area in the center of the storm. It varies in diameter from about 7 to 20 miles. Whereas the rest of the storm is violent, the eye has little or no wind and sometimes is clear enough so that sunshine or stars can be seen.

Q—How does a starfish turn over?

A—A starfish rights itself by bending its stiff arms and pulling with its tube feet.

Q—What American tree has the longest thorns?

A—Honey locust.

Q—What is meant by the term geophagy?

A—Geophagy is the practice of eating earthy substances, especially clays.

To the Editor:

My first plan (November 28) was a "trap." I wanted to start a chain reaction of people thinking for themselves — we have been accepting the tax-rate structure for too long, accepting it blindly. But finally, with protest — weakly — I stuck my neck out. I got it chopped at, not off, but one person even asked if I was trying to cause "trouble." No, I didn't mean to cause trouble; it is already here, in full boom — I just wanted to bring it out in the open view.

As I explained to Councilman Roe, the objection to the two per cent city tax was a big error by merchants and citizens based on a feeling of "added burden." But I feel they were looking in the wrong direction. Let me give you an example. Say that an item is taxed 15 cents. It probably is based like this: federal, 12 cents; state, 2 cents; city, 01 cent; total, 15 cents. And therein lies the "cancer" of the whole structure. Can't you see my point?

Let us figure the same basis on income taxes. Look at the money you are now paying at the year end: the federal tax, the state tax, but no city income tax. This is obvious or it should be to you!

Now for a solution. I am not after a "revolt" (as I have been accused). I am asking that we get a revision or, to paraphrase the government, a "Re-Deal." Let's cut the cards and this time play the cards face up for all to see.

Like Phil Harris' song, let's not play according to "Hoyle"—let's play this game according to "US." The 2 per cent tax would not affect our local business as the retail merchants suggested. They need to start a petition, placed in their stores, for people to understand the "big" tax bite. Let people know how much federal and state tax is hidden in THEIR products. The gasoline industry tried to help at one time. Remember how the gas pumps had a sign placed on them showing the division of cost, federal tax, state tax, etc.?

Why should you merchants work so d. . .hard to RESTRAIN the growth of OUR city while all the time you continue to allow the growth of federal tax spending for foreign aid to countries that never could possibly be your customers — or are you figuring to give additional taxes to them for free transportation from their country to Colorado Springs for a one-time "shopping spree"?

It looks like this was your object in protesting a tax that would help OUR city, OUR unemployed. It could mean a lot of difference for people wanting to come to Colorado Springs.

This letter will probably prevent me from getting a job downtown even though I need one. It will make some old friends very mad at me. It could even get me a "free pass" into Brady's, but I am for the growth of Colorado, not the Viet Nam, the Congo, and the Philippines, etc.

Let's take a lesson from the old Mormon Church. Tax US, but let US use the taxes for US!

FRED A. LANDER
1514 N. Wshsatch

P.S. Mr. Editor, please use this as you wish, for me, or against, but help me show that the problem is in the taxes LEAVING our city, not the ones that COULD be spent HERE!

'SALVATION'

To the Editor:

Mass-produced salvation! Spread redemption via the ballot box. Step right up, ladies and gentlemen, and buy security for eternity. Cast your vote for more government agencies and employees, larger welfare and subsidy checks, increased Social Security benefits and — the frosting on the cake — for another increase in taxes you may buy your ticket to heaven at the portals of the pearly gate in Washington.

Fantastic? But there are persons who believe it can be done — although one odd thing usually sticks out like a sore thumb. An example may be found in an Open Parliament letter Jan. 1, from George M. Ernst, who has selected reservations. Mr. Ernst believes that a Sunday closing law would force obedience to one of the Ten Commandments, saying, in part, "—the convictions of most Christians are not strong enough today to refrain from patronizing them" (business places).

Why, if it is morally right for government to force obedience to one commandment, should other commandments be ignored? If Mr. A's convictions need government aid, what about Mr. B, who takes the name of the Lord in vain every time he opens his mouth? Or the person who bears "false witness," or covets his neighbor's wife, or house, or "any thing" that is his neighbor's? Surely we can't discriminate against these and deny them equal protection under the law against the wiles of the devil.

Why should persons working in certain occupations be exempt from the law Mr. Ernst proposes: "drugs, prepared meals served within an establishment, and gasoline and oil on Sundays"? They have families and friends, too. Gas tanks could be filled on Saturdays for short emergency trips and government dispensaries set up for emergency drugs, or gas for rare emergencies calling anyone out of town. Cold food one day a week wouldn't hurt anyone and could be provided for before Sundays. This would allow more persons a day of rest, and mean less slaughter on the highways.

Informers in every home — that is what we would need. How about a "youth corps"? When Junior or Sis heard Mom or Pop let fly with the cuss words, they could notify the proper government agency. Mind readers could circulate freely, it being unlawful to deny them entrance to any home or establishment, to check on the thoughts and desires of persons who might be covetous of a neighbor's possessions or have borne "false witness."

If a job is worth doing, isn't it worth doing well? Law enforcement on this scale would cost huge sums of money — but huge sums are contributed to churches, and who would need churches with government in charge of salvation?

Clergymen from many leading denominations appear to lack strong convictions. That was demonstrated during debate on the Civil Rights legislation of 1964 by extensive lobbying on their part. Strong convictions and courage would have impelled them to open the doors of their churches to all God's children without a man-made law.

Instead, they said, in effect: "Great White Father in Washington, hear our plea. We have failed. Make people be good; make them be Good Samaritans and fill them with brotherly love; use force if necessary; call out the troops if you have to; imprison them if they resist; but make them DO UNTO OTHERS AS YOU WOULD HAVE THEM DO." We can handle our material needs if you can handle salvation.

UNDER BONDAGE

To the Editor:

Mr. Sam Campbell stated the facts in saying the people gave the socialists the mandate to own and rule them. They put themselves under bondage and slavery in the face of the infallible compass pointing the way to freedom. They said, "We will not walk that way." Perhaps Mr. Campbell and Mr. Grove believe this.

If there were more people in the leading class who put their trust in the infinite wisdom of God instead of leaning on their own finite understanding, this country would not be on the brink of chaos. The unbelieving people of this nation have sold their birthright of freedom and substituted communism which means ruin. As Mr. Campbell pointed out and probably had in mind that if the American people in the market place of ideas were possessers of the product of salvation, and were as zealous for the cause of freedom as the socialists are for communism, their ideas would sell.

I am not capable of selling my ideas to the public, but I can recommend the one who is capable of lifting everyone to a higher standard. He said, "If he is lifted up, he would draw every class of people." Jesus said, "Without Him we can do nothing." We are as sounding brass and a tinkling symbol. A leader without salvation is like a ship without a rudder, the blind leading the blind and they all sink. Jesus said that those whom the Lord makes free are free from self-aggrandizement, free from wanting to take unjust advantage of their fellowman, free from wanting to rule and dictate to them. When the leaders apply to God for freedom as our fore-parents did, they are free from these characteristics and can woo people to their line of thinking. When Jesus said, if he be lifted up, he would draw all people, he did not say this for his benefit but for our sake. If enough people would glorify him, the prince of this world called communism and all other isms would be cast out. Too many people love the praise of man more than the praise of God. They have set their time and affections on the trivial perishable things and have become almost immune and incapable of thinking about anything worthwhile. There is not enough intellectual people to arouse them from their stupor. We learn from Jesus' statement in Luke 16:8 that the shallow - thinking, non-Christian socialists of this present time are more wise and zealous in putting into operation and effect Satan's cause than the lukewarm, unzealous Christians are in God's cause. They have become greedy, self-centered, uncharitable, and unthoughtful so the socialists are taking over and to stop them we will have to bestir ourselves as the people did when the boat was sinking, and ask God to save us before we perish. We are told in the 16th chapter of Luke what the destiny of the filthy luchre seekers and mammon servers will be. May God raise up some more people of the caliber of General Douglas MacArthur, of high standards and uncompromising Christian principles who can lift up the king of kings and draw people to Him.

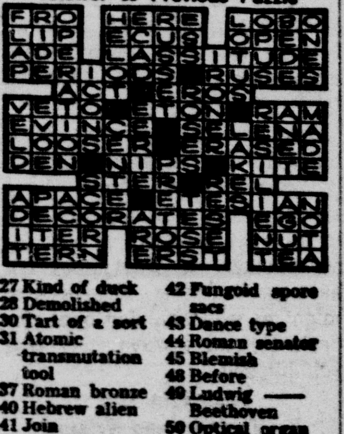
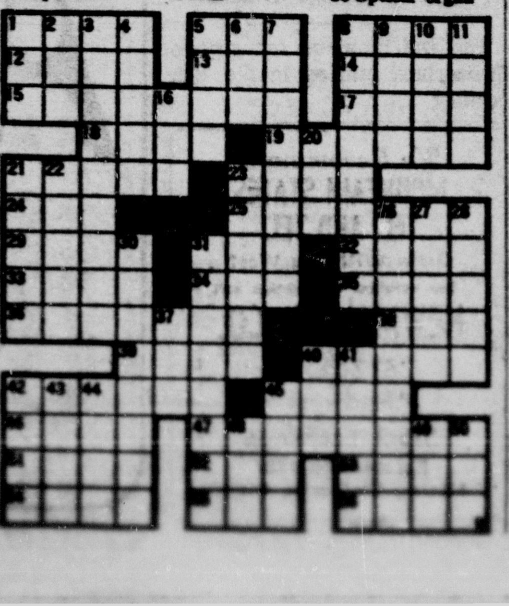
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Foreign Aid

BY GEORGE BOARDMAN

It has been my policy to avoid such subjects as foreign policy and foreign aid, as well as other aspects of political action abroad in this column. Tonight, two statements caught my ear as I listened to news and commentaries on radio. The first mentioned that foreign aid now goes to about 80 countries, and I hope you'll want to think about it.

Eighty foreign governments receive support provided by American wage earners, investors and others who provide creative energy. It is not enough that Americans labor to support their own government, the parasites of bureaucracy and all who refuse to earn. Americans are forced to labor on behalf of EIGHTY FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS and if you do not realize this is involuntary servitude carried to an extreme degree, you may wish to study the meaning of words, for a starter.

Imagine how people would have laughed had I, at the age of 21, tried to tell Americans they would be compelled to support most of the governments on the face of the globe, in one way or another, long before I reached the age of 62. Forget your listening and reading habits for just a few minutes and consider the fact that free-born human beings are compelled to labor on behalf of kings and queens and dictators, communists, socialists, fascists and other evidences of political rulership who rule other human beings all over the world, aided by your money!

The commentator mentioned, "Long-suffering Uncle Sam" in this connection, and that gets us back to the business of images again. The money isn't yours. Nothing has been taken from you and your children, grandchildren and grandchildren's children. Only an imaginary Uncle Sam has been suffering so long!

Okay, patient and impatient readers and a few friends. Take an objective view of the whole thing. Be impersonal, be logical, be factual and realistic and I believe you will admit that if even 30 years ago, you were told you would be forced to labor to support foreign governments year after year after tiresome year or even for one year, you would have challenged the intelligence of the person who made such a ridiculous statement. "You're out of your mind," you might have said. "Who do you think can force me to work for the queen of England, or for Egypt or India?" You might have added, "IT CAN NEVER HAPPEN HERE."

Just imagine this. There are people in this country who insist that capitalism will not work while capitalism is providing support for 80 foreign governments as well as a fantastic array of socialist and fascist domestic agencies and millions of human beings who draw wages while producing absolutely nothing but more of the same thing. Unfortunately, there are also untold millions who believe there is justification for thievery.

Rulers of foreign governments demand foreign aid and get it. Long-suffering Uncle Sam, hogwash! Which foreign ruler of what foreign government wrote to you and thanked you for the money which was taken from you by force by the people you elected to rule over you? Which president or senator or congressman said, "Don't thank me for the money we have taken from the people we represent, the people who sanction our right to their earnings; just thank the American people and give them a little discount when they buy from your government-controlled stores and ride on your government-owned and controlled steamships, airlines and railways"? Of course nobody in your government or any other is going to thank you. Just be glad your government does not take all of your property, all of your earnings and investments in money and creative energy.

Well, now you know why I do not write about foreign aid and which government should receive how much and which should receive nothing. As far as I am concerned, no American should have been compelled to labor on behalf of rulers of foreign governments. It could not happen here!

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

MY ANSWER

QUESTION: Could a God of perfect love really take any satisfaction in the eternal torment of sinners? —M. S.

ANSWER: Far from taking any satisfaction in our eternal torment, God has done everytthing to prevent it. He sent His Son to die in our place. He sent the Holy Spirit to warn and reprove us. He instituted the church, and has sent forth His ministers to proclaim salvation from destruction. How can you think that God takes any pleasure in retribution?

Just as a benevolent head of state takes no pleasure in the imprisonment or punishment of a public enemey—god takes no pleasure in the destiny and torment of the lost.

Just as prisons, and the threat of punishment is a deterrent to crime, so is the threat of judgment of the willfully wicked a deterrent to wickedness.

But the good news of the Gospel is that no one, not even the guilty, need suffer. This is where God differs from man. The law does not forgive the guilty: it condemns him. But God's love not only embraces the innocent, but the guilty as well. "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." There is nothing in the history of jurisprudence to compare with that, and there is nothing in the Bible to indicate that God takes any pleasure in the plight of those who reject His mercy.

QUESTION: I have never been more unhappy in my life since I started going to church. Furthermore, my life hasn't changed. I still have the same desires ; I still smoke, drink a little, steal, swear, and make out. How can God change someone else if He can't change me, and make me happy? — G. V.

ANSWER: You are an honest, frustrated, unconverted church member, and there are many of them. There are thousands within the church and in religious groups, who have never experienced conversion. The only diffrence is: you admit it, and this is to your credit.

But just because you have never paid the price of real discipleship, you must not assume that others have been so weak. I know a great host to have passed from death unto life, and to whome Christ is more rial than their own flesh and blood. The world, in the first century, was not changed by people who had a form of godlinesss, but on the "inside" were unchanged. It was turned upside down by people like Paul, who said, "I know whom I have believed." There are people today just as sure about their relationship to Christ, as was Paul. They once did the things you mention, but Christ came into their lives, gave them a new direction, a new purpose, and a new heart. And the good news is: if you receive Christ, you life can be changed too. But you must mean business, and stop walking on both sides of the street.

Explanation Is Given For Van Allen Belt

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON

MOFFETT FELD, Calif. (AP) — Van Allen Belt radiation, a threat to astronauts, originates far in space on the dark side of the earth, suggests an Ames Research Center scientist.

Source of the high energy particles has mystified space physicists since discovery of the upper atmosphere radiation belt in 1958.

Dr. John H. Wolfe, researcher at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames facility at Moffett Field, placed instruments aboard recently launched satellites to study the magnetically trapped particles.

The satellites are the OGO and MP-B orbited in September and October 1964.

Wolfe said Thursday that data from spectrometers and other detectors — taking measurements out to 12 earth diameters or about 95,000 miles -- suggest the following picture:

The solar wind — hydrogen and helium nuclei streaming from the sun — hits the earth's magnetic field at about five earth diameters in space. These are low energy particles.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

KILL!
KILL!
U-478

* * *

Rev. Stanley may have just cause for his alarm at the apparent moral inertia of this nation. Are London and New York City the Sodom and Gomorrah of this 20th Century? Discuss this case in Sunday School and quit blaming teenagers so violently when their parents are pagan!

CASE U-478: Stanley H., aged 36, is a dedicated clergyman.

"But, Dr. Crane," he began, "sometimes I grow discouraged at the slowness with which mankind improves in morality.

"For example, in New York a workman recently crawled out on a ledge 10 floors above the street and threatened to jump in a suicidal attempt.

"As he teetered there, the newspapers reported that 500 people down below taunted this mentally disturbed man.

"They started chanting 'Jump, jump, jump' with callous disdain for the threat to his life.

"One of the crowd even yelled 'Hurry up, I got to catch my train in 5 minutes.'

"Dr. Crane, how does this modern crowd of supposedly civilized Americans differ from the mobs in Rome who gleefully watched the early Christian martyrs hurled to the lions"

About 1,800 B.C. there were also cities which were so wicked that God is reported to have rained fire and brimstone upon them to annihilate the entire population.

Sodom and Gomorrah were there names.

Could they have been much more pagan and sinful than London and New York, where the Profumo case stank to high heaven.

Or where the Hebrews of New York have been forced to organize their own vigilante groups, called the modern Maccabees, to patrol the streets all night to protect men, as well as women, from assault, rape and murder

One evening a New York woman was parking her car at the apartment building when a strange man approached her.

Before she could get to safety, he had stabbed her with a knife.

She screamed for help and it is reported that 50 people came to their apartment windows to watch.

One man even raised the window and yelled for the attacker to "Leave that woman alone!"

And this temporarily caused the attacker to walk away, leaving the bleeding victim on the ground.

But when he saw that no further outcry was raised, he returned and stabbed the woman a second time.

Then he left and she dragged herself to the rear of the building.

But he came back for the third time and now stabbed her to death.

Yet nobody even called the police for 35 minutes. But after they had been notified, they arrived within TWO minutes!

The hospital medics reported that she could have been saved if the police had been called at the start.

The man who finally notified the police had refrained from using his own phone lest he might become "implicated."

So he rushed across the hall to a neighbor's apartment to ask them to telephone the police.

They demured, so he went back to his own apartment. Then his conscience must have still botheed him, so half an hour later he phoned some friends across town and asked their advice.

They urged him to contact the police at once, which he did — 35 minutes after the first assault, witnessed by 50 onlookes.

Is this pagan disregard for human life just typical of New York City Or is it a symptom of a moraly inert America.

Discuss these cases in Sunday School tomorrow!

Congo Rebel Leadership Is Reported Split

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — The Congolese rebel leadership has split and remaining elements of the Communist-backed insurgent army are near mutiny, refugees arriving from neighboring Uganda said today.

The refugees said the rebel movement has been divided into factions led by Thomas Kanza on the one side and by Cristophe Gbenye and Gaston Soumialot on the other.

Rebel soldiers who fled from the northeast Congo province of Kibali-Ituri to Arua, Uganda, were reported to have accused Gbenye of collecting money from the sale of gold instead of using it to pay his troops.

The refugees said some rebel soldiers had not been paid for three months and were close to mutinying against the officers who crossed into Uganda with them.

The rebels fled following the recapture by Congolese government troops of the insurgent capital of Stanleyville and other towns in northeast Congo. Gbenye had set himself up as head of a "people's government" in Stanleyville.

Refugee Albert Mubenga said a spokesman for Kanza, the rebel "foreign minister," had told him the rebel leadership had cut off all funds from Kanza.

Kanza has remained in Nairobi since he went there to negotiate with U. S. representatives for the release of white hostages in Stanleyville. The negotiations failed and scores of hostages were massacred by the rebels.

Skull of Oldest Ape Man Is Found

TOKYO (AP) — The Chinese Communists claimed today they have discovered the skull of what may be the oldest ape man.

Scientists put together parts of the skull of an ape-man that lived 500,000 to 600,000 years ago, Peking's New China News Agency said. It said the skull parts were found last October at Kungwangling, Shensi Province, in northwest central China.

"It is possibly the most ancient specimen of an ape man so far discovered in the world," said Wu Ju-kang, an anthropologist.

Evil Apple Spirits Can Jump for Joy

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — You could almost hear the evil apple, spirits jump for joy when the British consul general's shotgun went click instead of boom.

"It was very embarrassing," said Ronald Wilby Thursday.

Wilby had come to this American apple center to help growers partioipate in the wassail rite celebrated each Twelfth Night. A similar ceremony is held in Carhampton, Somerset, England.

Following a custom established in 1400, Wilby opened the festivities by dipping a piece of toast in hot cider and placing it in a special apple tree to placate the birds.

Then he recited these words:

Here's to the old apple tree.
Whence thou mayest bud
Whence thou mayest bow
Whence thou mayest send me apples enow.
Hatfuls, capfuls, three-score bushelfuls
And my pocketsfull too.

Then, Wilby solemnly aimed a specially painted shotgun into the branches to scare away the evil spirits.

Click went the fowling piece.

"'Is this cocked?' I asked them," Wilby said.

Twice more he tried. Each time there was only a click.

"Finally, I just said 'bang' and we were held to have done a proper job."

The celebrants moved on to more festive parts of the ancient Saxon ceremony, including drinking hard cider from a silver wassail bowl. The bowl will be shipped to Eric Tarr, proprietor of the Butcher's Arms Inn in Carhampton, where the ceremony originated.

The rite was imported to America after Maurice Helland, a Yakima newspaperman, attended the Carhampton version in 1957.

Despite the misfire, Wilby, assigned to Seattle, said he had been assured next year's crop would be a good one.

Explanation Is Given For Van Allen Belt

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON

MOFFETT FELD, Calif. (AP) — Van Allen Belt radiation, a threat to astronauts, originates far in space on the dark side of the earth, suggests an Ames Research Center scientist.

Source of the high energy particles has mystified space physicists since discovery of the upper atmosphere radiation belt in 1958.

Dr. John H. Wolfe, researcher at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames facility at Moffett Field, placed instruments aboard recently launched satellites to study the magnetically trapped particles. The satellites are the OGO and MP-B orbited in September and October 1964.

Wolfe said Thursday that data from spectrometers and other detectors — taking measurements out to 12 earth diameters or about 95,000 miles — suggest the following picture:

The solar wind — hydrogen and helium nuclei streaming from the sun — hits the earth's magnetic field at about five earth diameters in space. These are low energy particles.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D.,Ph.D.

KILL!
KILL!

Rev. Stanley may have just cause for his alarm at the apparent moral inertia of this nation. Are London and New York City the Sodom and Gomorrah of this 20th Century? Discuss this case in Sunday School and quit blaming teenagers so violently when their parents are pagan!

CASE U-478: Stanley H., aged 36, is a dedicated clergyman.

"But, Dr. Crane," he began, "sometimes I grow discouraged at the slowness with which mankind improves in morality.

"For example, in New York a workman recently crawled out on a ledge 10 floors above the street and threatened to jump in a suicidal attempt.

"As he teetered there, the newspapers reported that 500 people down below taunted this mentally disturbed man.

"They started chanting 'Jump, jump, jump' with callous disdain for the threat to his life.

"One of the crowd even yelled 'Hurry up, I got to catch my train in 5 minutes.'

"Dr. Crane, how does this modern crowd of supposedly civilized Americans differ from the mobs in Rome who gleefully watched the early Christian martyrs hurled to the lions"

About 1,800 B.C. there were also cities which were so wicked that God is reported to have rained fire and brimstone upon them to annihilate the entire population.

Sodom and Gomorrah were there names.

Could they have been much more pagan and sinful than London and New York, where the Profumo case stank to high heaven.

Or where the Hebrews of New York have been forced to organize their own vigilante groups, called the modern Maccabees, to patrol the streets all night to protect men, as well as women, from assault, rape and murder

One evening a New York woman was parking her car at the apartment building when a strange man approached her.

Before she could get to safety, he had stabbed her with a knife.

She screamed for help and it is reported that 50 people came to their apartment windows to watch.

One man even raised the window and yelled for the attacker to "Leave that woman alone!"

And this temporarily caused the attacker to walk away, leaving the bleeding victim on the ground.

But when he saw that no further outcry was raised, he returned and stabbed the woman a second time.

Then he left and she dragged herself to the rear of the building.

But he came back for the third time and now stabbed her to death.

Yet nobody even called the police for 35 minutes. But after they had been notified, they arrived within TWO minutes!

The hospital medics reported that she could have been saved if the police had been called at the start.

The man who finally notified the police had refrained from using his own phone lest he might become "implicated."

So he rushed across the hall to a neighbor's apartment to ask them to telephone the police.

They demured, so he went back to his own apartment. Then his conscience must have still botheed him, so half an hour later he phoned some friends across town and asked their advice.

They urged him to contact the police at once, which he did — 35 minutes after the first assault, witnessed by 50 onlookes.

Is this pagan disregard for human life just typical of New York City Or is it a symptom of a moraly inert America.

Discuss these cases in Sunday School tomorrow!

Congo Rebel Leadership Is Reported Split

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — The Congolese rebel leadership has split and remaining elements of the Communist-backed insurgent army are near mutiny, refugees arriving from neighboring Uganda said today.

The refugees said the rebel movement has been divided into factions led by Thomas Kanza on the one side and by Cristophe Gbenye and Gaston Soumialot on the other.

Rebel soldiers who fled from the northeast Congo province of Kibali-Ituri to Arua, Uganda, were reported to have accused Gbenye of collecting money from the sale of gold instead of using it to pay his troops.

Domestic Labor Has Difficulty In California

By ROBERT HEARD

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I just can't take it," said a puffing, heavy-set man after three days picking strawberries.

"My back is killing me," the man told a field representative for the California Farm Placement Service. "I want to, but I can't."

He was one of thousands of unemployed domestic laborers trying to fill in for Mexican nationals who had to go home after the Dec. 31 termination of the so-called bracero program.

The field representative's boss, Jack Ward, head of the Southern California office, said: "I may think I could run a railroad, but I can't. Many of these men thought they could harvest crops, but they can't.

"It's darn hard work. Some can do it. Some can't."

Growers have complained about the caliber of the new workers.

Ward's assistants are doing a better job of screening applicants now than they were able to do at the beginning of a crash recruitment program three weeks ago. In at least one area, however, they are not doing well at all.

Four hundred date pickers are needed now for the 4,000-acre crop in Coachella Valley, near Indio. They have been needed for a week. Total recruited to date: zero.

"Date pickers are a special breed," said Ward. "They have to be able to work 40 or 50 feet above ground on ladders or in bosun's chairs without being so scared they hang on with the hands they have to pick the dates with."

The braceros harvested 75 per cent of the dates before they left. There has been virtually no date harvesting since then.

"The situation is critical," Ward said. "Dates aren't as perishable, say, as peaches, but we're going to be in real trouble if we can't find some people in the next couple of weeks."

Lettuce growers in Imperial Valley loudly canceled an order for 1,800 domestic workers in protest of the "poor caliber" of workers referred to them in the first days of the crash program.

Only 18 per cent of the 30,000-acre lettuce crop in Imperial Valley has been harvested.

Hundreds of workers are needed now for pre-harvest, short-handle hoe work in the 2,500-acre melon crop. For the 30,000-acre Southern California navel orange crop, 4,000 workers will be needed in the next three months.

Another 4,000 will be needed for the 42,000-acre lemon crop.

Ward said his fingers were crossed.

Meanwhile, growers want the Mexicans back.

Neighbors Do Not Want Convicts Near

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The neighbors were up in arms. They signed a petition and went to court. They didn't want ex-convicts living in theid neighborhood.

An organization called Connecticut Halfway House had planned to operate a two family house as a stop-off point for men on their way from prison to, hopefully, a place in society.

The neighbors said it would be unsafe, and would reduce property values.

Judge Harry Lugg of the Court of Common Pleas issued a restraining order Wednesday against Halfway House.

"Certainly no one, possessing the sensibilities of the ordinary being, would take up a residence in its vicinity as long as other places were obtainable," Judge Lugg said.

Paroled convicts would have been required to pay $25 weekly for room and board during their stay of from 30 to 60 days. The organization said no narcotics addicts, alcoholics or sex offenders would have been accepted and that no more than 15 ex-prisoners would have been housed at one time.

The organization said it chose the neighborhood because it was on a bus line, near centers of employment, was not a slum and was integrated.

The attorney for Halfway House, Joseph P. Cousey, said he intends to appeal.

"If we can't establish it in this neighborhood, we can't establish it anywhere," Cousey said.

Penrose News

By MRS. JEAN STEPHENS
Rural Route, Penrose

The Penrose Boots and Saddle Club met Dec. 28 at the Grange Hall for their annual Christmas dinner. The tables were decorated in the Christmas motif. A turkey dinner, with all the trimmings, was served. Members responsible for the decorations were Mrs. Robert Jensen, Mrs. John Nesbitt and Mrs. Gerald Moore. Hostesses for the dinner were, Mrs. W. A. Allison, Mrs. Perry Earley and Mrs. Marvin Ham.

A short business meeting was held. Mr. Hammock was appointed delegate to Southern Colorado Horseman's Association. After the business meeting, a short program was presented with George Zavislan presenting several Christmas selections, accompanied by Mrs. Hazel Sneed at the piano. Zavislan led the group in singing. Paul Hammock played several selections on the accordion. Bill Davis presented Miss Susie Stroud, the past year's Saddle Club queen, with a belt and buckle.

Those attending the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zavislan and guests Mr. and Mrs. George Zavislan, of California; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Short and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Still, of Colorado Springs; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Allison and guests, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Oxford, of Canon City; Mr. and Mrs. Perry Earley and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Earley and children of Rochester, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rodarmel and grandson Glen, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ham, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ellingsworth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Moore. Others present were, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Stroud and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Adkins, Albert Molello and Danny, Frank Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davis, Keith, Kenneth, and Steve Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. John Nesbitt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sneed and family, Mrs. Robert Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ruckman, Bob Owens, Mrs. Delbert Chockley and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Robb, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Hammock and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith and family.

The Penrose Ranchers and Ranchettes will meet Jan. 11, at 7:30, at the Vernon Steffenson, with Frank Conran as host.

The First Baptist Church will hold its regular potluck supper and business meeting Jan. 7, at 6:30 p.m., at the church.

Home Extension Club will meet Jan. 12, at the Grange Hall. Mrs. Perry Earley will be hostess.

Sympathy is extended to the family of D. Molello. Mr. Molello died Sunday.

Miss Fannie Gafford was dismissed from the hospital Sunday. Miss W. Winton is presently substituting for Miss Gafford at Penrose Elementary school.

Miss Debra Trevithick spent three days in Colorado Springs, at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Trevithick.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Howells, of Colorado Springs, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bowser. Howells is a brother of Mrs. Bowser.

New Year's dinner guests of Mrs. Nellie Thompson and Cerise were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Berger, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Carter and Debbie, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Vivivo and Sherry and Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Thompson and Scott of Colorado Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stephens and family spent New Year's holidays in Amarillo, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Head. They also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Head and daughters and Mrs. Rosie Head.

Lester Coffman was taken to the hospital Sunday, following a stroke.

Bronstein New State Director of Budget

DENVER (UPI)— Robert Bronstein is Colorado's new state budget director.

Gov. John Love appointed Bronstein late Tuesday to replace Con F. Shea, who Love named earlier to be state controller. Shea replaced Gray Spurlin, who retired recently for health reasons.

Bronstein now serves as management director in the budget office.

William H. Walker, another employe of the budget office, will take Bronstein's old job. Both men will be paid $1,128 in their new jobs.

The appointments were provisional, pending civil service exams.

Penrose News

By MRS. JEAN STEPHENS
Rural Route, Penrose

The Penrose Boots and Saddle Club met Dec. 28 at the Grange Hall for their annual Christmas dinner. The tables were decorated in the Christmas motif. A turkey dinner, with all the trimmings, was served. Members responsible for the decorations were Mrs. Robert Jensen, Mrs. John Nesbitt and Mrs. Gerald Moore. Hostesses for the dinner were, Mrs. W. A. Allison, Mrs. Perry Earley and Mrs. Marvin Ham.

A short business meeting was held. Mr. Hammock was appointed delegate to Southern Colorado Horseman's Association. After the business meeting, a short program was presented with George Zavislan presenting several Christmas selections, accompanied by Mrs. Hazel Sneed at the piano. Zavislan led the group in singing. Paul Hammock played several selections on the accordion. Bill Davis presented Miss Susie Stroud, the past year's Saddle Club queen, with a belt and buckle.

Those attending the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zavislan and guests Mr. and Mrs. George Zavislan, of California; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Short and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Still, of Colorado Springs; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Allison and guests, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Oxford, of Canon City; Mr. and Mrs. Perry Earley and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Earley and children of Rochester, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rodarmel and grandson Glen, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ham, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ellingsworth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Moore. Others present were, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Stroud and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Adkins, Albert Molello and Danny, Frank Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davis, Keith, Kenneth, and Steve Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. John Nesbitt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sneed and family, Mrs. Robert Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ruckman, Bob Owens, Mrs. Delbert Chockley and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Robb, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Hammock and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith and family.

The Penrose Ranchers and Ranchettes will meet Jan. 11, at 7:30, at the Vernon Steffenson, with Frank Conran as host.

The First Baptist Church will hold its regular potluck supper and business meeting Jan. 7, at 6:30 p.m., at the church.

Home Extension Club will meet Jan. 12, at the Grange Hall. Mrs. Perry Earley will be hostess.

Sympathy is extended to the family of D. Molello. Mr. Molello died Sunday.

Miss Fannie Gafford was dismissed from the hospital Sunday. Miss W. Winton is presently substituting for Miss Gafford at Penrose Elementary school.

Miss Debra Trevithick spent three days in Colorado Springs, at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Trevithick.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Howells, of Colorado Springs, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bowser. Howells is a brother of Mrs. Bowser.

New Year's dinner guests of Mrs. Nellie Thompson and Cerise were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Berger, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Carter and Debbie, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Vivivo and Sherry and Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Thompson and Scott of Colorado Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stephens and family spent New Year's holidays in Amarillo, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Head. They also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Head and daughters and Mrs. Rosie Head.

Lester Coffman was taken to the hospital Sunday, following a stroke.

Bronstein New State Director of Budget

DENVER (UPI)— Robert Bronstein is Colorado's new state budget director.

Gov. John Love appointed Bronstein late Tuesday to replace Con F. Shea, who Love named earlier to be state controller. Shea replaced Gray Spurlin, who retired recently for health reasons.

Bronstein now serves as management director in the budget office.

William H. Walker, another employe of the budget office, will take Bronstein's old job. Both men will be paid $1,128 in their new jobs.

The appointments were provisional, pending civil service exams.

RH INCOMPATIBILITY

Every year many Rh babies are born in our larger honpitals. Approximately four newborns in each institution will need a lifesaving exchange transfusion. These tots have developed erythroblastosis fetalin bcause their blood is incompatible with the mother's. The mother is Rh negative and the infant, Rh positive.

All blood looks the same but special tents disclose the presence of certain chemical substances (antigens). In the case of the Rh factor, for example, 8 per cent of us have these antigens (Rh positive) and the remainder do not (rh negative).

Rh positive people are not bothered by transfusions but Rh negative individuals run into trouble. They often are able to tolerate one transfusion with Rh positive blood, but thereafter they become sensitized and develop antibodies against these antigens. A reaction follows the introduction of a second batch of Rh positive cells.

The offspring of an Rh negative woman and an Rh positive man unually are Rh positive. Prior to birth of the first baby, the blood of the fetus mixes with that of the mother, sensitizing her to Rh positive blood. Sometimes this reaction does not occur until the second pregnancy. At any rate, the woman's serum now contains the antigens mentioned previously. This presents a problem in subsequent pregnancies because the mother's antibodien get into the blood stream of the Rh positive fetus ad begi to destroy the red cells. When millions of these cells are destroyed, their iro convnt encapes into the circulation and may damage the brain.

The severeity of the reaction depends upon the degree of sensitivity. Some of these children die long before birth (miscarriage or stillbirth). Others are destined to have a difficult start in life unless their blood is removed immediately and replaced with Rh negative blood.

For these reasons physicians recommend special tests for Rh negative mothers to determine the antibody lvels. If they suspect erthroblastosis, they may induce labor a few weeks early to save the child via an exchange transfusion before too many red eclls are destroyed.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

PUFFINESS AND ALLERGY

F. L. writes: An eye specialist told me the swelling of my right eyelid is due to allergy. If this is so, why is only one lid affected?

REPLY

You may be allergic to something on your hand or finger and rub only the affected eye. There are other causes, so send stamped envelope for leaflet on puffiness of the eyelids.

EXHAUSTED OLDSTER

Mrs. G. H. writes: Why would a woman in her seventies, whose health habits are good, go down in energy to the point of exhaustion

REPLY

She may be depressed, ill, or anemic. A thorough physical examination, plus a few simple tests, will answer the question.

FIND AND AVOID CAUSE

M. G. writes: Is there any cure for allergies in general?

REPLY

Yes, if the causative agent can be found and avoided. This is not easy. Most allergic persons should attempt desensitization and use medicines to control symptoms.

MOUTH MALIGNANCY

A. V. writen: What are the symptoms of cancer of the mouth.

REPLY

A tumor or an ulcer that continues to grow instead of healing.

Dear Ele: Is it police to cut in on the last dance? Once, as I was dancing the last dance with my partner, he was tapped and I had to finish with a boy I hardly knew. Could I have said said ,no, or would that have been wrong? — Glenda

Dear Glenda: Some groups permit cuts on the last dance while others don't. It's simply a matter of custom, and it varies from school to school, city to city.

If you're in the arms of a special beau, and someone tries to cut in on your last dance, you can always smile at the intruder and say, "Oh, I'm sorry, but I promised this dance to Jake" and stay with your partner. — Ele.

Dear Walt: On a date I loaned a girl my pen. She used it, and then stuck it in her purse. I don't know what caused it, but the pen leaked through her purse and on her dress. Since the ink was permanent black, and the dress and purse were white, you can imagine the mess.

Every time we've been together since then, the girl has brought the accident into the conversation. I know she thinks I should buy her a new dress and purse. What do you think? Am I responsible? — Clyde

Dear Clyde: The girl is way off base! She borrowed the pen and she put it in her purse, so she's responsible for the accident. If she continues to bug you about this, ask yourself if you really want to date her anymore. — Walt

Dear Ele and Walt: Since you recently listed tipping suggestions for various occupaetions (barbers, taxi drivers, etc.), I'd like to have equal space to say that I think the whole custom of tipping is wrong. Why should someone be tipped who's simply doing the job he was hired to do?

Three's certainly no logic to our tipping customs. Why tip beauticians and waiters and ignore nurses and shoe salesmen?

To my mind, the best tip is not money. If you have ever gone into an establishment and asked for a certain employee, and been willing to wait until he could take care of you, then you've given him the best tip he could receive: your approval of his ability!

As you may detect, I think our system of tipping is completely irrational and degrading to the receiver and embarrassing to the giver! Do I make sense? Sounding Off

We'll agree that tipping is a bad custom but what realistic action can a fair-minded individual take?

— Do you protest the tipping system by refusing to leave money for the waitress who depends on tips to fill out her slight paycheck?

— Or do you keep on tipping out of sympathy for her small salary and thus help perpetuate a bad custom?

We'd like to have your views, pro or con, on the tipping question. Of special interest would be any comments from folks on the receiving end (cabbies, bell boys, etc.). Poisonous Wildcat Well Is Controlled

MADILL, Okla. (AP) — A wildcat well that gushed poisonous sulphuric gas apparently was brought under control late Wednesday.

Valves kept the gas under check but they had to be turned frequently to release the roaring pressurized gas to prevent a major blowout.

Sinclair Oil Co.'s No. 5 Griffin blew out Wednesday morning and a company spokesman estimated the daily flow at five million cubic feet. There was no fire. Workmen had to use gas masks and spectators were kept a mile away from the well, 2½ miles northwest of this southern Oklahoma town.

Drilling mud was pumped into the well to stop the gas flow.

League Cage Competition Opens Tonight

Panther Indian Tilt Key to WRL Chase

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Without much fanfare, the newly formed Triple-A Will Rogers League basketball pennant starts tonight with two games on the agenda.

Harrison's Panthers, favored to clinch the WRL title, travels across town to battle Cheyenne Mountain in the only local contest tonight. Tip-off time is set for 8 p.m. at the Cheyenne Gymnasium.

In other WRL action tonight, John Delventhal's Kadets of Academy High leave their home nest to clash with Canon City to round out the league openers.

Two non-league games are on tap Saturday night. The Cheyenne five is scheduled for a contest at Mapleton, while Widefield's Gladiators attempt to improve a 1-5 won-loss record when they battle Brighton in upstate territory. Both games are slated for 8 p.m.

The Harrison-Cheyenne game decision will be the key to the WRL pennant chase. Norman Sullivan, in his first term at Harrison, has constructed a solid program at the Harrison school and the Panthers have lived up to their rating as WRL favorite by posting the best nonconference slate among the five-team circuit.

The Panthers come into tonight's game against Cheyenne with a 5-2 won-loss record in non-league competition, losing those two outings to Cheyenne and Pueblo Centennial.

In their last meeting, the Indians nipped the Harrison crew by a single point, 65-64. This was the second straight loss for the Panthers, after the Harrison roundballers scored a campaign opening impressive 69-59 win over Bear Creek. But the tall and talented Panthers recorded four successive victories, including a win over Colorado Springs St. Mary's, 75-72, a team which dumped Cheyenne earlier this season.

Don O'Hare, who led the Indians to the Pikes Peak League title and into the State AA semi-finals last year in his first term at the Cheyenne school, has two high-scoring and capable players which have enabled the Tribe to post a respectable 4-2 won-loss record.

The Indians lost to Pueblo Central, 80-52, and succumbed to cross-town rivals St. Mary',s 54-45. However, the Indians' ace gunners Bill Massarand and Ron Graham have been responsible for an impressive 58-56 non-league win over Pueblo Centennial.

Coming into tonight's game, both teams have displayed weak defenses, which should make for a high-scoring contest. Cheyenne has allowed its six opponents 358 points for a 59.7-points per game average which Graham and Massarand has assisted in upping their scoring output to 58-points per game clip.

The Panthers, on the other hand, have a slightly higher scoring average with 465 points in seven games for a 66.4-points per game average. But the Panthers' defense has allowed 65-points per game to the opposition.

Harrison will start a unit averaging 6-2, which is the tallest in the WRL and the Panthers have three cagers capable of scoring in the doubles figures, including Mike Obert, who scored 27 points in a losing cause against Cheyenne in their last outing. John Dalton and Eddie Hook round out the cagers capable of hitting the nets.

Both Canon City and Academy High have made vast improvements even though the small-put-potential Kadets have only managed one victory in seven games.

Ray Wheeler has brought the Tigers on strong in their last three games as Canon City's new head coach took two wins over a three-game weekend prior to the holidays. The Tigers defeated Gunnison and Trinidad Catholic quite handily but dropped a game to Pueblo South to round-out their pre-holiday slate.

Despite the fact the Kadets have only one victory to their credit, don't count the Big Blue out of the WRL picture. They have the leading loop scorer in Bert Spear and Delventhal has played all Triple-A schools which gives the Academy High team valuable experience.

Even though the Academy High cagers defeated Canon City at the beginning of the season, this is no indication of which team will win tonight. Either team could pull out the victory.

Bronco Personnel Director Resigns

DENVER (UPI)— Bill Meek, director of player personnel for the Denver Broncos, Thursday announced his resignation from the post.

Officials for the American Football League team said Meek would remain as a Bronco scout with headquarters in Dallas. He joined the Broncos last spring after coaching jobs at Kansas State, Houston and Southern Methodist and a stint in private business in Dallas.

TOP SCORER OUT—The Air Force Academy's leading scorer this basketball season, Jerry Yankee, will definitely be lost for this Saturday night's game with Denver University at the AFA, and possibly for the remainder of the winter. Yankee, a guard with a 13.4 average for eight games, is suffering from mononucleosis. The junior from San Antonio, Tex., became ill during the AFA's recent road trip. Coach Bob Spear said Yankee's replacement would be either Pete Hugdahl or Pat Dowling, both sophomores.

Bird Matmen Tie for Lead; Terrors Lost to Wildcats

Pueblo East and Wasson were in a first place tie in the South Central League wrestling standings today after both scored decisive victories in Thursday's action.

The Thunderbirds, unbeaten in dual competition, smashed Trinidad 34-7 at the Wasson Gymnasium Thursday afternoon. East pulled away in the upper weights to pin Centennial 28-11 in a night meet in Pueblo. In the only other action, Central swamped Palmer 49-2 in another Pueblo meet.

The win left Wasson and East with 2-0 records. Central is now 1-1 and Palmer 0-2.

Coach George Kalber was forced to substitute at two lower weights Thursday but it failed t ostem the Thunderbird tide. Wasson won the first eight weights and had a 26-0 lead before Trinidad came up with its lone triumph in the 154 pound weight. John Ellenburger, who trailed 2-1 at the time, suddenly rolled Wasson's Rick Clark into a pin-hold near the midway point of the second period.

The Miners' other points came in the 180-pound division where Wasson's Bud Hoffpauir was forced to fight back from a 4-1 deficit with a final period reversal and riding time for a 4-4 deadlock.

Elsewhere the Thunderbirds completely dominated the competition with the majority of the matches not even close. Don Costello got the T-Birds' lone pin at 95 pounds but Larry Abeyta won his 112 pound match, 11-0; Jim Ranals had a 12-5 margin at 120; Jack Jenkins won by 9-0 at 138; and Von Langman at 145 and Yogi Grandcourt at 165 both posted 8-0 scores.

Grandcourt, the defending SCL champion at 165, raised his record to 8-1 for the season with his victory. His only loss came in the finals of the Longmont Tournament earlier this winter.

Palmer's Ron Smith, who has lost only in the Widefield Invitational, contributed the Terrors' lone points Thursday with a 3-3 draw with Wayne Gutierrez of Central in the heavyweight match.

The Wildcats piled up seven pins in the 12 matches and had a 46-0 lead going into that final match. The only Terrors besides Smith to come close to victory were Don Nix at 95 pounds and Dave Rowland at 133. Nix suffered a 3-1 setback to Dave Montoya and Rowland dropped a tough 6-5 decision to Willie Sampson.

Tribe Draws Potentially Strong Colts

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Palmer's second leading scorer and No. 3 rebounder may not be available to the Terrors as they open their South Central League season tonight against Pueblo South in District 60 Gymnasium.

Bob Pearson, who has broken an early-game slump to pace Palmer, has been out of school since Tuesday. Coach Roger O'Neil did not know as late as Thursday afternoon if the 6-2 senior would be available for duty.

Pearson had trouble hitting the basket through the first four games, then found the range against Air Academy High for 25 points and has a 12.3 shooting average through six games. He also has pulled off 42 rebounds, behind 6-5 Ed Fitzgerald and forward Bill McCalvy.

The Terror backline has been Palmer's mainstay in pre-season contests. McCalvy, despite giving way to a more balanced scoring attack the last two games, still sports a 21.7 scoring average. Despite his 5-11 stature, McCalvy is the No. 2 rebounder with 59.

"Fitzgerald has shown definite improvement," O'Neil said this week. "He's moving well under the basket and could be tough against South. In addition, he's hitting well from outside."

The sophomore center has found his own short-range bucket touch in the last two outings for 14 points a game. He is averaging 9.2 on the season, but that figure includes a two-point off-night against Jefferson County.

Palmer has a strong starting rebound crew in Fitzgerald, McCalvy and Pearson, but drops off past that, with John Knudsen and Dan Crouse getting spot relief work.

On the other hand, the Terrors are not at their best at guard, but have four players of roughly equal strength. Starting tonight will be senior Tom Espinoza and sophomore Charles McKenzie. In reserve are sophomore Wade Exum and senior Dave Crowell. It is conceivable Palmer will play at least several minutes with three sophs bidding for their first SCL victory.

South puts a 2-3 record on the line against Palmer's 3-3 mark. The Colts have beaten Lakewood, not nearly as strong in basketball as it was in football, and Canon City. South has lost to powerful La Junta, Ft. Collins Poudre and Denver Lincoln.

The Colts are averaging 66.2 points a game, ten better than Palmer's offense has mustered to date. But they have allowed 68.2 points, denoting a defensive lapse which Palmer could well take advantage of. Palmer has allowed 52.7 points a game, its largest gift a 64-point break by Lamar.

THURSDAY'S FIGHTS

MIAMI, Fla. — Irish Gene Robinson, 155, St. Augustine, Fla., outpointed Linnes Johnson, 156, Opa Locka, Fla., 8.

BANGKOK — Apidej Sithiran, 146, Thailand, stopped Eliseo Aranda, 147, the Philippines, 1.

READY FOR BULLDOGS—Mike Martin, veteran Wasson forward, will be among the starters tonight as the Thunderbirds launch the South Central League basketball campaign against highly-rated Centennial at the Palmer Gymnasium. Martin, a star end on the Wasson football team this fall, is one of only three basketball lettermen on the T-Bird roster.

Bucs Meet Regis Tonite; Take on Mullen Sunday

St. Mary's Pirates are slated for a showdown with two of the Denver Parochial League's favorites when the Bucaneers tangle with the top challenger to the DPL crown, Mullen, and Regis in a two-game home stand this weekend.

The Pirates entertain defending co-champion Regis tonight and follow with a Sunday afternoon outing with Mullen. The St. Mary's-Regis game is set for 8 p.m. tonight at the Pirates Gymnasium.

Sunday's game is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. when the torrid-scoring Mullen five invades the Pirates gym. The Mustangs lead the DPL teams in scoring via a 79.5-points per game average in league play.

All three teams — St. Mary's, Mullen and Regis — are undefeated in DPL competition and lead the pennant chase with 2-0 won-loss records. Dan Wright's Pirates have the edge in defense as the pressing St. Mary's chargers have limited their two loop opponents to a mere 35.5-points per game, while the Bucs have compiled a 60.5-points per game against the opposition.

The Raiders come into tonight's encounter against the Pirates with a 53.0-points per game, while the Regis roundballers have contained their two league opponents to 39.0-points per game.

Wright will count heavily on his pressing-defense to preserve his team's undefeated record. The Bucs have applied the full-court press effectively this season for a 7-1 won-loss over-all record.

The St. Mary's basketballers picked up their sixth and seventh victory this week then they stormed past aCthedral, 57-42, last Sunday and followed with a 64-29 decision over lowly Mt. Carmel on Tuesday.

Wright will probably stay with his usual starters including the Pirates leading scorer, Tom McCarthy who comes into tonight's game with 142 points scored in eight games, at one guard position with either Joe Jezek or Jerry Knauf starting at the other guard slot. John Van Horn and team-leader Sam Zavatti will probably get the nod for the forward slots while 6-2 junior center Tom Socha, who is the team's second leading scorer with 74 points in eight games, will start at the pivot.

CSU's Vidakovich Has Eagle's Eye

NEW YORK (UPI)—National basketball statistics compiled this week show Colorado State University guard Tom Vidakovich is the nation's fifth most accurate field goal shooter.

Vidakovich, a 5-11 guard from Glenwood Springs, Colo., has hit almost 90 per cent of his field goals in the Rams' nine games this season. He has made 34 of 38 field goals.

Thunderbirds Host Ranked Bulldogs

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Wasson starts its run at a productive South Central League basketball season tonight when the Thunderbirds host highly-regarded Pueblo Centennial at the Palmer Gymnasium. The "B" game will start at 6:15 with the varsity contest scheduled to follow at 8.

Coach Dick Westbay's quinter, saddled with an unimpressive 2-4 non-conference record, hopes to initiate a resurgence against one of the two winningest SCL clubs. Centennial comes to town with a 5-1 mark recorded against non-league opponents, ninth place ranking among the state's prep teams, and a role as one of the top title favorites in the South Central League.

One of the top attractions of the game will be the first appearance in the city of the Bulldogs' much-talked-about seven-foot sophomore, Ron Smith. The tallest player to ever perform in the SCL, Smith is coming on fast as a scorer and rebounder for the Pueblo team. There is little doubt that he will pose a substantial defensive problem for the Thunderbirds tonight.

Elsewhere the Bulldogs appear to be fairly well balanced, but the team's play has been somewhat erratic despite the impressive record. Centennial owns a victory over defending SCL champ, Pueblo Central. That was posted in the finals of the Will Rogers League Tournament and is the only blotch on the Wildcats' mark to date. But a week later Centennial absorbed a 58-56 thumping at the hands of Cheyenne Mountain, a team Central had riddled by nearly 30 points.

Other Centennial triumphs were over Widefield and Harrison in that same tournament and over Canon City and North Denver in later outings. The Bulldogs have not seen action since Dec. 19, a factor that might leave them a bit rusty this evening.

Wasson's early season work was slowed by the fact that five of the top 10 squad members were late in reporting due to an extended football campaign. The Thunderbirds' opening loss to Denver Lincoln by a 45-38 margin reflected this. The following weekend they defeated Cherry Creek handily, but then fell to West Denver by a 63-62 count after falling far behind in the opening period.

Then came the first wave of improvement as evidenced by a record-setting 91-65 smashing of South Denver but that was followed by a hard-to-swallow overtime loss to Lakewood in a game where the Birds blew a nine point lead in the final quarter. The only other action came just over a week ago when Wasson surrendered a 78-66 decision to a brilliant Laramie, Wyo. quintet.

Those latter outings saw the Thunderbird veterans who had been delayed by the football season, beginning to pick up the tempo. Jim Smith, the 3rd high scorer on last year's team, hit 18 points against Laramie and last winter's top point-maker, Charlie Steel, had 18 and 14 point performances in his last two outings.

Those who will be in the starting lineup tonight along with another veteran, Mike Martin, and two prize juniors. Randy Stanley, a rugged 6-3 forward, is the team's leading scorer and 6-1 Rick Pettigrew its niftiest ball-handler.

Tonight's local contest will be only one on a full SCL schedule this weekend.

Kansas Puts Winning String on Line

By The Associated Press

Kansas put a six-game winning streak on the line against Missouri in Lawrence Saturday night, while Kansas State plays a crucial road game at Colorado and Oklahoma State faces Nebraska at Stillwater to open the Big Eight's nine-game afternoon television series.

Oklahoma and Iowa State, both narrow losers opening night meet at Norman in the other game.

Kansas put together the streak away from its home Allen Fieldhouse, where a turnout of 9,000 is expected for the Missouri game.

The Jayhawks scored victories at Maryland and over seventh-ranked St. John's of New York, swept three games for the Big Eight Tournament title on a neutral court and defeated Nebraska 66-56 at Lincoln in the league opener.

"This is a crucial game for us," said Ted Owens, Kansas coach. "I have a lot of respect for Missouri—they always have good effort.

"We've been winning, I think, because we have been practicing well and hard. It's a dedicated squad and Sam Miranda is a fine assistant."

Missouri whipped Colorado's tourney runnerups 63-58 Monday at Columbia, erasing a 12-point deficit with a full-court press. The Tigers beat Kansas three times last year as George Flamank had a pair of big games.

Chuck Gardner, Colorado's 6-7 pivot, had 20 points against Missouri and Tex Winter, K-State coach, thinks this is significant.

"Apparently Sox Walseth has found the center he's been looking for," Winter said. "This is the thing that kept Colorado from being great."

Winter wasn't happy with his team's 71-69 squeaker past Oklahoma at Manhattan, and he's undecided about one forward position.

K-State had a four-game losing streak in Boulder before reversing the trend 60-59 in overtime. But the Buffs are traditionally tough on their home court.

Oklahoma State, like K-State, flirted with disaster opening night before nicking Iowa State 54-52 at Ames in overtime. Hank Iba's club should get past the Huskers, their 74-61 victim in the tourney.

Oklahoma hit a season peak at K-State. If the Sooners can duplicate this rebound strength against I-State they will beat the Cyclones by a wider margin than their 76-72 edge in the tournament.

Orediggers Lose Two National Mat Champs

On the eve of the wrestling match between Colorado Mines and the Air Force Academy, the Orediggers from Golden have suffered a stunning loss of two national champions that could cut deeply into their chances for a successful season.

Bob Rowley, former national Junior College champ from Colorado Springs, who transferred this year to Mines, is at present hospitalized here in the Springs with a slipped disc and will be lost for the season. Also, Dave Linder, a junior who was last year's NCAA college division at 130 pounds, has incurred a severe knee injury and probably will be lost for the entire month.

With the loss of these two stellar athletes, Mines may be relegated to mediocrity in wrestling for this year. And it will require some shifting of personnel for the match at the Air Force Academy this Saturday afternoon.

The clash this weekend between the Cadets and Orediggers marks the 10th meeting between the schools, with the winner claiming the symbolic "alumni" traveling award, a three-foot silver trophy. Mines has fashioned a considerable edge in the series, owning seven victories out of 10.

Last year's match with the Academy nearly equalled Mines' widest margin of victory. The Miners won 22-8 over the AFA, after a 27-3 victory the previous season, which stands as the meet record.

So far the Air Force has lost its only match of the season, in a tussle with tough Michigan State University early in December. The match Saturday is scheduled for 1 p.m., following a noon match between the freshman squads from both schools at noon. It is open to the public, free of charge.

Without much fanfare, the newly formed Triple-A Will Rogers League basketball pennant starts tonight with two games on the agenda.

Harrison's Panthers, favored to clinch the WRL title, travels across town to battle Cheyenne Mountain in the only local contest tonight. Tip-off time is set for 8 p.m. at the Cheyenne Gymnasium.

In other WRL action tonight, John Delventhal's Kadets of Academy High leave their home nest to clash with Canon City to round out the league openers.

Two non-league games are on tap Saturday night. The Cheyenne five is scheduled for a contest at Mapleton, while Widefield's Gladiators attempt to improve a 1-5 won-loss record when they battle Brighton in upstate territory. Both games are slated for 8 p.m.

The Harrison-Cheyenne game decision will be the key to the WRL pennant chase. Norman Sullivan, in his first term at Harrison, has constructed a solid program at the Harrison school and the Panthers have lived up to their rating as WRL favorite by posting the best non-conference slate among the five-team circuit.

The Panthers come into tonight's game against Cheyenne with a 5-2 won-loss record in non-league competition, losing those two outings to Cheyenne and Pueblo Centennial.

In their last meeting, the Indians nipped the Harrison crew by a single point, 65-64. This was the second straight loss for the Panthers, after the Harrison roundballers scored a campaign opening impressive 69-59 win over Bear Creek. But the tall and talented Panthers recorded four successive victories, including a win over Colorado Springs St. Mary's, 75-72, a team which dumped Cheyenne earlier this season.

Don O'Hare, who led the Indians to the Pikes Peak League title and into the State AA semi-finals last year in his first term at the Cheyenne school, has two high-scoring and capable players which have enabled the Tribe to post a respectable 4-2 won-loss record.

The Indians lost to Pueblo Central, 80-52, and succumbed to cross-town rivals St. Mary',s 54-45. However, the Indians' ace gunners Bill Massarand and Ron Graham have been responsible for an impressive 58-56 non-league win over Pueblo Centennial.

Coming into tonight's game, both teams have displayed weak defenses, which should make for a high-scoring contest. Cheyenne has allowed its six opponents 358 points for a 59.7-points per game average which Graham and Massarand has assisted in upping their scoring output to 58-points per game clip.

The Panthers, on the other hand, have a slightly higher scoring average with 465 points in seven games for a 66.4-points per game average. But the Panthers' defense has allowed 65-points per game to the opposition.

Harrison will start a unit averaging 6-2, which is the tallest in the WRL and the Panthers have three cagers capable of scoring in the doubles figures, including Mike Obert, who scored 27 points in a losing cause against Cheyenne in their last outing. John Dalton and Eddie Hook round out the cagers capable of hitting the nets.

Both Canon City and Academy High have made vast improvements even though the small-put-potential Kadets have only managed one victory in seven games.

Ray Wheeler has brought the Tigers on strong in their last three games as Canon City's new head coach took two wins over a three-game weekend prior to the holidays. The Tigers defeated Gunnison and Trinidad Catholic quite handily but dropped a game to Pueblo South to round-out their pre-holiday slate.

Despite the fact the Kadets have only one victory to their credit, don't count the Big Blue out of the WRL picture. They have the leading loop scorer in Bert Spear and Delventhal has played all Triple-A schools which gives the Academy High team valuable experience.

Even though the Academy High cagers defeated Canon City at the beginning of the season, this is no indication of which team will win tonight. Either team could pull out the victory.

Bronco Personnel Director Resigns

DENVER (UPI)— Bill Meek, director of player personnel for the Denver Broncos, Thursday announced his resignation from the post.

Officials for the American Football League team said Meek would remain as a Bronco scout with headquarters in Dallas. He joined the Broncos last spring after coaching jobs at Kansas State, Houston and Southern Methodist and a stint in private business in Dallas.

TOP SCORER OUT—The Air Force Academy's leading scorer this basketball season, Jerry Yankee, will definitely be lost for this Saturday night's game with Denver University at the AFA, and possibly for the remainder of the winter. Yankee, a guard with a 13.4 average for eight games, is suffering from mononucleosis. The junior from San Antonio, Tex., became ill during the AFA's recent road trip. Coach Bob Spear said Yankee's replacement would be either Pete Hugdahl or Pat Dowling, both sophomores.

Bird Matmen Tie for Lead; Terrors Lost to Wildcats

Pueblo East and Wasson were in a first place tie in the South Central League wrestling standings today after both scored decisive victories in Thursday's action.

The Thunderbirds, unbeaten in dual competition, smashed Trinidad 34-7 at the Wasson Gymnasium Thursday afternoon. East pulled away in the upper weights to pin Centennial 28-11 in a night meet in Pueblo. In the only other action, Central swamped Palmer 49-2 in another Pueblo meet.

The win left Wasson and East with 2-0 records. Central is now 1-1 and Palmer 0-2.

Coach George Kalber was forced to substitute at two lower weights Thursday but it failed t ostem the Thunderbird tide. Wasson won the first eight weights and had a 26-0 lead before Trinidad came up with its lone triumph in the 154 pound weight. John Ellenburger, who trailed 2-1 at the time, suddenly rolled Wasson's Rick Clark into a pin-hold near the midway point of the second period.

The Miners' other points came in the 180-pound division where Wasson's Bud Hoffpauir was forced to fight back from a 4-1 deficit with a final period reversal and riding time for a 4-4 deadlock.

Elsewhere the Thunderbirds completely dominated the competition with the majority of the matches not even close. Don Costello got the T-Birds' lone pin at 95 pounds but Larry Abeyta won his 112 pound match, 11-0; Jim Ranals had a 12-5 margin at 120; Jack Jenkins won by 9-0 at 138; and Von Langman at 145 and Yogi Grandcourt at 165 both posted 8-0 scores.

Grandcourt, the defending SCL champion at 165, raised his record to 8-1 for the season with his victory. His only loss came in the finals of the Longmont Tournament earlier this winter.

Palmer's Ron Smith, who has lost only in the Widefield Invitational, contributed the Terrors' lone points Thursday with a 3-3 draw with Wayne Gutierrez of Central in the heavyweight match.

The Wildcats piled up seven pins in the 12 matches and had a 46-0 lead going into that final match. The only Terrors besides Smith to come close to victory were Don Nix at 95 pounds and Dave Rowland at 133. Nix suffered a 3-1 setback to Dave Montoya and Rowland dropped a tough 6-5 decision to Willie Sampson.

Tribe Draws Potentially Strong Colts

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Palmer's second leading scorer and No. 3 rebounder may not be available to the Terrors as they open their South Central League season tonight against Pueblo South in District 60 Gymnasium.

Bob Pearson, who has broken an early-game slump to pace Palmer, has been out of school since Tuesday. Coach Roger O'Neil did not know as late as Thursday afternoon if the 6-2 senior would be available for duty.

Pearson had trouble hitting the basket through the first four games, then found the range against Air Academy High for 25 points and has a 12.3 shooting average through six games. He also has pulled off 42 rebounds, behind 6-5 Ed Fitzgerald and forward Bill McCalvy.

The Terror backline has been Palmer's mainstay in pre-season contests. McCalvy, despite giving way to a more balanced scoring attack the last two games, still sports a 21.7 scoring average. Despite his 5-11 stature, McCalvy is the No. 2 rebounder with 59.

"Fitzgerald has shown definite improvement," O'Neil said this week. "He's moving well under the basket and could be tough against South. In addition, he's hitting well from outside."

The sophomore center has found his own short-range bucket touch in the last two outings for 14 points a game. He is averaging 9.2 on the season, but that figure includes a two-point off-night against Jefferson County.

Palmer has a strong starting rebound crew in Fitzgerald, McCalvy and Pearson, but drops off past that, with John Knudsen and Dan Crouse getting spot relief work.

On the other hand, the Terrors are not at their best at guard, but have four players of roughly equal strength. Starting tonight will be senior Tom Espinoza and sophomore Charles McKenzie. In reserve are sophomore Wade Exum and senior Dave Crowell. It is conceivable Palmer will play at least several minutes with three sophs bidding for their first SCL victory.

South puts a 2-3 record on the line against Palmer's 3-3 mark. The Colts have beaten Lakewood, not nearly as strong in basketball as it was in football, and Canon City. South has lost to powerful La Junta, Ft. Collins Poudre and Denver Lincoln.

The Colts are averaging 66.2 points a game, ten better than Palmer's offense has mustered to date. But they have allowed 68.2 points, denoting a defensive lapse which Palmer could well take advantage of. Palmer has allowed 52.7 points a game, its largest gift a 64-point break by Lamar.

THURSDAY'S FIGHTS

READY FOR BULLDOGS—Mike Martin, veteran Wasson forward, will be among the starters tonight as the Thunderbirds launch the South Central League basketball campaign against highly-rated Centennial at the Palmer Gymnasium. Martin, a star end on the Wasson football team this fall, is one of only three basketball lettermen on the T-Bird roster.

Bucs Meet Regis Tonite; Take on Mullen Sunday

St. Mary's Pirates are slated for a showdown with two of the Denver Parochial League's favorites when the Bucaneers tangle with the top challenger to the DPL crown, Mullen, and Regis in a two-game home stand this weekend.

The Pirates entertain defending co-champion Regis tonight and follow with a Sunday afternoon outing with Mullen. The St. Mary's-Regis game is set for 8 p.m. tonight at the Pirates Gymnasium.

Sunday's game is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. when the torrid-scoring Mullen five invades the Pirates gym. The Mustangs lead the DPL teams in scoring via a 79.5-points per game average in league play.

All three teams — St. Mary's, Mullen and Regis — are undefeated in DPL competition and lead the pennant chase with 2-0 won-loss records. Dan Wright's Pirates have the edge in defense as the pressing St. Mary's chargers have limited their two loop opponents to a mere 35.5-points per game, while the Bucs have compiled a 60.5-points per game against the opposition.

The Raiders come into tonight's encounter against the Pirates with a 53.0-points per game, while the Regis roundballers have contained their two league opponents to 39.0-points per game.

Wright will count heavily on his pressing-defense to preserve his team's undefeated record. The Bucs have applied the full-court press effectively this season for a 7-1 won-loss over-all record.

The St. Mary's basketballers picked up their sixth and seventh victory this week then they stormed past aCthedral, 57-42, last Sunday and followed with a 64-29 decision over lowly Mt. Carmel on Tuesday.

Wright will probably stay with his usual starters including the Pirates leading scorer, Tom McCarthy who comes into tonight's game with 142 points scored in eight games, at one guard position with either Joe Jezek or Jerry Knauf starting at the other guard slot. John Van Horn and team-leader Sam Zavatti will probably get the nod for the forward slots while 6-2 junior center Tom Socha, who is the team's second leading scorer with 74 points in eight games, will start at the pivot.

CSU's Vidakovich Has Eagle's Eye

NEW YORK (UPI)—National basketball statistics compiled this week show Colorado State University guard Tom Vidakovich is the nation's fifth most accurate field goal shooter.

Vidakovich, a 5-11 guard from Glenwood Springs, Colo., has hit almost 90 per cent of his field goals in the Rams' nine games this season. He has made 34 of 38 field goals.

Thunderbirds Host Ranked Bulldogs

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Wasson starts its run at a productive South Central League basketball season tonight when the Thunderbirds host highly-regarded Pueblo Centennial at the Palmer Gymnasium. The "B" game will start at 6:15 with the varsity contest scheduled to follow at 8.

Coach Dick Westbay's quinter, saddled with an unimpressive 2-4 non-conference record, hopes to initiate a resurgence against one of the two winningest SCL clubs. Centennial comes to town with a 5-1 mark recorded against non-league opponents, ninth place ranking among the state's prep teams, and a role as one of the top title favorites in the South Central League.

One of the top attractions of the game will be the first appearance in the city of the Bulldogs' much-talked-about seven-foot sophomore, Ron Smith. The tallest player to ever perform in the SCL, Smith is coming on fast as a scorer and rebounder for the Pueblo team. There is little doubt that he will pose a substantial defensive problem for the Thunderbirds tonight.

Elsewhere the Bulldogs appear to be fairly well balanced, but the team's play has been somewhat erratic despite the impressive record. Centennial owns a victory over defending SCL champ, Pueblo Central. That was posted in the finals of the Will Rogers League Tournament and is the only blotch on the Wildcats' mark to date. But a week later Centennial absorbed a 58-56 thumping at the hands of Cheyenne Mountain, a team Central had riddled by nearly 30 points.

Other Centennial triumphs were over Widefield and Harrison in that same tournament and over Canon City and North Denver in later outings. The Bulldogs have not seen action since Dec. 19, a factor that might leave them a bit rusty this evening.

Wasson's early season work was slowed by the fact that five of the top 10 squad members were late in reporting due to an extended football campaign. The Thunderbirds' opening loss to Denver Lincoln by a 45-38 margin reflected this. The following weekend they defeated Cherry Creek handily, but then fell to West Denver by a 63-62 count after falling far behind in the opening period.

Then came the first wave of improvement as evidenced by a record-setting 91-65 smashing of South Denver but that was followed by a hard-to-swallow overtime loss to Lakewood in a game where the Birds blew a nine point lead in the final quarter. The only other action came just over a week ago when Wasson surrendered a 78-66 decision to a brilliant Laramie, Wyo. quintet.

Those latter outings saw the Thunderbird veterans who had been delayed by the football season, beginning to pick up the tempo. Jim Smith, the 3rd high scorer on last year's team, hit 18 points against Laramie and last winter's top point-maker, Charlie Steel, had 18 and 14 point performances in his last two outings.

Those who will be in the starting lineup tonight along with another veteran, Mike Martin, and two prize juniors. Randy Stanley, a rugged 6-3 forward, is the team's leading scorer and 6-1 Rick Pettigrew its niftiest ball-handler.

Tonight's local contest will be only one on a full SCL schedule this weekend.

Kansas Puts Winning String on Line

By The Associated Press

Kansas put a six-game winning streak on the line against Missouri in Lawrence Saturday night, while Kansas State plays a crucial road game at Colorado and Oklahoma State faces Nebraska at Stillwater to open the Big Eight's nine-game afternoon television series.

Oklahoma and Iowa State, both narrow losers opening night meet at Norman in the other game.

Kansas put together the streak away from its home Allen Fieldhouse, where a turnout of 9,000 is expected for the Missouri game.

The Jayhawks scored victories at Maryland and over seventh-ranked St. John's of New York, swept three games for the Big Eight Tournament title on a neutral court and defeated Nebraska 66-56 at Lincoln in the league opener.

"This is a crucial game for us," said Ted Owens, Kansas coach. "I have a lot of respect for Missouri—they always have good effort.

"We've been winning, I think, because we have been practicing well and hard. It's a dedicated squad and Sam Miranda is a fine assistant."

Missouri whipped Colorado's tourney runnerups 63-58 Monday at Columbia, erasing a 12-point deficit with a full-court press. The Tigers beat Kansas three times last year as George Flamank had a pair of big games.

Chuck Gardner, Colorado's 6-7 pivot, had 20 points against Missouri and Tex Winter, K-State coach, thinks this is significant.

"Apparently Sox Walseth has found the center he's been looking for," Winter said. "This is the thing that kept Colorado from being great."

Winter wasn't happy with his team's 71-69 squeaker past Oklahoma at Manhattan, and he's undecided about one forward position.

K-State had a four-game losing streak in Boulder before reversing the trend 60-59 in overtime. But the Buffs are traditionally tough on their home court.

Oklahoma State, like K-State, flirted with disaster opening night before nicking Iowa State 54-52 at Ames in overtime. Hank Iba's club should get past the Huskers, their 74-61 victim in the tourney.

Oklahoma hit a season peak at K-State. If the Sooners can duplicate this rebound strength against I-State they will beat the Cyclones by a wider margin than their 76-72 edge in the tournament.

Orediggers Lose Two National Mat Champs

On the eve of the wrestling match between Colorado Mines and the Air Force Academy, the Orediggers from Golden have suffered a stunning loss of two national champions that could cut deeply into their chances for a successful season.

Bob Rowley, former national Junior College champ from Colorado Springs, who transferred this year to Mines, is at present hospitalized here in the Springs with a slipped disc and will be lost for the season. Also, Dave Linder, a junior who was last year's NCAA college division at 130 pounds, has incurred a severe knee injury and probably will be lost for the entire month.

With the loss of these two stellar athletes, Mines may be relegated to mediocrity in wrestling for this year. And it will require some shifting of personnel for the match at the Air Force Academy this Saturday afternoon.

The clash this weekend between the Cadets and Orediggers marks the 10th meeting between the schools, with the winner claiming the symbolic "alumni" traveling award, a three-foot silver trophy. Mines has fashioned a considerable edge in the series, owning seven victories out of 10.

Last year's match with the Academy nearly equalled Mines' widest margin of victory. The Miners won 22-8 over the AFA, after a 27-3 victory the previous season, which stands as the meet record.

So far the Air Force has lost its only match of the season, in a tussle with tough Michigan State University early in December. The match Saturday is scheduled for 1 p.m., following a noon match between the freshman squads from both schools at noon. It is open to the public, free of charge.

Manitou, Fountain Open PPL Play

Manitou Springs and Fountain resume their tight-scoring basketball squabble tonight at Manitou Springs as the Pikes Peak League starts official competition.

In other games tonight Buena Vista is at Salida and Crowley County travels to Florence. Saturday night Fowler hosts Leadville.

Several PPL teams have played each other in non-conference competition, but none has approached the scoring pace of Manitou and Fountain.

The teams first met this year in the losers' bracket of the St. Mary's Tournament. Manitou pulled out a 53-51 victory then. But the teams were scheduled for a game two weeks later and Fountain got revenge with a 53-52 victory, but had to go into overtime to get it.

Neither team stands to gain a break-even record after tonight's affair. Fountain is 2-4 and Manitou is 2-5. The Trojans show a bit of an edge in statistics, averaging 51.2 points per game to Manitou's 49.7. But Fountain has a big edge in height ,as none of the Mustangs stands better than 6-0. The Trojans have four players 6-2 or better.

Salida, the defending state AA champion, has had its troubles in this year's action. The Spartans are 1-5, losing to Alamosa twice, Pueblo Central, Florence and St. Mary's.

Leadville, which failed to win a PPL game last season, has completely reversed the trend and hasn't lost in four starts this winter. The Panthers have beaten Oak Creek, Kremmling, Granby and Monte Vista. They went to 100 points against Monte Vista, but have not played since the middle of December, while most other teams have had some extra competition into the holidays.

Although almost as small as Manitou, Florence's Huskies have run up a 4-1 record to date. Their only loss was by one point to Canon City Abbey.

Fowler moved up with the championship of the Crowley County tournament last weekend. The Grizzlies own the league's best defense, a 43.7 average in seven games. But their offense is slowed considerably and usually pots around 49 points a game.

Parseghian Inks Five Year Pact

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Ara Parseghian, who rose to national fame as Notre Dame football coach in 1964, has received the inevitable fruits of glory from the university.

Notre Dame has spiked his four-year contract and given him a five-year pact. Terms were not disclosed by Athletic Director Ed Krause, who made the announcement Thursday. It was not indicated if any other benefits were included. The original pact reportedly called for around $18,000 a year.

The extension came after the 41-year-old Parseghian guided the Irish to a 9-1 football record last year. It was an unexpected and surprising accomplishment that placed Notre Dame back on the top rung after several years of floundering.

The Fighting Irish, who lost their last game of the season to Southern California 20-17, won the Football Hall of Fame's MacArthur Bowl as the season's outstanding team. Parseghian, who had coached eight years at Northwestern before his Notre Dame job, was named College Coach of the Year by the Football Writers Association of America.

Shutout Breaks Long String

CC Icers Tackle Wisconsin Sextet

MADISON, Wis. — Taking a deserved rest after breaking one of the oldest streaks on Colorado College's records, the regular goalie for the Tigers will be on the sidelines tonight when CC stops off here this weekend for a two-game series with the University of Wisconsin on their way back to Colorado.

On the last lap of a swing through the East last Monday night, CC's Mike Carter whitewashed Boston University 2-0 and came up with 45 stops in a spectacular performance. The last time Colorado College held held a hockey opponent scoreless was no less than 208 games ago — stretching over eight seasons and back to the 1956-57 season.

The last shutout by the Bengals was accomplished early on the '56 slate on a 10-0 victory over Yale University. That year CC went on to win the NCAA championship — their last — while paced by All-America's Bill (Red) Hay and defenseman Don Wishart. In goal at the time was Bob Laurion.

Since that time several fine goalies have tried to blank opponents, namely Earl Young, Norm Laurence, Art Warwick and even Carter. But all have allowed at least one goal in those 208 games.

So despite this unusual record, Carter is scheduled to be on the sidelines for tonight's first of a series with Wisconsin. In his place will be transfer Bill Howard from Grand Forks, N. D., who became eligible for the varsity just today.

The challenge of Howard, termed by some observers as the best goalie at CC in several seasons, undoubtedly was an incentive for Carter in last Monday's contest. Carter, a 5-7, 160-pound junior from Panoka, Alberta,. had a busy night in making 45 saves against Boston U., and the shutout was a shot in the arm to the Tigers' chances the rest of this season as the Terriers were rated among the best in the East.

Other than in goal, Coach Bob Johnson probably will not make any changes in the regular lineup when they meet the recently re-activated Badgers.

The victory over BU was the Tigers' third win in nine games this winter and their third in the last four on a tour of the East Coast. The lone loss was in the finals of the annual Brown University Invitational

Tournament, where they failed to defend their title in a 6-5 defeat in overtime to Brown.

So far this season, Wisconsin has a 6-4 record including two decisive losses to the University of Minnesota here on the Wisconsin ice, 7-2 and 6-1. Other losses have been to another member of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, Michigan State, by 9-2 and 9-0.

Jim Petruzate, Ron Leszczynski, Don Addison and Ray Clegg have been the top scorers for the Big Ten Conference team, which only recently reorganized the sport of hockey after an absence since 1935. All of these top scorers are sophomores and the Badgers are building a young team in hopes of joining other Big Ten and WCHA teams on the regular schedule in the future.

CC will be a lop-sided favorite to win both games this weekend.

In the Bengals' last outing at Boston, Carter's goal tending was the obvious highlight. Also coming in for his share of the credits was senior center Jeff Sauer who finally broke the scoreless tie with less than two minutes to go in the game for his first goal of the Eastern trip. A minute later, sophomore Bob Lindberg scored an insurance tally for the Tigers while CC was playing short-handed.

The Tigers had lost 5 straight until the start of the Eastern tour over the holidays, dropping decisions to a strong CC Alumni team, and two each to the University of Minnesota in WCHA play, and to Duluth) (Minn.) Branch. Other wins have been over Boston College, 9-6, and Providence, 5-3.

Other games around the league this weekend will see WCHA-leading Minnesota tangle twice with Michigan State at Minneapolis, North Dakota travels to Michigan University, and in non-league activity Michigan Tech hosts Duluth and Denver will be at home to University of Saskatchewan.

Minnesota paces the league-game standings at 3-1, Michigan Tech, Michigan and North Dakota each have 2-2 records, Denver is 1-1, CC is 0-2 and Michigan State is making its debut in the WCHA.

TIGER TAILS — CC's coach Johnson will be getting a little ahead of himself this weekend as in addition to his duties with the hockey team he will also be the guest of honor at the American Association of College Baseball Coaches in Chicago, Sunday.

Johnson is also baseball coach at CC and will receive the "Coach of the Year Award" for the Rocky Mountain District from the AACBC. The awards dinner is part of the NCAA annual sports convention in Chicago, and he will get the honor after leading the Tigers to a respectable 12-7 record last spring for the first winning record at the school in baseball in many years.

Also at the coaches' meeting in Chicago will be Athletic Director Jerry Carle and assistant football coach Frank Flood. Johnson is slated to return with the hockey team to Colorado Springs on Monday, making ready for their next home games, Jan. 15-16, against Michigan State.

BADGERS' CANADIAN—Don Addison, a top defenseman for the University of Wisconsin hockey team, is the lone Canadian on the Badgers' squad this season. He is also one of the top scorers for Wisconsin with three goals and 10 assists, and is only a sophomore. The Badgers play host to Colorado College tonight and Saturday in a pair of non-league contests at Madison, Wis.

Improved Glads Fall To Danes in City Play

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

After an amazingly un-Widefield performance the first period, Fountain Valley's Danes recovered from a long holiday layoff and pulled away a 7-0 City Hockey League victory Thursday night.

Gladiator coach Don Hansen was pleased with his team's starting act, but the Glads couldn't follow it with anything substantial as they went down to their six consecutive loss, fifth without scoring.

Widefield brought the scattered World Arena crowd to life with an unusually fine display of skating and shooting. The Glads had five shots on goal the first period, the most they have managed in any one period this year.

But after Mark Greene, on an assist from former manager Briggs Dalzell broke the scoring blank in the first period, Widefield seemed to lapse into its old ways of concentrating on defense, and Fountain Valley seemed to get its old form back.

The Danes had been scattered all over the country for Christmas, and only a few early returnees had skated together before Thursday's game.

Greene scored the hat trick in his first scoring game of the year. He tallied unassisted in the second period and executed a neat rebound on Newell's Weed's shot in the third period.

Weed poured three assists and a goal into the action to raise his point total to 12, tying with Cheyenne's Doug Heyliger for third place in the league scoring race.

David Low contributed a pair of goals, getting set-up passes and the position to slip the puck through unprotected corners of the net.

Mark Von Engeln closed the scoring unassisted as his slap shot from inside the blue line hit a knot of skaters, bounced above the ice and thumped past the crease.

Monday, the strong rivalry of Palmer and Wasson gets the spotlight as the two teams battle to deadlock a second place tie. Wasson upset the Terrors in their first meeting to break a 20-game Palmer winning streak.

Lobos Off to Fast Start; Davidson Posts 10th Win

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ira Harge has graduated. So has Claude Williams and Mike Lucero. Nevertheless the New Mexico Lobos again are in the forefront of college basketball teams.

Coach Bob King's boys from Albuquerque won their 10th straight and upped their record to 11-1 by whipping Arizona State 69-48 Thursday night. At this rate the Lobos may better their 23-6 record of last season when they tied for the Western Athletic Conefrence championship and finished runner-up to Bradley in the NIT.

Dick Ellis, a junior from Indianapolis, led the Lobos to their home court victory with 16 points.

Davidson, No. 10 in The Associated Press poll, also made it 10 in a row and 11-1 overall by downing NYU 82-73 in the feature of a doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden.

And fourth-ranked St. Joseph's of Philadelphia similarly made its record 11-1 by crushing Lehigh 85-55 at Bethlehem, Pa. The Hawks and Davidson were the only teams in the AP Top Ten to see action.

Davidson had to come from behind in the second half to beat NYU. The Wildcats, down by 53-47, were rallied by big Fred Hetzel. Held to two points in the first half, Hetzel led an 11-point spurt that put Davidson on top. He finished with 12 points.

Iona upset Duquesne 63-61 in the Garden first game on Warren Isaac's 40-foot long shot with just two seconds left to play.

Bradley, Utah State and Arizona all came through on the road. Bradley came from 10 points back to edge Tulsa 71-69 helped by Chuck Buescher's 10 points in the clutch.

Albert Johnson's dunk basket with two seconds left gave Arizona a 62-60 overtime triumph over Wyoming. Roy Walker's 20-foot jumper with 17 seconds left gave Utah State an 86-84 victory over Utah.

Rick Barry, the nation's leading scorer, tossed in 45 points against Jacksonville as the Miami, Fla., Hurricanes overcame a 15-point halftime deficit for an 86-82 victory at Jacksonville.

Cliff Anderson led the way with 19 points as St. Joseph's started a new winning streak after their 10-game streak was snipped by Providence last Saturday.

Maryland went two overtimes for a 67-65 road triumph over Clemson. Sophomore Jay McMillen tied the score at 65-65 with 30 seconds left then won the game with 12-foot jumper in the last two seconds.

Tom Kerwin's 27 points led Centenary to a 78-72 victory over East Texas. Bob Boehm also tossed in 27 points to pace Rhode Island to a 98-75 conquest of Holy Cross. Steve Thomas got 28 points to spark Xavier of Ohio to a 94-79 rout of New Orleans Loyola. All were home court triumphs.

Money Golf Starts Tour Of New Year

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Open up them golden gates, men, here come the professional golfers in the first of 1965's long and rich schedule of tournaments, the $70,000 Los Angeles Open.

It is the 39th edition of the event which traditionally launches the winter circuit, and carries the largest purse in its history.

Guess who is the favorite. You are thinking maybe J. C. Goosey? Possibly James Black? Roger Ginsberg?

No. Fellow name of Arnold Palmer.

Along with Palmer are such luminaries of the game as the U. S. Open champion, Ken Venturi, who won this one in 1959; Champagne Tony Lema, the British Open champion; PGA champion Bobby Nichols, and virtually all the other top money winners of 1964.

The Rancho Municipal Golf Club course, par 36-35—71, whose 6,800 yards have been well drenched by recent rains, is the tournament site.

Whether the other pros like it or not—and missing are Jack Nicklaus, whose only major win last year was the most money, and Gary Player of South Africa—Palmer is the general pick to pocket the $12,000 winner's purse next Monday.

Paul Harney was a surprise winner here last year, with a 72-hole total of 280.

Palmer thinks it will take 275 to do it this year.

"I know that seems a little low," he said, "especially since Harney won with 280, but you ask what I would take and I say 275."

Arnie's last public competition was when he and Nicklaus teamed to win the Canada Cup matches in Hawaii's Maui early in December.

How is his game?

"There are a lot of things I'm not happy about but I don't have enough time to tell you my troubles," said the jovial Arnie.

Manitou, Fountain Open PPL Play

Manitou Springs and Fountain resume their tight-scoring basketball squabble tonight at Manitou Springs as the Pikes Peak League starts official competition.

In other games tonight Buena Vista is at Salida and Crowley County travels to Florence. Saturday night Fowler hosts Leadville.

Several PPL teams have played each other in non-conference competition, but none has approached the scoring pace of Manitou and Fountain.

The teams first met this year in the losers' bracket of the St. Mary's Tournament. Manitou pulled out a 53-51 victory then. But the teams were scheduled for a game two weeks later and Fountain got revenge with a 53-52 victory, but had to go into overtime to get it.

Neither team stands to gain a break-even record after tonight's affair. Fountain is 2-4 and Manitou is 2-5. The Trojans show a bit of an edge in statistics, averaging 51.2 points per game to Manitou's 49.7. But Fountain has a big edge in height ,as none of the Mustangs stands better than 6-0. The Trojans have four players 6-2 or better.

Salida, the defending state AA champion, has had its troubles in this year's action. The Spartans are 1-5, losing to Alamosa twice, Pueblo Central, Florence and St. Mary's.

Leadville, which failed to win a PPL game last season, has completely reversed the trend and hasn't lost in four starts this winter. The Panthers have beaten Oak Creek, Kremmling, Granby and Monte Vista. They went to 100 points against Monte Vista, but have not played since the middle of December, while most other teams have had some extra competition into the holidays.

Although almost as small as Manitou, Florence's Huskies have run up a 4-1 record to date. Their only loss was by one point to Canon City Abbey.

Fowler moved up with the championship of the Crowley County tournament last weekend. The Grizzlies own the league's best defense, a 43.7 average in seven games. But their offense is slowed considerably and usually pots around 49 points r game.

PARIS — France has a dozen new supermarkets.

Parseghian Inks Five Year Pact

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Ara Parseghian, who rose to national fame as Notre Dame football coach in 1964, has received the inevitable fruits of glory from the university.

Notre Dame has spiked his four-year contract and given him a five-year pact. Terms were not disclosed by Athletic Director Ed Krause, who made the announcement Thursday. It was not indicated if any other benefits were included. The original pact reportedly called for around $18,000 a year.

The extension came after the 41-year-old Parseghian guided the Irish to a 9-1 football record last year. It was an unexpected and surprising accomplishment that placed Notre Dame back on the top rung after several years of floundering.

The Fighting Irish, who lost their last game of the season to Southern California 20-17, won the Football Hall of Fame's MacArthur Bowl as the season's outstanding team, Parseghian, who had coached eight years at Northwestern before his Notre Dame job, was named College Coach of the Year by the Football Writers Association of America.

Shutout Breaks Long String

CC Icers Tackle Wisconsin Sextet

MADISON, Wis. — Taking a deserved rest after breaking one of the oldest streaks on Colorado College's records, the regular goalie for the Tigers will be on the sidelines tonight when CC stops off here this weekend for a two-game series with the University of Wisconsin on their way back to Colorado.

On the last lap of a swing through the East last Monday night, CC's Mike Carter whitewashed Boston University 2-0 and came up with 45 stops in a spectacular performance. The last time Colorado College held held a hockey opponent scoreless was no less than 208 games ago — stretching over eight seasons and back to the 1956-57 season.

The last shutout by the Ben- the '56 slate on a 10-0 victory gals was accomplished early on over Yale University. That year CC went on to win the NCAA championship — their last — while paced by All-America's Bill (Red) Hay and defenseman Don Wishart. In goal at the time was Bob Laurion.

Since that time several fine goalies have tried to blank opponents, namely Earl Young, Norm Laurence, Art Warwick and even Carter. But all have allowed at least one goal in those 208 games.

So despite this unusual record, Carter is scheduled to be on the sidelines for tonight's first of a series with Wisconsin. In his place will be transfer Bill Howard from Grand Forks, N. D., who became eligible for the varsity just today.

The challenge of Howard, termed by some observers as the best goalie at CC in several seasons, undoubtedly was an incentive for Carter in last Monday's contest. Carter, a 5-7, 160-pound junior from Panoka, Alberta, had a busy night in making 45 saves against Boston U., and the shutout was a shot in the arm to the Tigers' chances the rest of this season as the Terriers were rated among the best in the East.

Other than in goal, Coach Bob Johnson probably will not make any changes in the regular lineup when they meet the recently re-activated Badgers.

The victory over BU was the Tigers' third win in nine games this winter and their third in the last four on a tour of the East Coast. The lone loss was in the finals of the annual Brown University Invitational Tournament, where they failed to defend their title in a 6-5 defeat in overtime to Brown.

So far this season, Wisconsin has a 6-4 record including two decisive losses to the University of Minnesota here on the Wisconsin ice, 7-2 and 6-1. Other losses have been to another member of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, Michigan State, by 9-2 and 9-0.

Jim Petruzate, Ron Leszczn-ski, Don Addison and Ray Clegg have been the top scorers for the Big Ten Conference team, which only recently reorganized the sport of hockey after an absence since 1935. All of these top scorers are sophomores and the Badgers are building a young team in hopes of joining other Big Ten and WCHA teams on the regular schedule in the future.

CC will be a lop-sided favorite to win both games this weekend.

In the Bengals' last outing at Boston, Carter's goal tending was the obvious highlight. Also coming in for his share of the credits was senior center Jeff Sauer who finally broke the scoreless tie with less than two minutes to go in the game for his first goal of the Eastern trip. A minute later, sophomore Bob Lindberg scored an insurance tally for the Tigers while CC was playing short-handed.

The Tigers had lost 5 straight until the start of the Eastern tour over the holidays, dropping decisions to a strong CC Alumni team, and two each to the University of Minnesota in WCHA play, and to Duluth) (Minn.) Branch. Other wins have been over Boston College, 9-6, and Providence, 5-3.

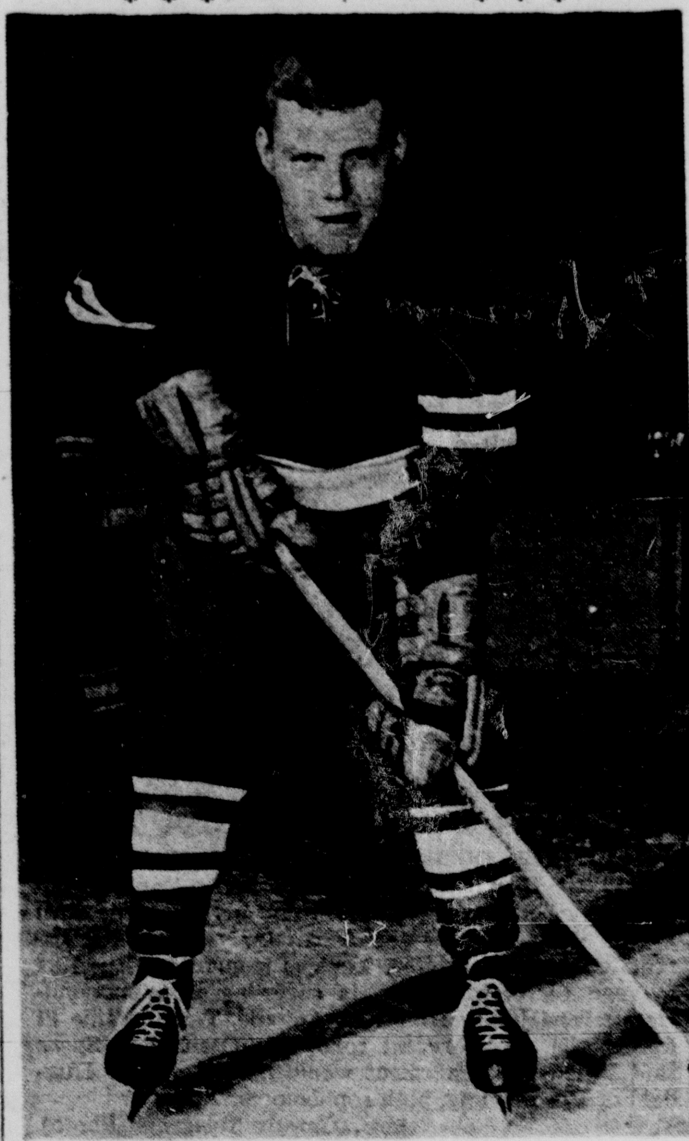
Other games around the league this weekend will see WCHA-leading Minnesota tangle twice with Michigan State at Minneapolis, North Dakota travels to Michigan University, and in non-league activity Michigan Tech hosts Duluth and Denver will be at home to University of Saskatchewan.

Minnesota paces the league-game standings at 3-1, Michigan Tech, Michigan and North Dakota each have 2-2 records, Denver is 1-1, CC is 0-2 and Michigan State is making its debut in the WCHA.

TIGER TAILS — CC's coach Johnson will be getting a little ahead of himself this weekend as in addition to his duties with the hockey team he will also be the guest of honor at the American Association of College Baseball Coaches in Chicago, Sunday.

Johnson is also baseball coach at CC and will receive the "Coach of the Year Award" for the Rocky Mountain District from the AACBC. The awards dinner is part of the NCAA annual sports convention in Chicago, and he will get the honor after leading the Tigers to a respectable 12-7 record last spring for the first winning record at the school in baseball in many years.

Also at the coaches' meeting in Chicago will be Athletic Director Jerry Carle and assistant football coach Frank Flood. Johnson is slated to return with the hockey team to Colorado Springs on Monday, making ready for their next home games, Jan. 15-16, against Michigan State.



BADGERS' CANADIAN—Don Addison, a top defenseman for the University of Wisconsin hockey team, is the lone Canadian on the Badgers' squad this season. He is also one of the top scorers for Wisconsin with three goals and 10 assists, and is only a sophomore. The Badgers play host to Colorado College tonight and Saturday in a pair of non-league contests at Madison, Wis.

Improved Glads Fall To Danes in City Play

NCAA Opens Its Annual Convention; Tops on Agenda Is War With AAU

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association opens it 59th annual convention today, a convention that is expected to center around the bitter war with the Amateur Athletic Union over control of amateur athletics in this country.

Another major item on the agenda is NCAA concern over premature signing of collegiate athletes by professional football leagues.

The convention proper opens Monday, but the vanguard of some 3,000 delegates was on hand for today's opening session, involving registration and meeting of college track and baseball coaches.

Main issues when the 500-plus voting delegates — mostly athletic directors and faculty representatives — get down to business, involve what to do about the eager-beaver pros, the NCAA-AAU feud, and an academic standard for NCAA-sponsored competiton.

The way will be cleared for action on the premature pro signing of football collegians at a Sunday session of the Committee on College-Professional Relations.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said the NCAA's program against pros' jumping the gun in signing collegians probably will be aimed at a "reasonable course" of action.

Byers said the solution obviously was to convince the pro leagues that player drafts should be conducted after bowl games.

A furore was created before the Gator Bowl game when it was disclosed four Oklahoma players were signed by the pros prior to the Sooners' game with Florida State.

The Committee on Pro-College Relations, headed by Jim Corbett of Louisiana State, will meet with pro representatives as well as the NCAA's Legislative Committee and the American Football Coaches counterpart committee before drafting any recommendation.

Byers expects strong support of the proposal to put teeth into the NCAA's policy backing the U.S. Track and Field Federation in its four-year-old squabble with the AAU.

The amendment would invoke the same penalties for failure to boycott AAU competition as prevails for NCAA recruiting violations. These include probation and bans from bowl games and national tournaments.

Regardinging an expected Eastern College Athletic Conference proposal for a federation-AAU coalition, Byers said "This is apart from proposed NCAA legislation and has to be agreed upon by both parties."

Thus a floor battle could develop since the Eastern group includes 131 NCAA members. The coalition proposal recommends that the AAU retain sanctioning of international vents — the bone of contention in the squabble.

A pre-convention rap of the NCAA developed for the AAU Wednesday when the International Amateur Athletic Federation announced in London it would continue to recognize only the AAU as America's amateur athletic governing body.

Byers said the IAAF stand was nothing new and that the debated cooperative sanctioning issue had nothing to do with "any international rule."

The academic floor amendment would require a school to limit scholarships to incoming students with a predicted minimum grade-point average of 1.6 out of a possible 4.0.

The same academic minimum would be required for eligibility in NCAA championship meets and bowl games.

Jets in for Nervous Day As Joe Quarterbacks South

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Joe Willie Namath and his $400,000 arm have wrecked a lot of football teams, but they've never caused anybody the worry they will bring the New York Jets during the Senior Bowl game Saturday.

The Jets, who signed the Pennsylvania Hungarian last week in Miami for the grad fee of about $400,000 aren't overjoyed that Namath will be playing in the Senior Bowl since he has a bad knee.

But Jet Coach Weeb Ewbank has given the go-ahead and Namath, who never ceases to amaze anyone and everyone with what he can do with the pigskin, has jumped into the starting spot for the South.

Coach Tom Landry had planned for a week to start Steve Tensi of Florida State, but Namath showed so much in practice, even though playing on a knee that limits his movement, that Landry said he would go with Joe Willie.

Ewbank won't be able to make it to the game but he has sent offensive coach Cleve Rush to Mobile to protect the Jets' biggest investment since renting the stadium.

"We'll worry about the knee, sure, but we haven't given anyone any special instruction on what to do with Joe," Rush said. "I'm really just down to enjoy the ball game."

Rush, who spends most of his time working with the backs and receivers for the Jets, added "I'm also here to give Joe any help that I can and answer any questions that he has."

But admit it or not, Rush definitely will be the most nervous spectator among the sellout crowd of 40,605 that will jam the stadium to watch the game.

The Senior Bowl will be televised nationally by the National Broadcasting Co. and will get under way at 1 p.m., CST. The weather forecast calls for showers Saturday morning, but clear skies at game time.

The Senior Bowl marks the professional debut of the players of both teams each year. Members of the winning team will receive $900 each, while the losers will pick up checks for $700.

Before it was announced Thursday by Landry that Namath would start, the oddsmakers installed the South a conservative six-point choice. Namath's status most likely will send the odds up a little more.

The rules under which the game will be played are a mixture of college and professional regulations. The only big change will be a rule permitting the team trailing by as much as nine points to receive the kickoff after each touchdown, regardless of who scores.

Many people consider this the best South squad ever assembled, but the North defensive line is expected to limit the Rebels in what they can do with the football.

NCAA Seeks to Stop Pros From Premature Signings

By KELSO STURGEON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association must, can and will stop the professional football leagues from signing players before they complete their eligibility, a high ranking official of the group said today.

Jim Corbett, athletic director at Louisiana State University and powerful chairman of the College-Professional Relations Committee, said the pros are in real trouble with the association regardless of whether they will admit it.

Corbett told The Associated Press in an interview as he was passing through Mobile that he would meet with Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, tonight in Chicago to discuss the situation.

"I guarantee you when the College-Professional Committee meets Sunday morning in Chicago, we're going to come up with a remedy to this situation," Corbett said. "We can put a stop to this practice and we're going to."

Corbett, a usually calm gentleman, obviously was miffed with the recent signing of several college football players — including Mickey Cox of LSU — before they had completed their eligibility.

The battle between the pros and the NCAA broke out two weeks ago when it was revealed that Jim Wilson, Georgia's All-America tackle, had signed a contract with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League last August and then played the past season at Georgia even though he was ineligible. Neither Wilson nor the Patriots bothered to tell the school about it.

The argument reached the boiling point the day before the Gator Bowl football game at Jacksonville when it was disclosed that four members of the Oklahoma football team had already signed pro contracts and thus were ineligible to play.

"We've done everything that we can do to cooperate with both professional leagues," Corbett said. "We've even gone out of our way to be helpful to them but they have been completely unethical."

When asked what his committee would do to put down a hard policy to keep the pros from raiding the college campuses before the players have finished their collegiate play, he declined comment.

"I'd rather not discuss that right now," he said. "The other members of the committee have some ideas, too, and we'll just make known what action we plan to take after our meeting in Chicago."

Corbett was emphatic in making the point that the pros are wrong if they think the NCAA can't do anything to stop this questionable practice. He said the colleges had no intenion of getting caught in a fight between the two pro leagues.

It is common knowledge that the NFL blames the AFL for the troubled situation and vice versa.

The NFL has accused the AFL of having a secret player draft before it has its regular season draft in order to get a head start on the NFL in dickering with the college players.

The NFL, off the record, says the only way it can counteract this situation is to go to work signing players as early as possible.

The AFL, which has denied the secret draft, says the trouble stems from the National League's refusal to accept the fact that it exists.

Corbett also said he had asked the commissioners of several conferences to meet with his committee Sunday morning.

Flyers Edge Hawks in YAL Hockey Game

The Flyers edged the Hawks, 3-2, Thursday night in a Young America League hockey game. In the heavyweight contest the Pups blanked the Gladiators, 8-0.

Mark MacFarlane scored the Flyers' winning goal with 25 seconds to play to break a 2-2 tie. Other Flyer goals were by Mark Williams and Bob Gaddis. The Hawks scored on goals by Ronald Harris and Tom Walker.

Tom Ingerick and Brad Baker scored a pair of goals for the Pups, Single tallies came from Bill Stroh, Bill Porte, Lee Bartholomew and Mark Drake. Drake also has three assists.

Howe in Boston Is No Tea Party

BOSTON (AP) — Few Boston crowds have been so aroused since the Tea Party. The Red Coat this time was Red Wing Gordie Howe who:

Scored two third period goals and spoiled a shutout for Bruins' goalie Ed Johnston.

After all the turmoil Boston won anyway, 5-2, Thursday night.

The principals shrugged off the affair true to the silent sufferers bone-cracking code of the National Hockey League. But fans were incensed enough that Howe got a police patrol car ride away from Boston Garden even though he didn't want the protection.

Knibbs, whose goal at 1:06 of the opening period got things going, fell heavily and in obvious pain when checked into

"I kind of knew he was comvious pain when checked into the boards five minutes before the finish. It looked like he had sustained a head injury as teammates helped him into the dressing room.

Later he was found sitting with an ice bag on a badly bruised right knee.

"I kind of knew he was coming," Knibbs said. "But I never thought I'd get hit that hard. My head snapped back. I thought I had wrenched my back.

"I got my hands up to protect my head. But I got the knee jammed into the boards. I got hit just as I shot the puck into the Detroit end."

"He should be all right to play Saturday," said Boston coach Milt Schmidt. "Howe," he added with a shrug, "just doesn't realize how strong he is.

"If we get any more injuries I guess I'll have to get back in there and play."

"I didn't think I hit the kid that hard," said Howe. "I can hit 10 guys a night like that and they wouldn't get hurt.

"He must have had his feet tangled up.

"I knew he wasn't badly hurt. I could see he had his head protected.

"This is what I get paid to do. It sounds crazy but it's part of the game."

Outside the crowd stirred, then finally began to break.

Knibbs and fellow rookie Wayne Rivers, summoned weeks ago under emergency conditions which never were alleviated, got Boston off to a 2-0 lead. Murray Oliver, Ed Westfall and Tommy Williams followed with goals which built the score to 5-0 before Howe struck.

Gordie's goals made his season and career goal totals climb to 11 and 567, respectively.

The last place, injury-burdened Bruins had much the better of the battle with a tired-looking third-place Detroit outfit. The Westfall and Williams goals were unassisted following pickup of a loose puck and a steal.

The game marked the only action in the NHL Thursday night.

Whitlow Quits His Post With Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Col. Robert Whitlow, baseball's first and only athletic director, has quit his post with the Chicago Cubs.

Cub owner Phil Wrigley, who hired Whitlow, 45, a former Air Force colonel, two years ago, said Thursday:

"Whitlow came to me and said that under the present conditions he didn't feel he was earning his salary. I agreed. Bob was trying to bring some sensible ideas into baseball and I am afraid the game is not ready to accept them.

"When I hired him," continued Wrigley, "I thought it would be a great advantage to have someone operating in our organization who was not steeped in tradition. But a funny thing happened. Baseball people classified him as a college coach. As everyone knows, baseball reacts unfavorably to those who try to improve on various system."

Wrigley said the athletic director's job would not be filled until "baseball is ready for such a man."

Among the many innovations Whitlow, former Air Force Academy athletic director, tried to institute with the Cubs were special diets, detailed charts on pitchers and batters, and a new set of exercises.

It was no secret that Whitlow and Head Cub Coach Bob Kennedy and others with the Cubs failed to see eye-to-eye.

Kennedy's reaction to Whitlow's departure was:

"I have no feeling, pro or con."

South Rates Favorite Role in Hula Bowl Tilt

HONOLULU (AP) — The South All-Stars, led by Craig Morton, Gale Sayer and Larry Elkins, rate as slight favorites over the North in the annual Hula Bowl game Friday night.

And, the South gained more of an edge Thursday when Len Cassanova, co-coach of the North, pulled out of the game and flew back to the mainland.

Despite weather forecasts for showers, an all-out passing duel is expected, with California's Morton facing two formidable opponents in Jerry Rhome of Tulsa and Bob Berry of Oregon.

For the first time in its 19-year history, the Hula Bowl will be nationally televised. The game will be video-taped here with the tape flown immediately to Los Angeles for editing and showing Saturday afternoon on the mainland.

Heavy rains Thursday morning turned the Honolulu stadium field into a quagmire and forced both teams to cancel their scheduled practice sessions.

The teams limbered up along Waikiki Beach and later held skull sessions at their hotel.

The South gets the edge mainly on the strength of its explosive backfield which includes Elkins of Baylor at flanker back, Sayers of Kansas at halfback and Jim Grisham of Oklahoma at fullback.

Grisham and Oklahoma tackle Ralph Neely, both originally barred from playing here for signing pro contracts prior to Gator Bowl, are now scheduled to see action for the South, according to promoter Mackay Yanagisawa.

Morton has the advantage of being able to throw to his California teammate Jack Schrabu, the 6-foot-6 end who caught the winning touchdown pass in the East-West Shrine Game in San Francisco last Saturday.

The North has a pair of excellent passers in Rhome, the Tulsa ace who broke 18 national passing records this season, and Berry, who had a great three-year career under Casanova at Oregon.

Casanova had shared the North coaching chores with Wayne Hardin, recently resigned as head coach at Navy and Frank Broyles of Arkansas is coaching the South.

Hardin said Casanova was unavoidably called back to a meeting of the American Coaches Association in Chicago.

Early reports said Casanova quit because officials were allowing Grisham and Neely of Oklahoma to play in the Hula Bowl. The two recently were banned from the Sooners' Gator Bowl team for signing pro contracts.

Casanova could not be reached for comment, but Hardin said "to my knowledge" the eligibility of the two players had nothing to do with Casanova's leaving.

Broyles said Thursday that Ernie Koy of Texas will handle the punting for his team with Larry Zeno of UCLA doing the place kicking.

Rick Redman of Washington, who boomed several 60-yard spirals in practice Wednesday, will handle both the punting and place kicking for the North.

The North's Jim Garcia, 240-pound tackle from Purdue and the South's Malcolm Walker, 250-pound center from Rice, both are nursing badly skinned thighs, the result of playing on the sanded field in the Shrine Game Saturday.

Both linemen are expected to be in action tonight.

A special All-Star game rule will be in effect giving the trailing team the option of kicking off or receiving after every touchdown.

The rule was employed in the North-South Shrine Game in Miami on Christmas Day. In that game, the North won 37-30 in the final five seconds after the South had rallied from a 24-point deficit to tie the score.

Ten-Game Strings on Line As Celts, Warriors Clash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Boston Celtics, who have never looked better in National Basketball Association play than they do this season, take a 10-game winning streak to San Francisco tonight.

Ten is a significant number also in the San Francisco record books. That's the number of consecutive games the Warriors have lost.

After the San Francisco contest, the Celtics return to Los Angeles for another game with the Lakers Saturday night.

The Celtics had things pretty much their own way in racing to a 112-104 victory over the Lakers Thursday night. They sank 18 field goals in the first 12 minutes and led 42-18 at the end of the first period.

Los Angeles just never caught up. By halftime Boston had a 68-57 advantage.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Kevin Loughery scored a career high of 31 points in leading the Baltimore Bullets to a 110-105 victory over the Detroit Pistons at Baltimore. The Bullets were ahead 56-43 at the half.

Loughery made 12 baskets out of 21 attempts from the field.

The Bullets, victors in their last four outings, now are within a half-game of the second-place St. Louis Hawks in the Western Division.

Naulls scored 25 points Thursday night, second high for Boston to Sam Jones' 33.

Elgin Baylor got off some remarkable shots for Los Angeles despite the tight guarding imposed by the defense-minded Celtics. He had 32 points, many of them on twisting layups.

NCAA Opens Its Annual Convention; Tops on Agenda Is War With AAU

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association opens it 59th annual convention today, a convention that is expected to center around the bitter war with the Amateur Athletic Union over control of amateur athletics in this country.

SENIOR BOWL QUEEN — The Senior Bowl queen, Linda Felber of Colfax, Wash., arrived in Mobile, Ala., Thursday for the game which is to be played this Saturday. Miss Felber, who was chosen America's Junior Miss of 1964 at Mobile last March, is a freshman at Washington State University. (AP Wirephoto)

Another major item on the agenda is NCAA concern over premature signing of collegiate athletes by professional football leagues.

The convention proper opens Monday, but the vanguard of some 3,000 delegates was on hand for today's opening session, involving registration and meeting of college track and baseball coaches.

Main issues when the 500-plus voting delegates — mostly athletic directors and faculty representatives — get down to business, involve what to do about the eager-beaver pros, the NCAA-AAU feud, and an academic standard for NCAA-sponsored competiton.

The way will be cleared for action on the premature pro signing of football collegians at a Sunday session of the Committee on College-Professional Relations.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said the NCAA's program against pros' jumping the gun in signing collegians probably will be aimed at a "reasonable course" of action.

Byers said the solution obviously was to convince the pro leagues that player drafts should be conducted after bowl games.

A furore was created before the Gator Bowl game when it was disclosed four Oklahoma players were signed by the pros prior to the Sooners' game with Florida State.

The Committee on Pro-College Relations, headed by Jim Corbett of Louisiana State, will meet with pro representatives as well as the NCAA's Legislative Committee and the American Football Coaches counterpart committee before drafting any recommendation.

Byers expects strong support of the proposal to put teeth into the NCAA's policy backing the U.S. Track and Field Federation in its four-year-old squabble with the AAU.

The amendment would invoke the same penalties for failure to boycott AAU competition as prevails for NCAA recruiting violations. These include probation and bans from bowl games and national tournaments.

Regardinging an expected Eastern College Athletic Conference proposal for a federation-AAU coalition, Byers said "This is apart from proposed NCAA legislation and has to be agreed upon by both parties."

Thus a floor battle could develop since the Eastern group includes 131 NCAA members. The coalition proposal recommends that the AAU retain sanctioning of international vents — the bone of contention in the squabble.

A pre-convention rap of the NCAA developed for the AAU Wednesday when the International Amateur Athletic Federation announced in London it would continue to recognize only the AAU as America's amateur athletic governing body.

Byers said the IAAF stand was nothing new and that the debated cooperative sanctioning issue had nothing to do with "any international rule."

The academic floor amendment would require a school to limit scholarships to incoming students with a predicted minimum grade-point average of 1.6 out of a possible 4.0.

The same academic minimum would be required for eligibility in NCAA championship meets and bowl games.

Jets in for Nervous Day As Joe Quarterbacks South

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Joe Willie Namath and his $400,000 arm have wrecked a lot of football teams, but they've never caused anybody the worry they will bring the New York Jets during the Senior Bowl game Saturday.

The Jets, who signed the Pennsylvania Hungarian last week in Miami for the grad fee of about $400,000 aren't overjoyed that Namath will be playing in the Senior Bowl since he has a bad knee.

But Jet Coach Weeb Ewbank has given the go-ahead and Namath, who never ceases to amaze anyone and everyone with what he can do with the pigskin, has jumped into the starting spot for the South.

Coach Tom Landry had planned for a week to start Steve Tensi of Florida State, but Namath showed so much in practice, even though playing on a knee that limits his movement, that Landry said he would go with Joe Willie.

Ewbank won't be able to make it to the game but he has sent offensive coach Cleve Rush to Mobile to protect the Jets' biggest investment since renting the stadium.

"We'll worry about the knee, sure, but we haven't given anyone any special instruction on what to do with Joe," Rush said. "I'm really just down to enjoy the ball game."

Rush, who spends most of his time working with the backs and receivers for the Jets, added "I'm also here to give Joe any help that I can and answer any questions that he has."

But admit it or not, Rush definitely will be the most nervous spectator among the sellout crowd of 40,605 that will jam the stadium to watch the game.

The Senior Bowl will be televised nationally by the National Broadcasting Co. and will get under way at 1 p.m., CST. The weather forecast calls for showers Saturday morning, but clear skies at game time.

The Senior Bowl marks the professional debut of the players of both teams each year. Members of the winning team will receive $900 each, while the losers will pick up checks for $700.

Before it was announced Thursday by Landry that Namath would start, the oddsmakers installed the South a conservative six-point choice. Namath's status most likely will send the odds up a little more.

The rules under which the game will be played are a mixture of college and professional regulations. The only big change will be a rule permitting the team trailing by as much as nine points to receive the kickoff after each touchdown, regardless of who scores.

Many people consider this the best South squad ever assembled, but the North defensive line is expected to limit the Rebels in what they can do with the football.

PHILS SIGN TAYLOR

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Second baseman Tony Taylor signed a contract Thursday to play with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1965.

Knocked rookie Bill Knibbs flat with a booming check which brought him a five-minute penalty, got a near-riotous reception, a police escort and an impromptu face full of liquid. It wasn't tea.

After all the turmoil Boston won anyway, 5-2, Thursday night.

The principals shrugged off the affair true to the silent sufferers bone-cracking code of the National Hockey League. But fans were incensed enough that Howe got a police patrol car ride away from Boston Garden even though he didn't want the protection.

Knibbs, whose goal at 1:06 of the opening period got things going, fell heavily and in obvious pain when checked into

"I kind of knew he was comvious pain when checked into the boards five minutes before the finish. It looked like he had sustained a head injury as teammates helped him into the dressing room.

Later he was found sitting with an ice bag on a badly bruised right knee.

"I kind of knew he was coming," Knibbs said. "But I never thought I'd get hit that hard. My head snapped back. I thought I had wrenched my back.

"I got my hands up to protect my head. But I got the knee jammed into the boards. I got hit just as I shot the puck into the Detroit end."

"He should be all right to play Saturday," said Boston coach Milt Schmidt. "Howe," he added with a shrug, "just doesn't realize how strong he is.

"If we get any more injuries I guess I'll have to get back in there and play."

"I didn't think I hit the kid that hard," said Howe. "I can hit 10 guys a night like that and they wouldn't get hurt.

"He must have had his feet tangled up.

"I knew he wasn't badly hurt. I could see he had his head protected.

"This is what I get paid to do. It sounds crazy but it's part of the game."

Outside the crowd stirred, then finally began to break.

Knibbs and fellow rookie Wayne Rivers, summoned weeks ago under emergency conditions which never were alleviated, got Boston off to a 2-0 lead. Murray Oliver, Ed Westfall and Tommy Williams followed with goals which built the score to 5-0 before Howe struck.

Gordie's goals made his season and career goal totals climb to 11 and 567, respectively.

The last place, injury-burdened Bruins had much the better of the battle with a tired-looking third-place Detroit outfit. The Westfall and Williams goals were unassisted following pickup of a loose puck and a steal.

The game marked the only action in the NHL Thursday night.

Whitlow Quits His Post With Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Col. Robert Whitlow, baseball's first and only athletic director, has quit his post with the Chicago Cubs.

Cub owner Phil Wrigley, who hired Whitlow, 45, a former Air Force colonel, two years ago, said Thursday:

"Whitlow came to me and said that under the present conditions he didn't feel he was earning his salary. I agreed. Bob was trying to bring some sensible ideas into baseball and I am afraid the game is not ready to accept them.

"When I hired him," continued Wrigley, "I thought it would be a great advantage to have someone operating in our organization who was not steeped in tradition. But a funny thing happened. Baseball people classified him as a college coach. As everyone knows, baseball reacts unfavorably to those who try to improve on various system."

Wrigley said the athletic director's job would not be filled until "baseball is ready for such a man."

Among the many innovations Whitlow, former Air Force Academy athletic director, tried to institute with the Cubs were special diets, detailed charts on pitchers and batters, and a new set of exercises.

It was no secret that Whitlow and Head Cub Coach Bob Kennedy and others with the Cubs failed to see eye-to-eye.

Kennedy's reaction to Whitlow's departure was:

"I have no feeling, pro or con."

South Rates Favorite Role in Hula Bowl Tilt

HONOLULU (AP) — The South All-Stars, led by Craig Morton, Gale Sayer and Larry Elkins, rate as slight favorites over the North in the annual Hula Bowl game Friday night.

And, the South gained more of an edge Thursday when Len Cassanova, co-coach of the North, pulled out of the game and flew back to the mainland.

Despite weather forecasts for showers, an all-out passing duel is expected, with California's Morton facing two formidable opponents in Jerry Rhome of Tulsa and Bob Berry of Oregon.

For the first time in its 19-year history, the Hula Bowl will be nationally televised. The game will be video-taped here with the tape flown immediately to Los Angeles for editing and showing Saturday afternoon on the mainland.

Heavy rains Thursday morning turned the Honolulu stadium field into a quagmire and forced both teams to cancel their scheduled practice sessions.

The teams limbered up along Waikiki Beach and later held skull sessions at their hotel.

The South gets the edge mainly on the strength of its explosive backfield which includes Elkins of Baylor at flanker back, Sayers of Kansas at halfback and Jim Grisham of Oklahoma at fullback.

Grisham and Oklahoma tackle Ralph Neely, both originally barred from playing here for signing pro contracts prior to Gator Bowl, are now scheduled to see action for the South, according to promoter Mackay Yanagisawa.

Morton has the advantage of being able to throw to his California teammate Jack Schrabu, the 6-foot-6 end who caught the winning touchdown pass in the East-West Shrine Game in San Francisco last Saturday.

The North has a pair of excellent passers in Rhome, the Tulsa ace who broke 18 national passing records this season, and Berry, who had a great three-year career under Casanova at Oregon.

Casanova had shared the North coaching chores with Wayne Hardin, recently resigned as head coach at Navy and Frank Broyles of Arkansas is coaching the South.

Hardin said Casanova was unavoidably called back to a meeting of the American Coaches Association in Chicago.

Early reports said Casanova quit because officials were allowing Grisham and Neely of Oklahoma to play in the Hula Bowl. The two recently were banned from the Sooners' Gator Bowl team for signing pro contracts.

Casanova could not be reached for comment, but Hardin said "to my knowledge" the eligibility of the two players had nothing to do with Casanova's leaving.

Broyles said Thursday that Ernie Koy of Texas will handle the punting for his team with Larry Zeno of UCLA doing the place kicking.

Rick Redman of Washington, who boomed several 60-yard spirals in practice Wednesday, will handle both the punting and place kicking for the North.

The North's Jim Garcia, 240-pound tackle from Purdue and the South's Malcolm Walker, 250-pound center from Rice, both are nursing badly skinned thighs, the result of playing on the sanded field in the Shrine Game Saturday.

Both linemen are expected to be in action tonight.

A special All-Star game rule will be in effect giving the trailing team the option of kicking off or receiving after every touchdown.

The rule was employed in the North-South Shrine Game in Miami on Christmas Day. In that game, the North won 37-30 in the final five seconds after the South had rallied from a 24-point deficit to tie the score.

Ten-Game Strings on Line As Celts, Warriors Clash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Boston Celtics, who have never looked better in National Basketball Association play than they do this season, take a 10-game winning streak to San Francisco tonight.

Ten is a significant number also in the San Francisco record books. That's the number of consecutive games the Warriors have lost.

After the San Francisco contest, the Celtics return to Los Angeles for another game with the Lakers Saturday night.

The Celtics had things pretty much their own way in racing to a 112-104 victory over the Lakers Thursday night. They sank 18 field goals in the first 12 minutes and led 42-18 at the end of the first period.

Los Angeles just never caught up. By halftime Boston had a 68-57 advantage.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Kevin Loughery scored a career high of 31 points in leading the Baltimore Bullets to a 110-105 victory over the Detroit Pistons at Baltimore. The Bullets were ahead 56-43 at the half.

Loughery made 12 baskets out of 21 attempts from the field.

The Bullets, victors in their last four outings, now are within a half-game of the second-place St. Louis Hawks in the Western Division.

Taking up the slack in admirable fashion is Willie Naulls, the former UCLA star who gained speed by trimming his weight to 220 pounds.

Naulls scored 25 points Thursday night, second high for Boston to Sam Jones' 33.

Elgin Baylor got off some remarkable shots for Los Angeles despite the tight guarding imposed by the defense-minded Celtics. He had 32 points, many of them on twisting layups.

Nothing Like Steady Job, Star Declares

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA)—Between them, Jack Jones and Bill Cosby are appearing on television more often than most stars of television series.

Additionally, Cosby will be a regular on a series next season, and Jones might be.

Cosby, who will costar with Robert Culp in NBC-TV's I Spy, as an undercover agent, recently has been seen with Jack Paar and Andy Williams, in several appearances with Johnny Carson, and, in February will be with Jimmy Dean.

In March, he will head for Hollywood and his acting debut, barring the pilot film he made for I Spy.

"The series is another dimension," said Cosby, a stand-up comedian who looks more like a businessman, "but now it's a matter of seeing what I can do. I have never acted before, but Sheldon Leonard, who will produce the series, convinced me that with Bobby Culp's help, I would come along fine.

"The hardest thing, I discovered when we filmed the pilot, is learning to listen. I'm used to working alone, and ad libbing.

"I also forgot about the camera. I tend to turn my back on it. When I come through a door, I come through the way everybody does, but I always wind up with my back to the camera as I shut it."

Cosby, a Philadelphian and former star athlete at Temple University, will be moving to Los Angeles with his wife Camille. He confesses he loves living in Philadelphia, and will keep his permanent home there.

He and Camille, who will become parents for the first time in April, met when she was a University of Maryland student.

"It was right after they integrated the college, and man, they had a great social life for Negro girls. A friend introduced me to a girl on campus, so I went to see. She was beautiful, we met, and I married her."

When Jack Jones hosts the premiere of NBC-TV's new musical series, Hullabaloo, on January 12, he will be making his 20th network television appearance in 16 months.

"I'm pretty content with the way things are going," the handsome singer guffawed. And he should be. Aside from his heavy television schedule, Jack has several hit singles and albums released on the Kapp label, and movie offers are pouring in.

"I have been talking with MGM about a remake of 'Girl Crazy,' and I like the idea. But this is a critical time for me, and I have to be careful what I do, and the direction I go. My career has not been a big bombastic thing, but it has been growing steadily and I wouldn't want it any other way."

Jack, who says he has a desire to act in serious drama, is presently negotiating to star in a television series. "But for a regular diet," he said, "I don't want a variety show. I want to do a comedy series."

Dream Was Real; She Jumped Out

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Christine Stavrdylaki, 23, dreamed she was eloping with her fiance and jumped from a third-story window.

Christine broke a leg, a foot and her pelvis.

"My dream was so real," Christine told police. "My fiance had a ladder at the window and was beckoning me to climb down. The only trouble was that not only was my fiance a dream but so was the ladder. I awoke to find myself lying in the street."

Christine jumped Wednesday from a window of the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital in a Sydney suburb, where she was under treatment for a chest complaint.

Cosby, who will costar with Robert Culp in NBC-TV's I Spy, as an undercover agent, recently has been seen with Jack Paar and Andy Williams, in several appearances with Johnny Carson, and, in February will be with Jimmy Dean.

In March, he will head for Hollywood and his acting debut, barring the pilot film he made for I Spy.

"The series is another dimension," said Cosby, a stand-up comedian who looks more like a businessman, "but now it's a matter of seeing what I can do. I have never acted before, but Sheldon Leonard, who will produce the series, convinced me that with Bobby Culp's help, I would come along fine.

"The hardest thing, I discovered when we filmed the pilot, is learning to listen. I'm used to working alone, and ad libbing.

"I also forgot about the camera. I tend to turn my back on it. When I come through a door, I come through the way everybody does, but I always wind up with my back to the camera as I shut it."

Cosby, a Philadelphian and former star athlete at Temple University, will be moving to Los Angeles with his wife Camille. He confesses he loves living in Philadelphia, and will keep his permanent home there.

He and Camille, who will become parents for the first time in April, met when she was a University of Maryland student.

"It was right after they integrated the college, and man, they had a great social life for Negro girls. A friend introduced me to a girl on campus, so I went to see. She was beautiful, we met, and I married her."

When Jack Jones hosts the premiere of NBC-TV's new musical series, Hullabaloo, on January 12, he will be making his 20th network television appearance in 16 months.

"I'm pretty content with the way things are going," the handsome singer guffawed. And he should be. Aside from his heavy television schedule, Jack has several hit singles and albums released on the Kapp label, and movie offers are pouring in.

"I have been talking with MGM about a remake of 'Girl Crazy,' and I like the idea. But this is a critical time for me, and I have to be careful what I do, and the direction I go. My career has not been a big bombastic thing, but it has been growing steadily and I wouldn't want it any other way."

Jack, who says he has a desire to act in serious drama, is presently negotiating to star in a television series. "But for a regular diet," he said, "I don't want a variety show. I want to do a comedy series."

Dream Was Real; She Jumped Out

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Christine Stavrdylaki, 23, dreamed she was eloping with her fiance and jumped from a third-story window.

Christine broke a leg, a foot and her pelvis.

"My dream was so real," Christine told police. "My fiance had a ladder at the window and was beckoning me to climb down. The only trouble was that not only was my fiance a dream but so was the ladder. I awoke to find myself lying in the street."

Christine jumped Wednesday from a window of the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital in a Sydney suburb, where she was under treatment for a chest complaint.

Searchlight Will Lead Way to Tests for TB

A searchlight will lead the way Jan. 14 to TB Association headquarters, 809 N. Cascade Ave., for any resident who wants to be tested for the dread disease.

Miss Mary Frances Loughlin, executive director of the El Paso County TB Association, says the searchlight is intended to remind residents that the hunt for TB continues, but also that they must cooperate by volunteering the two minutes or so required for the test.

The light is being donated by Clarion L. Chambon of Surplus City whose crew will have it glowing before 6 p.m. when the night session of the testing begins. Testing will continue until 8 p.m.

Residents are urged to take the skin and breathing tests. Association officials remind men residents that they are considerably less productive if they are sick, and discovery of an early case of TB or emphysema can mean fast attention and perhaps no loss of work time at all.

Such special testing nights are one of the most important testing operations of the year for the association. The city is generally covered with test during the year with school programs, testing programs for public employes, and testing of personnel at industrial sites.

"But there are the many who are missed in our major testing programs," Miss Loughlin said, "The small businessman and his several employees, for example, who can only be tested if they come to us."

Men and women are especially encouraged to take the two tests. There is ample parking space and the searchlight will make the TB Association headquarters easy to find.

"Remember," says TB Association president Joel A. H. Webb, "your lungs are doing a good job because they are healthy. But if they lose this health, you go down with them. Don't cross yourself off the list — make sure your lungs are all they should be. If they are not, now is the time to get to your doctor, not later."

Searchlight Will Lead Way to Tests for TB

A searchlight will lead the way Jan. 14 to TB Association headquarters, 809 N. Cascade Ave., for any resident who wants to be tested for the dread disease.

Miss Mary Frances Loughlin, executive director of the El Paso County TB Association, says the searchlight is intended to remind residents that the hunt for TB continues, but also that they must cooperate by volunteering the two minutes or so required for the test.

The light is being donated by Clarion L. Chambon of Surplus City whose crew will have it glowing before 6 p.m. when the night session of the testing begins. Testing will continue until 8 p.m.

Residents are urged to take the skin and breathing tests. Association officials remind men residents that they are considerably less productive if they are sick, and discovery of an early case of TB or emphysema can mean fast attention and perhaps no loss of work time at all.

Such special testing nights are one of the most important testing operations of the year for the association. The city is generally covered with test during the year with school programs, testing programs for public employes, and testing of personnel at industrial sites.

"But there are the many who are missed in our major testing programs," Miss Loughlin said, "The small businessman and his several employees, for example, who can only be tested if they come to us."

Men and women are especially encouraged to take the two tests. There is ample parking space and the searchlight will make the TB Association headquarters easy to find.

"Remember," says TB Association president Joel A. H. Webb, "your lungs are doing a good job because they are healthy. But if they lose this health, you go down with them. Don't cross yourself off the list — make sure your lungs are all they should be. If they are not, now is the time to get to your doctor, not later."

INCOME PROPERTY

A very exceptional opportuniy for an employed or retired person to secure a large income from property which has enjoyed full occupancy for past 21 years, because it is ideally located and contains a large number of small highly improved units, each complete with kitchen and bath. These units are of the popular demand type and are moderately priced which is possible because of the large number of units in the property. Our experience proves that there is a constant, unsatisfied demand for this type of apartment. Will yield a high percentage on investment. 634-2706.

Foreign Aid Foe Shows Mellowing

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Otto E. Passman, arch-foe of the foreign aid program, shows signs of mellowing.

The Louisiana Democrat said in an interview he would not propose any cuts in the program this year until he sees how much money President Johnson wants for it.

"I am convinced that the President is sincere in his announced determination to cut out the waste in foreign aid," Passman said. "I am going to give him the benefit of the doubt because there is every indication that he means what he says. I am going to help him find all the waste there is in the foreign aid program."

For the last 11 years, Passman has headed a House Appropriations subcommittee that handles foreign aid financing. He heads the same group this year.

"How much do you claim to have cut the program during those 11 years?" he was asked.

"It is not a claim; it is a fact," he replied. "Congress has cut the program at least $8 billion, and it should have done better."

Until last year, Passman had a remarkable batting average in his campaign to trim appropriations. Annually he came to the House floor armed with reams of statistics to back up his demands for reductions.

Last year was different.

The Appropriations Committee overrode Passman and recommended a cut of only $219 million from the $3.9 billion requested by the President.

The committee's attitude so incensed Passman that he declined to manage the bill on the floor.

Czech Architect Is Not Seeking Asylum

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A Czechoslovak architect who came to India to study has requested a visa to enter the United States but it is not correct to say he is seeking asylum, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said today.

The Czech, identified only as "Novotny," was told his application will be sympathetically considered, the spokesman said.

The spokesman declined to specify why the architect wants to come to the United States, saying such matters are confidential.

But he pointed out that it would be possible for a Czechoslovak citizen to obtain a visa for immigration as well as a visit. Czechoslovakia's annual immigration quota is not used up, he said.

NIGHT MONKEY

Barro Colorado Island, in the Canal Zone, is the habitat of a monkey that can see well only in the dark. This "night monkey" has conspicuous golden eyes developed to function best in dim light. It sleeps in tree holes during the day and ventures forth well after twilight, hopping about with great agility and eating frogs, insects and leaves.

Randy Goes to School Through Telephone

MODEL, Ga. (UPI)—Randy Jackson, 12, attends school by telephone.

Randy, son of Mrs. Ruby Davis, was stricken by what some physicians describe as "marble bone" disease six years ago. The youth is confined to his bed.

The local post of the American Veterans of World War II learned of Randy's plight and made arrangements with Southern Bell Telephone Co. for a special telephone system from the classroom to the youth's bedroom.

Microphones are used by the teachers and Randy to relay information. Randy sends his homework to the school to be graded.

Randy's teaches says he is a "very bright student" and is passing in all of his courses.

How to Cut Your Own Income Tax

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Senior ciaizens received several tax breaks from the Congress last year when the new tax law was being written. The three principal areas that will tend to reduce the amount of tax paid by older persons were:

—The elimination of the old one per cent rule on the cost of medicines and drugs.

—An increase in their retirement income credit.

—A once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to realize some tax-free profit on the sale of a home in which they had lived at least five of the eight years before the sale.

In former years medical expenses were deductible only to the extent they exceeded 3 per cent of income. Drug expenses could be included only after they exceeded 1 per cent of income.

Several years ago Congress eliminated the 3 per cent feature on medical bills but retained the 1 per cent principle on the cost of drugs and medicines. For many elderly the cost of medicine exceeded their doctor bills.

Now the 1 per cent restriction also has been eliminated and the total cost of all medicines and drugs, the cost of hospital insurance, doctors' and dentists' fees and hospital expenses are all fully deductible for all couples where one of the spouses is 65 or older.

This new tax break also applies to children who are supporting their aged parents. This makes fully deductible the cost of all medicines purchased for the parents.

As before, all other medical expenses for dependent parents are fully deductible on the return of the son or daughter who furnishes the chief support without regard to the 3 per cent rule which applies to all under-65 taxpayers.

The second major change in income credit. Under the old law a tax payer over 65 was permitted to take a direct tax credit on retirement income up to a maximum of $1,524 providing he had earned income of at least $600 for each of any 10 calendar years.

Retirement income for this purpose included pensions, annuities, interest, rents and dividends. A taxpayer's wife, if she was 65 or older, could claim an identical credit if she also met the required 10-year work experience. If she did not, she could not claim the credit even though she may have had retirement income.

Under the new law a husband and wife may elect to combine their retirement incomes on a joint return and the maximum upon which they may compute their credit is raised to $2,286.

The tax rate used in computing the credit on 1964 returns is 17 per cent. For later years it is 15 per cent. It formerly had been 20 per cent.

The biggest tax break of all for oldsters could come when they sell their home. Formerly, they followed the same rules as all other taxpayers: the profit, if any, on the sale of a home was not taxed if a replacement home cost as much or more than the former home was sold for. If there was no replacement home, then the gain was taxed at capital gain rates.

The difficulty for oldsters was that many of them moved in with their children or into an apartment after selling their home and thereby failed to realize any advantage from this tax concession. Congress corrected this shortcoming in 1964.

The law now provides that a person 65 or older pays no tax at all on the sale of his home—regardless of the amount of profit—if the selling price is $20,000 or less.

If the selling price is more than $20,000 the amount of profit not subject to tax is the ratio between $20,000 and the selling price. For example, if the selling price is $30,000, $20,000 being two-thirds of $30,000, two-thirds of the gain is not taxable.

A taxpayer over 65 realizes $50,000 after paying the broker's commission on the sale of his home on which he had a total investment of $25,000, including original cost and subsequent improvements. He had lived in the home continuously for 15 years. Here's how he accounts for the sale:

Amount realized, $50,000; Cost basis, $25,000; Gain, $25,000. Ratio of $20,000 to $50,000, two-fifths; Part of gain to be excluded (two-fifths x $25,000), $10,000. Part of gain subject to capital gains tax, $15,000.

Remember, this is a benefit which may be claimed only once and it must involve the taxpayer's residence and not some other piece of property he may own.

Miner Workers Lower Age for Retirement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United Mine Workers (UMW) today lowered the union retirement age from 60 to 55 for full pension benefits, making it one of the most liberal union-operated pension plans in the country.

Trustees of the UMW welfare and retirement fund announced in a statement that the liberalization of pension benefits will become effective Feb. 1.

At the same time, the fund trustees said that monthly pension payments will be increased from a maximum of $75 to a new top of $85. This will benefit more than 64,000 miners currently receiving pensions, as well as new pensioners.

Those who retire under the plan also receive hospital and medical care benefits financed by the fund. These benefits for retired miners and their dependents remain unchanged.

If she did not, she could not claim the credit even though she may have had retirement income.

Under the new law a husband and wife may elect to combine their retirement incomes on a joint return and the maximum upon which they may compute their credit is raised to $2,286.

The tax rate used in computing the credit on 1964 returns is 17 per cent. For later years it is 15 per cent. It formerly had been 20 per cent.

The biggest tax break of all for oldsters could come when they sell their home. Formerly, they followed the same rules as all other taxpayers: the profit, if any, on the sale of a home was not taxed if a replacement home cost as much or more than the former home was sold for. If there was no replacement home, then the gain was taxed at capital gain rates.

The difficulty for oldsters was that many of them moved in with their children or into an apartment after selling their home and thereby failed to realize any advantage from this tax concession. Congress corrected this shortcoming in 1964.

The law now provides that a person 65 or older pays no tax at all on the sale of his home—regardless of the amount of profit—if the selling price is $20,000 or less.

If the selling price is more than $20,000 the amount of profit not subject to tax is the ratio between $20,000 and the selling price. For example, if the selling price is $30,000, $20,000 being two-thirds of $30,000, two-thirds of the gain is not taxable.

A taxpayer over 65 realizes $50,000 after paying the broker's commission on the sale of his home on which he had a total investment of $25,000, including original cost and subsequent improvements. He had lived in the home continuously for 15 years. Here's how he accounts for the sale:

Amount realized, $50,000; Cost basis, $25,000; Gain, $25,000. Ratio of $20,000 to $50,000, two-fifths; Part of gain to be excluded (two-fifths x $25,000), $10,000. Part of gain subject to capital gains tax, $15,000.

Remember, this is a benefit which may be claimed only once and it must involve the taxpayer's residence and not some other piece of property he may own.

Miner Workers Lower Age for Retirement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United Mine Workers (UMW) today lowered the union retirement age from 60 to 55 for full pension benefits, making it one of the most liberal union-operated pension plans in the country.

Trustees of the UMW welfare and retirement fund announced in a statement that the liberalization of pension benefits will become effective Feb. 1.

At the same time, the fund trustees said that monthly pension payments will be increased from a maximum of $75 to a new top of $85. This will benefit more than 64,000 miners currently receiving pensions, as well as new pensioners.

Those who retire under the plan also receive hospital and medical care benefits financed by the fund. These benefits for retired miners and their dependents remain unchanged.
